Effect of Heated Copper on Rubber. Investigations made by Sir William Pass says: Congressman Binger Thomson show that metallic copper, Herrman is under pledge to Hon, when heated to the temperature of Harry Miller, of Grants Pass, not to boiling water, in contact with rubber, be a caudidate for re-election, and it exerts upon it a destructive effect. In order to ascertain whether this is due to the copper in or of itself, or to its power of conducting heat more rapidly to the rubber, a sheet of rubber was laid upon a plate of glass, and on it four clean disks were placed, one of copper, one of platinum, one of zine, and one of silver.

After a few days in the incubator at 150 degs. Fahr., the rubber under the copper had become quite hard, that under the platinum had become slight in the field and is very active in a ly affected and hardened at different BUFFALO, Sept. 15.—The New quiet manner, laying his wires parts, while the rubber under the silver and under the zinc was quite hard and elastic. From this it would appear that metallic copper exerts a great oxidizing effect on rubber, while platinum has only a slight effect, and zine and silver respectively have no injurious influence at all.

The interesting fact also appears that the rubber thus hardened by the copper really contained no appreciable trace of copper-the latter, therefore, presumably setting up the oxidizing ac tion in the rubber without itself permeating it. - New York Sun.

Anthracite in Mexico. The authenticity given by L. B. Howard to the previously reported discovery of a large deposit of anthracite coal in Sonora, Mexico, is of great importance. Mr. Howard, who has just returned from a careful Inspection of the properties, brings specimens of anthracite coal whose value is apparent to any one who has used the product of the Pennsylvania mines. The mines are so near the Gulf of California and at the same time so near a railroad that with the construction of a few miles of track the question of transportation facilities would be disposed of. Mr. Howard is confident that the coal could be laid down in San Diego, if brought by water around the peninsula, for $5 per ton. The discovery is of interest stated the Mitylene scare has arisen and importance, not alone to San Diego, but to the entire region west of the Missouri river.—San Diego (Cal.)
