SALEM AGAINST THE WORLD.—Mr. A. L. Wagner, of Salem, was in town yesterday. It is just about a year now since Mr. Wagner came up from California and identified himself with the business interests of Oregon's capital city. He is now an enthusiastic a Salemite as any pioneer there, and predicts great progress. "Business is remarkably good with our merchants for this season of the year," he said, "and preparations are being made for an extensive fall trade. The railroad people tell me that Salem is doing more building than any city in the state, except Portland, and using more lumber than all the rest of the valley towns put together. The business part of the city is undergoing many improvements. Among recent industries, which are already at work, or nearly ready, are a cannery, which will be able to take care of half our fruit product, a broom factory and flour mill, which will, when started, turn out 500 barrels of flour a day. The fair this fall will be without doubt the greatest we ever had. The society is making extensive improvements on the grounds."—Oregonian.

COUNTY BOARD.—The court and commissioners returned Friday evening from its bridge inspection tour and concluded its sessions this forenoon. The court ordered a new bridge put on Drift Creek near Silverton. The board has also advanced the new bridge it is proposed to build over Pudding river at East Howell Prairie sending Com'r Watson to conclude the arrangements. Road viewers were appointed as follows: Road to S. W. corner d. l. c. Geo. Neal to Marion and Stayton road, Dexter Robbins, H. B. Condit and Daniel Edgar. John Newsome surveyor, to meet Aug 25. Road from near S. E. corner of sec 10 tp 9 S. 2. E. 2. to near N. W. corner N. E. sec 18, Geo. W. Heath, S. W. Minturn, and Frank Berringer viewers, same surveyor, Aug 27 time to meet.

FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.—D. D. Prettyman has been engaged for ten days past gathering an exhibit of grains and grasses for the Oregon Land Co. There is six-foot wheat, seven-foot rye, timothy nearly eight feet long with twelve-inch heads, white clover four to five feet long, and oats with heads on twenty inches long. The collection will embrace several hundred samples of grain and will fill a large room. The company propose to take a lot of this grain to exhibit at the Iowa state fair. The rest will be boxed up carefully to comprise part of their exhibit at the World's Fair in 1893.

TO BASE USES.—The old court house on Court street is leased, so Justice Applegate informs a Journal reporter to the Chinese. Tenants have received notice to quit, and the Chinese are already rummaging over the building. The way the Mongolians live about a thousand can be comfortably housed in the old structure. An immense wash-house business is to be put in.

POLICE.—Business picks up in the police court, where two drunks and three vags hold the fort. The recorder, who is not easily daunted gave to each of the rogues five days. All refusing to pay the usual fine, will at the city restaurant dine. They'll drink cold water out of cups of tin, because their coin was all blowed in.

BIDS FOR HYDRANTS.—The committee on fire and water have received bids as follows for 25 new hydrants: Salem Iron Works by draught $23.00, connections 74 cts per foot, by Baker & Strang. This being the lowest bid the committee has awarded the same accordingly.

INCORPORATIONS.—The Sheridan Flouring Mills company was incorporated by Levi Oren, R. S. Conner and G. W. Neely. They propose to run a general milling business at Sheridan, Yamhill county. The amount of the capital stock is $17,000, divided into 170 shares.

SPACE IN PAVILION.—Parties wishing space in the grand pavilion building at the state fair, will make application early to secure same by calling on or addressing Wm. H. Savage, Salem, Superintendent of pavilion. 8-7-d-f

WHAT AILS THE COURT HOUSE?

Unhealthy Conditions of our Fine County Building.
While the county court is in session the JOURNAL desires to call attention to the large sick-list among the officials and employees in the county building. No doubt the sanitary conditions of the building are now much better than formerly but still they are dangerous to health and life. Captain B. Beck undoubtedly owes much of his present condition to the fatal atmosphere of the building. Allyn Cook and Sheriff Croshaw are in the mountains recuperating and other officials are preparing to leave. An unwell person can be found in nearly every county office and it is almost equivalent to a death warrant to be confined in the lower regions, one prisoner having typhus there last month.

The committee of the state board of charities examined the building recently and declared it was kept clean, but could not endorse the sewerage, and one member expressed himself that the building was undoubtedly infected with sewer gas.

WHAT OFFICIALS SAY.
A representative of the JOURNAL had short conversations with the persons best qualified to know the sanitary conditions of the court house as follows:

District Attorney Bingham: "The sewerage is very bad. The plumbers have all had a hand at it and the sheriff has done his best to have it remedied. The connection with the Court street sewer is always becoming clogged up."
A member of the State Board of Charities, which has sanitary supervision of public buildings, says he is informed there is no trap between the plumbing and sewer outside to stop sewer gas.

THE BODY FOUND.

Old News Received of the Recovery of the Remains of Miss Boise.

Mr. I. L. Patterson received a private dispatch at 11 a. m. that the body of Miss Boise who was drowned at Long Beach, Wednesday had been recovered.

This ends the suspense of the family and friends, over the possibility of not finding the remains at all, and avoids the terrible necessity of keeping an open grave in their hearts as well as the cemetery.

The following reply is received today.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31, 1891. Mr. E. HOFER: Salem Oregon.

Sir: Your letter of the 24th inst. is received. In reply you are respectfully informed that from the record in this office it appears that Mr. Geo. E. Chamberlain is still cashier of "The Linn County National Bank of Albany" Oregon.

Respectfully yours, R. W. NIXON, deputy comptroller.

Mr. Chamberlain's friends will now claim that the comptroller of the currency has not been notified of his resignation. This will not remove doubts in the minds of many. The fact that his name appeared in the advertisements of the bank in the daily Albany Democrat until the JOURNAL called attention to the fact, and the further fact that banks in Oregon have had no official notice of a change in cashier, and as no new cashier has been appointed to succeed Mr. Chamberlain, all these facts, in the absence of any others, lead up to the conclusion that the attorney general appointed by Penoyer is still connected with a national bank.

The political significance of the whole matter is just this: When the democratic party was waging its campaign against D. P. Thompson as a republican and "President of seventeen banks," no such appointment would have been made. Its consistency would have been too apparent. But in times of no excitement, when people are asleep, Governor Penoyer slips in a national banker for attorney general over the people. The question whether he is still an officer of the Linn county National Bank is not yet officially determined in the negative.
