"German Syrup"

Croup. We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

Ed. L. Willits, of Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when troubled with Croup and never saw any preparation act like it. It is simply miraculous.

Mrs. Jas. W. Kirk, Daughters' College, Harrodsburg, Ky. I have depended upon it in attacks of Croup with my little daughter, and find it an invaluable remedy.

Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs.

A New Scheme.

"Don't want no books, no soap, no pictures," said the hard faced woman to the strange young man at the front door.

"I am not an agent, madam," said the stranger. "My business is of an entirely different nature. Do you remember a weary, ragged and hungry tramp calling at your kitchen door about six weeks ago?"

She didn't remember.

"Let me refresh your memory. You were dressed in an old morning wrap, tied at the waist with a string, your front hair was in tins and there was a dark smudge across your nose."

She tried to slam the door, but his foot happened to be in the way.

"You had a rolling pin in one hand and a kettle of hot water in the other, with which you threatened to scold the poor wayfarer."

"Well, I didn't scald him anyhow. You can't get any assault and battery case against me."

"Nothing of the sort was intended, ma'am. I merely wished to let you know that I was that supposed tramp. The bundle I carried on that occasion contained a camera. See! I have already been offered four dollars for the picture of you I obtained, but if you want it for $3.50 it is yours."

He made the sale.—Indianapolis Journal.

In the Catacombs.

I was thoroughly scared once, and that was in Vienna, during the great exposition in 1873. During my perambulations about Austria's beautiful capital I came across a man who wanted to show me the catacombs, which, by the way, are fully the equal of the far famed Roman ones. I consented and descended into the crypt of St. Stephen's cathedral, from which we entered the catacombs. The atmosphere was damp and misty, and the darkness almost impenetrable. Our torches shed a dim light upon the gloomy and mysterous scene, the shadows standing out with redoubled blackness, while here and there a stray bat was whirring from pillar to pillar.

Taken altogether, the scene was very weird and impressive. I was slightly in advance of the remainder of the party, and had just turned a corner when I ran into a hooded figure leaning against a pillar. My imagination, which had been wrought up to concert pitch, at once conjured up a pair of glittering eyes and gleaming teeth. I was startled, to say the least, and was very glad when the torches revealed the skeleton of an Augustine monk.

These catacombs were used by the Christians while the city was in possession of the Turks.—Exchange.

An Improved Band Saw.

An improved band saw, designed for all kinds of scroll and straight sawing, is now being substituted for the ordinary mechanism, the frame being cast in one piece and cored out, and a 36-inch machine will cut hard wood up to fourteen inches thick, and to the center of a piece seventy-one inches in diameter. The patent weight for giving the proper tension to the saw is adjustable by a simple movement, and easily changed to give more or less tension, according to the width and density of work to be done. The table is made to tilt at any angle, and is made of kiln dried hard wood, well ironed to prevent warping, or of iron for a slight additional expense, and is made to cover the lower wheel.

The upper box is angled so as to lead the saw to any path by a hand wheel, the box and vertical spindle being raised and lowered by a main screw. The saw pulleys have 2-inch face, covered with rubber, and both bearings are 9 inches long, self oiling, and fitted with steel shafts of 1 7-16 inches. The saw guides, one above and one below the table, are adjustable, the back of the saw reaming against the wood.—New York Sun.

The Growth of the Kindergarten.

"The growth of the kindergarten system of starting off young children in the race for knowledge is not astonishing," said a lady who has devoted considerable attention to the subject. "It is the school of practical common sense, and is very popular with both parents and children. I have little four-year-old tots in my school who not only know their letters and are otherwise mentally smart, but who can do almost anything with their hands and feet. We pay more attention to the physical training of these little ones now than we ever did before. You should see some of my four-year-olds putting up their wee little dumb bells, turning out their toes and going through their regular calisthenics. And they love it so, and think everything such great fun. We don't push them into books. They have nothing to do with books. Letters and numerals are merely incidental."—New York Herald.
