has one leg on your account? Curse you, the hour for my vengeance is here. I stole your boy and took him to Harris, then to Galveston, and a friend of mine took him and adopted him as his child and raised him well. He has completed my vengeance. To be plain, your son who was lost, is married to your daughter.

Wyne escaped, and if caught will be lynched. The young woman is probably dying of prostration.

TRIED TO ESCAPE.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 29.—Corporal Arnold, the soldier who has been in close confinement in the post guard house at Fort Walla Walla, on a charge of breaking the gun racks and giving the soldiers arms on the night Hunt was lynched, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape Friday evening. It has been customary to remove the irons from the prisoners' limbs during the day time, putting them on again at night. The officer of the day was warned by one of Arnold's fellow prisoners not to put the irons on Arnold. Upon close examination it was discovered that Arnold had bound heavy rags around his ankles, so that the irons would not fit. He had loosened several bolts in the cell preparatory to making a break for liberty. The damage was repaired.

HAYTIAN AFFAIRS.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The steamer Osama, which arrived here this morning from Haytian ports, reports all quiet at places where they touched, and that Hippolyte has effectually quelled the insurrection of May 28. At that time it was learned that 280 persons in all were killed.

HOT IN SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Lieut. Finley, of the signal service, states that yesterday was the hottest day in San Francisco since June 1877, on that date the signal service thermometer registered 96 degrees while yesterday it registered 92 degrees. The temperature of streets a little after midday was 107 degrees.

VIOLATION OF LOTTERY LAW.

DETROIT, June 29.—twenty-eight thousand copies of the Detroit Commercial Advertiser and Home Journal issued June 26th, are held here under the lottery law. The president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the company, were arrested, fined $100 and costs.

BIG FIRE IN ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, June 29.—The wholesale and retail grocery establishment of David Nicholson, was completely burned this morning. Loss $260,000. Insurance is $175,000. Other losses will amount to about $16,000, which are partly covered by insurance. Cause of fire unknown.

FOREIGN.

A MADMAN'S FREAK.

PARIS, June 29.—Baron De Plinval, aged 24 years, after dining last night with Miss Mikea, who keeps a counter in the universal exhibition, took her home to his father's house. His father refused to admit them and the baron and his companion went to his apartments in rue Jacob where the baron and his companion barricaded the door, then he seated himself at the open window with a rifle while the woman stood by with a box of cartridges, Baron at once began to fire at all persons passing. He wounded a woman and when the police attempted to enter the building two were shot. Flames appeared in the room and when a fireman attempted to direct a stream of water on them he was shot down. The baron and his companion finally jumped from the window receiving fatal injuries.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

BERLIN, June 29.—This year will witness a great addition to the military expenses of Austria. The increase is made necessary by the formidable attitude of Russia, near the Austrian frontier, and the probability that the Russian forces in that direction will be increased instead of diminished. Austria proposes practically to put Russia in a state of military occupation, with a force sufficient to confront an unexpected attack. Permanent barracks are to be erected in Cracow, Pezeszow, Tarnopol and Przemyall and other places, to take the place of temporary barracks, put up during the war scare of about three years ago. The temporary barracks were of timber, the new barracks will be of stone and will cost many millions of florins. New fortifications are also to be constructed for the defense of places now open to sudden attacks; the artillery in Galicia is to be raised to a war footing, new light repeating rifles are to be served out to the troops, and smokeless powder provided for the heavy ordnance. Altogether, when those costly preparations are completed, Russia will find herself face to face with a well organized force, in strength and equipment at least equal to her own. The Russian troops on the Austrian frontier are constantly being augmented in numbers both of cavalry and infantry drafted mostly from the Caucasus.

ANOTHER STORM IN IOWA.

DES MOINES, Ia. June 28.—A heavy rain-storm struck this city yesterday afternoon. The rain fell at the rate of nearly three inches an hour, soon flooding the streets. For a while the wind blew seventy miles an hour. Trees were broken and some streets are littered with branches. Several buildings were unroofed and otherwise damaged. Reports from surrounding towns show the storm was even more severe north and west of Des Moines. Considerable damage was done to grain.

THE MISSOURI RISING.

KANSAS CITY, June 29.—The danger of a serious flood from the Missouri river becomes greater hourly. At seven this morning the river is reported rising at the rate of an inch an hour. In lower part of Harlem opposite, water is running through the streets and a number of people are moving to higher ground.

STORM IN INDIANA.

HILLSBORO, Ind., June 29.—The severest rain and wind storm ever known here occurred yesterday. Trees were uprooted and streets flooded until impassable, storms of wind, hail and rain passed over different portions of Southeastern Indiana and Kentucky yesterday afternoon. Great damage was done to wheat.

CYCLONE NEAR DENVER.

DENVER, Col., June 29.—News has just been received of a destructive cyclone which passed over this country twenty-five miles east of this city on Thursday night. Houses were blown away, trees uprooted and carried away, and crops for miles around completely ruined. A dozen persons were injured but none seriously. C. S. Clark, who has a ranch near Deer Trail, reported that the hail fell for twenty minutes and killed about 200 sheep, and put out the eyes of many others. Chickens and ducks were also killed by hail stones which are said to have been as large as hens' eggs.

A BLACK FIEND.

SEATTLE, June 29.—Mrs. G. Huber, sister of Miller R. Galloway, a well known citizen of Seattle, was the victim of an attempted criminal assault Friday evening about 8 o'clock. Mrs. Huber lives near Renton and was walking home about 8:30 p. m., when she was attacked, beaten and seriously bruised by an unknown colored man. Fearing that her cries might bring assistance, the Black fiend took to his heels and has not since been seen. A deputy sheriff is hunting Mrs. Huber's assailant down, and if caught the people of Renton threaten to lynch him.

RAUM BEATS HIM.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Secretary Noble has returned to Washington. His visit here was a short one. He arrived Thursday. A friend of the secretary's said Friday evening:

"Secretary Noble's resignation as head of the department of the interior is in the hands of President Harrison. The president, however, will probably refuse to accept the resignation until next fall, when he will appoint Secretary Noble as one of the new judges of the United States circuit court. There have been rumors some time that Secretary Noble had resigned or intended to resign, but they have always been denied at Washington. The fact is, nevertheless, that President Harrison has received his resignation. The secretary will remain in the cabinet until the president has decided upon his successor. There is scarcely any doubt of his appointment as a United States circuit court judge.

THAT ACCIDENT ON N. P.

HELENA, Mont., June 28.—The two-line item sent out from St. Paul Friday night of a sleeper being derailed near Rosebud, Mont., concealed the features of a mishap, as thrilling and marvelous as has happened in many a day. The accident occurred soon after midnight Friday morning, in a furious rain storm, and about two miles from Rosebud. The sleeper "Dickinson" was the rear car of the Pacific express. From some cause it jumped the track, made a complete revolution and settled on one side in four feet of water in the Yellowstone river. There were twenty persons in the car, including eight women and three children. The night was dark and the panic among the imprisoned passengers as they felt the cold water gradually rising around their feet can scarcely be pictured. But a furious struggle for liberty began. Hands, feet and everything available were employed to smash the windows on the upper side of their prison. The train stopped as soon as possible, and the conductor and crew returned and worked heroically. Several rescues were due to their bravery.

NO ONE SERIOUSLY HURT.

Finally all were taken out, bleeding from wounds and gashes from the broken glass, drenched and shivering from the waters of the river, and the downpour of rain, and clad in scant night apparel. Within a few minutes after the last passenger was extricated the car slid further down and settled in nine feet of water. All the personal baggage is at the bottom of the raging Yellowstone. Clad in such blankets and articles of clothing as the other passengers kindly furnished, the picturesque unfortunates were put on board and carried to Forsythe, the nearest station. They are expected to arrive in Helena tomorrow night. Among the passengers dumped into the Yellowstone en dishabille were Major Scott, president of the Petersburg & Richmond railway, and E. Beninghoyen, of Chicago, Northwestern agent of the Germania Life Insurance company. While all the passengers were bruised and gashed, no one was seriously hurt, and after the effect of the shock is overcome they will be all right. A gentleman on board who lives in New South Wales was in the stateroom when the car tumbled into the river. He was chopped out in response to his vigorous cries. When rescued his senses had taken complete leave of him, and for several hours he was completely daft. He had to be carried from the train at Livingston.

RECIPROCITY.

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 29.—The San Domingo reciprocity is likely to come close on the heels of the Spanish Cuban proclamation. It is understood details have gone forward to a point where the formalities of ratification may soon be exchanged between the two countries.

CUT THEIR TONGUES OUT.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 29.—Win Oks, a Chinese slipper maker and his wife Di Toy, cut out their tongues yesterday. Ok's dead body was found this morning. Woman will probably die. The couple determined on suicide being old and poor and Oks sight was failing.

STATE.

FROM CAMP GRANT.

EUGENE, Or., June 29.—The opening of the week's encampment of the Second regiment at Camp Grant has so far been most favorable. There are only two drawbacks—want of shade and water. Companies G and K from Coos Bay arrived at 2 o'clock yesterday, completing the regiment. The weather is clear and warm. No shade is to be had on the ground, except that of the tents, and the sun comes down pretty strong, so that already the most delicate complexions have changed to a ruddy hue. It has proven an impossibility to get water by driving wells, which is quite an inconvenience. Divine services were held yesterday afternoon on the ground. The men are very orderly about the city and no misbehavior is to be feared, but a provost marshal is on duty to insure discipline out of camp. Hundreds of people visit the camp each day and stand outside of the line to listen to the music of the band each evening. The band is one of which the regiment and listeners are justly proud. Their music is worth going to hear. The regular drills will commence today and continue the entire week.

DISAPPEARED.

PORTLAND, Or., June 29.—Geo. W. Williams, traveling salesman for Theodore Gladding, Portland agent of Lorillard Bros., is missing. He left this city for a trip to the Sound cities May 23d, and the last seen or heard of him was in Seattle, where, June 6th, he cashed Mr. Gladding's check for $175, saying he was going to Port Townsend. He expected to be back in Seattle to meet Mr. Gladding June 10th, but failed to keep the appointment. As Williams was not a drinking man, and had no authority to collect bills, it is thought he has met with foul play. He was a well-bred gentlemen with a blonde beard and eye-glasses. Mr. Gladding is setting on foot an investigation into his disappearance.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

In the Name of the Prophet, figs! cry the vendors of the fruit in Constantinople. Certainly a "great cry over a little wool." Scarcely less foolish are those who fly to violent physicking for costiveness. They dose themselves vio-ently, weaken their bowels by so doing, and disable them from acting regularly. The last condition of such people is worse than the first. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the safe and effective substitute for such vast expedients. What is needed is a gentle but thorough laxative, which not only insures action of the bowels without pain or weakening effects, while also promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile into its proper channel. Dyspepsia, debility, kidney complaints, rheumatism and malaria give in to the Bitters.

The Window in Art and Literature.

Many a famous picture has a window for its setting. Noah sending forth the dove from the little cubit window. The mother of Sisera looking out at a window as she cried through the lattice, "Why is his chariot so long in coming?" Sister Anne at her watch on the top of the tower, who saw only a "great cloud of dust coming this way." Charlotte Corday, ever standing behind prison bars. Is it accident that in fiction all pleasant things are seen from within, while pain and disappointment lurk in ambush for those who look through the wrong side of a window? A beggar child feels all the lonelier that she has no part in the Christmas cheer which she regards from the outside of a lofty casement.

Poor Enoch Arden, tempted by the glowing window of Philip's house, saw framed in that "comfortable square of ruddy light" his happiness and his despair. But from "Casa Guidi windows" the mistress of magicians looked down upon a little child singing "O Bella Liberta" and "leant upon the music as a theme" for a masterpiece of art. It was inspiration that gave the name of The Open Window to the magazine of the Shut-in society. Through it the dear feeble folk catch a glimpse of the great, busy world, where their heavy feet may not go. It is like a draught of wine to them.

Bronson Alcott's Potato Bugs.

The Listener heard a singular story about Bronson Alcott at Concord the other day, told to illustrate his remarkable gullelessness of nature. When the potato bugs first began to ravage the eastern fields, a good many years ago, Alcott had a promising potato patch, and his next neighbor also had one, the two fields adjoining, with a fence between them. Alcott rose very early in the morning and went at his field, and was out of it by the time his neighbor got up.

The neighbor worked very industriously clearing his vines of the beetles, which he stripped off into a tin pail and then put into a fire which he had built near by, but he seemed to make no impression upon the pestilent insects. One day Alcott passed by as the neighbor was thus busily engaged and saw him putting a pailful of the potato beetles upon the fire. The philosopher looked very much pained.

"My friend," said he, "I wonder how you can be so cruel as to burn those insects."

"Have to do something with them," said the neighbor. "I see your vines look pretty clear. What do you do with yours?"

"Oh," said Alcott, "I gather them off carefully into a basket, and then, as gently as I can, throw them over the fence into your field!"—Boston Transcript.

Rode Ashore on an Elephant.

Years ago there was a tragic shipwreck on the Maine coast near Mount Desert. The vessel was transporting Van Amburg's caravan. This yarn of a drowned circus was related to me in Wiscasset by an ancient mariner in that salty port. According to his recollections, the lions and the tigers and the monkeys and nearly all the crew were drowned. The one who came out of the disaster easiest was the elephant keeper. He mounted his huge charge, prodded the animal behind the ear and rode the bulky swimmer triumphantly to the rock bound coast of Maine.—Hohman F. Day in Lewiston Journal.
