"German Syrup"

G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's German Syrup. Last winter a lady called at my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as a few doses had given her relief." ®

PRAGUE'S HISTORIC BRIDGE.

The Destruction of the Famous Karlsbrucke Recalls Noted Events.

To write a history of the Karlsbrucke would be to write the history of Prague during the past five centuries. This, indeed, were well worth the doing, for, though the Old World is rich in historic cities, few are more interesting than this wonderful old town, with its stately buildings, its quaint old houses and beautiful gardens and its memories of illustrious men and women—of Huss and Wallenstein, of Maria Theresa and her implacable enemy, Frederick the Great. How many times these and others scarcely less famous have passed to and fro over the Karlsbrucke!

Prague was the favorite city of that splendid monarch, Charles IV, "the stepfather of the empire, but the father of Bohemia." He established her celebrated university and beautified the town in many ways, besides laying the foundation of the Karlsbrucke, in 1357. For 150 years the work went on, and when finally completed, in 1507, it was justly regarded as a triumph of the engineering skill of the age.

Even today few bridges are worthy of more admiration than the old Karlsbrucke, with its grand old Gothic tower and its sixteen noble arches spanning the beautiful Moldau. As time went on statues and groups of figures were grouped on the buttresses of the bridge. The oldest of these, a large stone crucifix, with images of the Virgin and St. John, was built with money wrung from the Jews. Short services were occasionally held before the crucifix.

Another curious group, showing the suffering souls in purgatory, commemorated the dreadful visitation of the plague. But the most interesting of the statues is that of St. John of Mepomuk, the patron of bridges and the saint whom all Prague delights to honor. St. John, so the legend tells us, was the confessor of the lovely Queen of Bohemia and refused to reveal the secrets of the confessional to her jealous husband. The cruel Wenzel commanded him to be tortured, and afterward he was thrown from the Karlsbrucke at night into the rushing Moldau. Whereupon the body of the good priest, instead of sinking, continued to float until taken from the water, while five brilliant stars hovered over it. The statue represents an ascetic figure holding a crucifix and around the head are arranged the five miraculous stars.

One lingers longest at the fine old tower at the entrance to the bridge. If by some spell like that used in the Arabian tales we could unseal the lips of the sculptured figures who look down so calmly from their lofty station, what tragic tales they could tell of the many times the tide of battle has surged across this bridge. During the stormy days of the Thirty Years' War it was the scene of many conflicts, and for ten years the heads of twelve of Bohemia's Protestant nobles swung in iron cages from the tower. Later the citizens of Prague rallied to its defense against the Swedes and held it for three long months, till the peace of Westphalia ended the war. When Frederick the Great invaded Bohemia it was the scene of a bloody struggle, and as lately as the revolution of 1848 a famous barricade was built there by the students.

But the days of the Karlsbrucke are numbered. Three of its arches were carried away by a swollen river, and the collapse of a fourth renders its destruction inevitable. Begun as the night of the Middle Ages was beginning to roll away, and finished in the dawning light of the Reformation, the old bridge falls just as the Twelfth century opens before the world.—Macon Telegraph.

Nature and Self Propagation.

In the expulsion of the seeds of the balsam (impatiens) the contract of some outside object is of advantage. The seed case consists of one cell with five valves, and, if touched by accident when ripe, it at once bursts open, the valves coiling themselves violently, and, springing from the stalk, scatter the seeds in all directions. In the poppy and snapdragon a still larger share of the work of releasing the seeds falls to an outer agency, for here the pericarp consists of a capsule which opens along the top by valves that leave small pores through which the seeds fall out when the capsules are shaken by the wind. In all of these various methods of the expulsion of seeds it would seem that they were due to mechanical causes, and depend in most instances (impatiens excepted) upon a certain condition of dryness in themselves, and upon the state of the surrounding atmosphere.—Knowledge.

Losses from Sickness.

Mr. Wilson Noble considers that there are on the average nearly forty cases of sickness for every death, and that each case of illness lasts on an average 18 1-2 days, which means a loss of 78,500,000 days' labor. This computation does not include extra cases of illness which occur among the working classes from exhaustion. If only half these cases are taken into consideration it will be found that each year the work of a thousand men for one hundred years is lost through illness.—London Tit-Bits.

Point of View.

"What do you conceive to be the chief end of man, doctor?" asked the freshman.

"Well," returned the professor thoughtfully, "it all depends. If you are going in for scholarships, I should say the head; if for football honors, the foot is the end to be cultivated."—Harper's Bazar.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

A negro tramp called at a house near Paris, Ky., and asked for a drink of water. Young Charles Conway went to give it to him and was killed by the negro with a scythe blade. The tramp then killed old Mr. Conway and his wife, and seriously cut another son, when he was filled with buckshot by a neighbor who arrived in the nick of time.

There was a picnic at Wheeling on Sunday. I. Hite came along returning from a hunting expedition, and stopped to chat. Barney Tahey took Hite's gun, asked if it was loaded and, being told that it was not, pointed it toward a group of friends and pulled the trigger. Sarah McGowan was killed and George Weltzel received several shots in the face, and will probably lose both eyes. Tahey is distracted.

One of the largest and decidedly most destructive fires that has occurred in Tacoma this year burned down the large shingle mill of Darling & Jennings and five homes, near the junction of the Center street motor line and the Spanaway road, Sunday evening. The flames did not stop there, but spread to the southwest for about a mile, the whole woods being set ablaze, making a magnificent sight. The work of the flames was done as if in a minute. Everything within their reach was wood, and dry. The total loss will aggregate about $10,000.

One Norwegian vessel, name unknown, went ashore on Isefjord Bay and all the crew drowned. Although there were large numbers of fishing vessels, cod fishing had been a failure. Large quantities of caplin, Capt. McKenzie says, were found inside the halibut, a thing that is seldom seen in that locality.

The schooner Senator Salisbury arrived at Gloucester from Iceland, with a cargo of 200,000 pounds of fletched halibut. This is the earliest arrival of a fishing schooner from that part of the fishing grounds. The Salisbury left here March 16 and encountered a very rough passage all the way out. On April 2, during a heavy gale, Stein Benjamison was washed overboard and drowned. The winter at Iceland was very stormy, with heavy gales accompanied by rain and snow but not much frost. There was no destitution among the natives On April 13 there was the heaviest storm experienced on that coast for years, and considerable damage was done to fishing boats and vessels.

Some "Have-Yous" for the Season.

Have you tested your cows this season to know which are paying for their keeping and a profit on labor and capital?

Have you got a good clean place, with pure water for them to drink?

Have you got plenty of feed in the pasture, or have you too many cows for the feed?

Have you plenty of shade for them to lie in?

Have you seen to it that there are no carcases left unburied about the pasture?

Have you kept your milking place clean and tidy, so you would not be ashamed to have the persons who eat your butter come in at milking time?

Have you held your temper in training the heifers to milk, and have no kickers among them?

Have they found out that you are their best friend?

Have you been regular in your hours of milking?

Have you kept salt where the cows could have some each day?

Have you but a little sulphur on their backs occasionally, to save them from becoming full of grubs in the spring?

Have you only the best of packages to put your butter in?

Have you been "beat" by some agent and bought a churn or butter-worker you don't want?

Have you used plenty of plaster in your horse stalls so as to keepp them odorless?

Have you got a small bottle of creosote in the stable to rub some on their jaws and throat to keep the bot flies from stinging them while on the machine and hay wagon?

Have you groomed them well well these hot days so they are not crusted over with filth from sweating?

Have you marked your lambs that you want to sell to winter, and the ewes that you want to sell, so you can at once when the buyer comes what you want to sell?

Have you destroyed the ticks on the lambs since shearing?

Have you got a patch of carrots growing, to feed the weaned colts with this winter, to keep him thriving?

Have you made your wife happy by having a good garden?

Have you invited her to a farmers' pic-nic, to be after haying?

If you haven't done these things, the season is fast growing, and you will soon have made another year of mistakes.

Can't You Catch On

To a known means of overcoming that obstinate disorder, constipation? Of course you can. Then why don't you? Ask those who have tried it, and they will tell that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a matchless laxative, effectual without violence—thoroughly alterative, but perfectly reliable. It invigorates, too, no less than it regulates the system, and it is chiefly to this first quality that it owes the permanency of its regulating effects, since, if vigor is lacking in the region of the bowels, the stomach or the liver, healthful activity in those organs is suspended. Deobstruents and cathartics in general are simply that and nothing more; they relax the bowels merely without invigorating them, and as their laxative action is usually abrupt and violent, they really tend to weaken the organs. Use the bitters, also, for malaria, rheumatism, indigestion, debility and kidney trouble.

DO YOU FAVOR
Building up a Strong, Independent Paper for the People in Oregon?

A PAPER THAT WILL NOT SELL OUT—
Printed at the Seat of Government.

LOOK AT THE RECORD OF THE CAPITAL JOURNAL.

During the recent session of the legislature it was the only paper in the state that attacked successfully the Portland dictatorship in Oregon politics. It successfully opposed all doctoring the Australian ballot law in the interests of political bosses. It advocated the law (that passed) giving the Oregon railroad commission power to fix just and reasonable rates of freights and power to enforce its decisions. It successfully advocated retention of the old railroad commission as best qualified to enforce the law. It labored for all measures to open rivers and thus secure to the people the right to free and unrestricted use of the waterways.

ITS PLATFORM.

THE CAPITAL JOURNAL favors a reform in national finances, to the end that the present expensive monopoly system of supplying an inadequate currency may be supplanted by the government issuing direct to the people an adequate supply of legal tender money, with a coin basis sufficient to conform to sound banking principles. It favors election of all officials who legislate for, or are directly responsible to the people, by direct vote of the people. It favors raising all state revenues by a tax on the gross earnings of corporations, both foreign and state. It favors opening all waterways to the sea and a control of all common carriers to the end that the producer shall secure for his labor the largest net returns.

If you favor retaining all powers possible in the hands of the people and government in the interests of the people, circulate this paper. For terms, see elsewhere.

1,500 MILES.

But She Got It.—A Sample of Letters Daily Received.

Only those who have tried it can know what it is that prompts one to send 1,500 miles for it to get it again. Here is another of many such instances:—

DEAR SIRS: I send $5, for which please return a half dozen of your vegetable sarsaparilla. I have moved here from Sierra City, Cal. I took three bottles before leaving, hence I send all the way back to California for more. It was just before I left Sierra City, about a year ago, that I began to feel very miserable. My skin was very yellow, and I was all pains and aches, especially under my shoulders and in my head. The doctor said it was my liver, and gave me some medicine which relieved me somewhat. One of my neighbors happened in and told me she had started to take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and advised me to try it. I did, and with such good effect that I now feel like a new being. I have persuaded one of my neighbors here to take it, so part of this is for her and part for myself.
