AGAINST EXPENSIVE PAVEMENTS.—A well attended citizen's meeting was held at L. O. O. F. Hall Monday night to discuss the paving problem. There was a free expression of opinion and the position of the JOURNAL on street building was squarely sustained, and the unanimous sentiment of those taxpayers who included the principal property owners on Commercial street, was against expensive and extravagant experiments of any kind. After a general discussion, the sentiments of those present were embodied in a series of resolutions offered by Judge Boise, that Commercial street be paved with gravel and cement concrete gutters and curbs, and that telegraph and other poles where they are in the way be moved at expense of companies, and not by forcing property owners to build new curbing. The resolutions were adopted, and the meeting adjourned.

PROTECTION DEMANDED.—If there are to be any more such disastrous prosecutions as that conducted Monday by the city attorney, the city should protect its officials against the sarcastic tongue and belligerent vituperation of Lawyer Carson. Great tears of pity rolled down the cheeks of the bystanders in the crowded court room and perspiration rolled off the municipal prosecutor as his case gradually dwindled away under the merciless fire of the defense. Such cases should not be brought that expose the person of the city attorney to such attacks, and more care should be exercised hereafter.

A GOOD HOME PLAN.—In this issue appears the advertisement of the Capital Homestead Co., which is now building and offering for sale some choice, well-built, low-priced cottages in Simpson addition. These are intended as homes for working and professional people, constructed with that in view, and will be sold on terms to suit such buyers.

MARION COUNTY MINES.—A telegram was received today by one of the mining companies in this city making an offer for their mining property on the Santiam. This shows that Marion is not only a great farming and fruit country, but also has some valuable gold bearing regions.

SUPPLIED.—To be well supplied is not simply to have all the provisions you want, but to get such as you want, fresh and clean, and to get them on time. Clark & Eppley sell only the best groceries and their delivery system is the most perfect.

LOST.—A set of building plans in University addition. Finder will be rewarded by returning same to Sheriff Croisan or Robert & Burgooff, architects.

THE STREET CAR WAR.

The Contest Between the City and Salem Street Railway Co. Begun in the Courts.

As reported in Monday's JOURNAL an injunction has been granted by Judge Boise and served on Recorder Goodell and Street Commissioner Crossan.

Superintendent Miles and his three men, John Jefferson, Chas. From and T. Moffit, who were arrested by the police Monday for interfering with the removal of the horse car tracks by the street commissioner as was reported in the JOURNAL of that day, were brought up for trial this morning at 9 a. m.

CROSAN ARRESTED.

At 8 a. m. the street commissioner was arrested at the instance of the horse car company, and taken before Justice Applegate charged with breaking up and destroying a street railroad. He asked till 4 p. m. to prepare for examination. His bond was fixed at $100, he put up the coin and was again a free man. What course the state will pursue is not known.

The case against Superintendent Miles and men was continued to 1 p. m. Wednesday, when the whole matter will probably be settled.

WORK STOPPED.

Papers were made out for an injunction against the Electric company asking that they be restrained from further interfering with the operations of the Salem Street Railroad, the same as had been obtained against the city. Judge Boise had left the city and gone to Chehawawa. There being no doubt that he would grant it the attorney for the Electric company suggested that they would stop work and if possible arrive at a settlement. The men were, however, kept ready for work.

A meeting of the city council can amend the charter of the horse car line, so as to allow it to move its track on State street without forfeiture of any of its rights, as the ordinance limits it to the centre only. The mayor being away no action can be taken till Tuesday next unless he returns and calls a special meeting. If the charter could be amended at once, the Electric company now express a willingness, as they always have expressed, to move the horse car track at their own expense.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS.

Also Two Important Appointments Made by Governor Pennoyer.

The governor this morning appointed Hon. R. A. Sample, of Umatilla county, regent of the agricultural college; Hon. Thos. R. Sheridan, of Douglas county, member of state board of equalization in place of John Burnett, of Benton county, resigned.

Meetings were also held of the school land commissioners, to select a successor to Hon. Napoleon Davis, in the person of G. W. Davis, of Linn county, formerly in the mercantile business at Tangent, Linn county. On the first ballot the governor voted for the old official.

No assistant physicians for the asylum were chosen. Dr. Williamson's commission will not expire until October, '94, and the other physician will probably be selected by the superintendent.

Mr. Wm. Casey, of Snohomish, Wash., and family arrived in Salem today in search of a home. Four more families come tomorrow.

The wide awake man who keeps posted on what is going on always wants to read the EVENING JOURNAL for reliable information.

After music by the band the choir sang "Nearer My God, to Thee," and the grand tyler delivered a brief oration in honor of masonry. The ladies society now presented their triumphal arch, emblematic of God and immortality. The band again played and the cornerstone was literally buried in floral offerings. Prof. M. V. Rork, the first pastor of this society, now spoke briefly of the small beginnings of this society and general teachings of Unitarianism. Hon. S. C. Adams, formerly of the Christian church, now a liberalist, spoke at some length, and Rev. Brown, pastor of Unity, in conclusion dismissed the assemblage in an able address, the opening words of which were as follows:

"In love of truth and in the spirit of Jesus Christ we unite for the worship of God and the service of man." This is the bond of our union, and the house to rise on this cornerstone, now laid with sacred ritual, shall stand for this and nothing less than this, for this is an universal principle. God and man, truth and love include all there is.

Here no man can be a stranger, for this is the people's church. Here shall be spoken the living word, here the emphasis shall be laid on life and not belief, on character and not creed. Here religion shall be large enough to embrace the latest truths, and generous enough to entertain the latest speculations of science.

His religion shall be bold enough to reject any past belief not in harmony with the spirit of today. In this home differences of opinion shall all be forgotten in the spirit of truth seeking; and reverence for the true. Inside these walls the only infidelity shall be disobedience to the voice of conscience, and the only atheist violation of the Golden Rule. Here all life shall be considered divine, and death but an incident in an everlasting life.
