HERMANN HERMANIZED.

Mr. Hermann's congressional candidacy is not all well received by the Republican press of the state. It is not received at all. He has had his day. He may have served the people some to serve himself, but he has served the cinch element of Portland politicians much better and the people know it. To elect him is simply to give a Portland crowd that have kept this state back another weapon to work with. The cinch crowd at Portland must be broken up and driven out of power if Oregon is ever to go ahead at the rate of progress she should.

So it is well that Mr. Hermann has Hermanized himself. He has given himself and the party and the state too big a dose of Hermann and the result is fatal. All he says and does now is not well received. The press is hostile. Interviews in The Oregonian do not read well. The people are sick and tired of self-eulogies by a candidate that keeps telling them that he will not be a candidate, all the same being a candidate while he is telling it. The Ashland Tidings says: "The situation is an awkward one for Mr. Hermann, or would be to almost anybody else. A man big enough and old enough to go to congress ought to mean what he says, especially when he affixes his signature to it with his good right hand; but if Mr. Hermann meant it when he wrote he seems to have become convinced since that he made a grave error in booking himself for the shelf, and that he may be compelled to acknowledge his error in order to save the state from the consequences of his retirement."

OPEN RIVERS.

The Telegram is pleased to learn through Colonel McCracken that the sort of Portland commission has not been asleep or forgetful of the exceedingly important duty devolving upon it. If Major Handbury's surveys are approved, and if they are sufficient and can be utilized, so that the work can be begun soon, a great point will have been gained.—Portland Telegram.

Col. McCracken is a solemn ass. He was ass enough to solemnly get up and solemnly read the representations of the Pacific railway managers to the legislature to the effect that rates of freight in Oregon should not be reduced by the legislature. He was his special representative in the legislature and the members paid no attention to him. He is at the head of the port of Portland corporation to open the Columbia and save the farmers a $1.00 a ton on their wheat. He may deceive The Telegram but he cannot fool the public.

WEAT IS KEEPING OREGON BACK.
Can the ostensible plans and purposes of the "Port of Portland" bill not be realized? Or was it only a pious hope?—Portland Telegram.

Has the present manager of The Telegram not discovered that the crowd of Portland corporation politicians are insincere in everything that is for the real welfare of the state? They were afraid some action might be had in the legislature looking to opening the Columbia, and to head it off they organized the port of Portland commission. Everything is "buncombe" with them but keeping Oregon under the chains of the Pacific railway monopoly.

TAX REFORM.

At a late meeting of the Salem grange a resolution was adopted to the effect that no property shall be exempt from taxation except for indebtedness as assessed in the county. The object of this is to bring all taxable property under taxation. For every dollar deducted from the assessment the grange wants something left on the books to show for it. This resolution was in the right direction. The work of assessment could be greatly simplified by allowing no deductions for indebtedness except a mortgage debt of record. Money, notes, accounts, and credits generally should be assessed separate from realty and personal property. No deductions should be allowed on personal property and indebtedness not of record should only be allowed to be deducted from monies and credits.

TRUE INDEPENDENCE.

The young man who conducted an independent paper in this county is now running an out-and-out Democratic paper. This only illustrates that calling yourself an independent as a matter of business does not make you one. At heart the man remains what he was, no matter what he calls himself. The true independent is not less so because he acts consistently with one party or the other. He can be true to his convictions as a man and be independent as he pleases in either party. But labelling himself independent does not make him so.

SUGGESTED COMMENT.

Salem business men think their town could support a bank and would have about $100,000 a year business for one.

New subscribers continue to roll in from all sides to the DAILY and WEEKLY CAPITAL JOURNAL. The people are finding it out.

J. M. Kitson, J. L. Ziegler and W. R. Dillard incorporated the United Brethren in Christ church at Eugene, property valued at $750.

Salem depends on no artificial aids to success. People may come or go and people may laugh or cry, Salem will smile and go right on.

Arnold Myers, a subject of Great Britain, who has lived in this county thirty years, Saturday declared his allegiance to the government of Uncle Sam.

Polk and Powderly are the strongest combination ticket the third party could put in the field, and they would not be a team free from defects.

The public is officially informed that there are $45,000 invested in the horse car line, that the property is mortgaged for $10,000 to the State Insurance Co., and that the notes are overdue.

In order to not fail to do their part toward securing a tool of the Portland corporations, in case a Democrat is elected from this district, the Democratic papers are booming Senator Myers of Seio for nominee.

A Hermann organ says: "His opponents have had him beaten a great many times before in years when there was no election, but when the people come to vote there always seems to be sufficient ballots for Hermann to make him his own successor. History is very likely to again repeat itself."

Salem Grange adopted resolutions in memory of the late Adam Stephens. They declared that "he was a most faithful and efficient officer and member, and the memory of his noble, unselfish, and generous life will be an inspiration to all who knew him, and they, with us, will reverence his memory and try to emulate his virtue."

For street improvements at Tacoma they propose to plank with fir timbers four inches by six, edges up, with a narrow board separating them, the top of which is slightly lower, all to be solidly spiked on stringers two feet apart.—In exactly the same way the hill streets are being planked, and over this plank-pavement on a layer of melted bituminous rock an inch thick. Well, that is one way to pave, sure enough!

Willard Stevens is attending the Normal School at Monmouth this year.

Wm. Simmons, who has been quite sick for some time, is able to be about again.

Miss Minnie Nut, of California, is visiting at the home of her cousins, Miss and Evie Vinton.

J. H. Baughman's family, who have been residing at Chemawa, will move on their farm this fall. Mr. B. will still fill the appointment as backsmith at the school.

J. A. Ruble and family have sold out their farm and dairy interests and moved to Washington county to reside. The best wishes of their many friends they have made while in the neighborhood go with them to their new home.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

T. O'Donnell, of Astoria, has mysteriously disappeared, and it is thought he has been shanghaied.

Olympia is making a determined effort to secure a free delivery system and this time will probably succeed. Ellensburg citizens will on October 20 vote on the proposition to issue $25,000 bonds for funding the city's indebtedness.

Artesian water has been procured at Seattle at a depth of sixty-five feet. Work has been stopped for the present, but the well will probably be sunk deeper before long.

Last week the entire yield of the season's hops on the farm of W. Leach, on the Tukauon, near Wabburg, was destroyed by fire. The hops were of excellent quality, and the loss will be heavy.

The parties who were boring for oil at Hubbard, in Marion county, and lost their anger at a depth of 350 feet, have begun operations again. They are Pennsylvania oil men, and are confident that there is oil in Oregon.

MISCELLANY.

PILOT IN ROME.

ROME Oct. 5.—The French pilgrims, who caused so much disorder Friday started Saturday for Modena. Before doing so, they called at the legation and expressed their regrets at the occurrences Saturday. The majority of accounts furnished of the causes of Saturday's riotous outbreaks agree in that one of the pilgrims who visited Victor Emmanuel's tomb spat in the book where all the visitors are expected to inscribe their names. In addition to this, the pilgrim wrote: "Vive le Pape, mort au roi Humbert, a ba Victor Emmanuel." An Italian gentleman was present in the panteon at the same time the pilgrims were, and happened to notice what one of their number inscribed in the visitor's book, and, becoming enraged at the insult to the dead, he struck the writer in the face and assisted the guard to expel him, amid the anathemas of those present. The other pilgrims tried to rescue their companion from the guards, and in so doing caused a disturbance. The crowds attracted to the spot by the disorder attacked the pilgrims with knives and stones. The guards had the utmost difficulty in protecting the pilgrims from the Italians. In spite of the appeals of police officers and their efforts to allay the anger of the populace, the pilgrims were chased all over the Harnel, leader of the French workmen's pilgrimage, called at the ministry of the interior and disclaimed any sympathy with the outrage.

THE MORMON CHURCH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Members of the Utah commission have filed with Secretary Noble the majority and minority reports of proceedings of the commission for the year ending September 1, 1891. The majority report says, in regard to the Mormon church: "In view of the fact that the Mormon church has invariably in the past, dictated political movement of adherents and presented a united front against any and every party which came in contact with it, those who now doubt its sincerity may well be excused for doubting that the church has thought the people's party strenuously opposed every effort made, whether by the laws of congress, action of courts, of the Utah commission, to put down polygamy. It has denounced the commission through all the years that it has been administering laws directed against polygamy and kept united force constantly standing and ready to oppose every effort to compel its submission to the laws of the land. The commission is glad, says the report, to record the steps already taken on the road to a better civilization and aid with all its power in forwarding the good work, but cannot recommend the withdrawal at this time of any portion of the safeguards thrown around this people by law making power of the government, and it is most emphatic in expressing the opinion that it would not at this time be safe to entrust to them responsibilities and duties of statehood they so much desire.

The minority report, which is signed by John A. McClelland, states that polygamous marriages in Utah have decreased to the point of virtual cessation; that it would not be just or politic to extend by law the range of the existing civil disabilities indiscriminately to all Mormons.

REPORT OF RAILROAD COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The third annual report of the commissioners of railroads was handed to the secretary of the interior Saturday. The report says of the railroad situation that for the past year there has been an increase in the gross receipts, but a falling off in net earnings owing to increased competition. The net earnings of the roads indebted to the government show a slight decrease over last year. The roads are paying into the treasury each year all that the law requires them to pay. Statements show the total gross receipts of bonded roads for the year which settlements were made, were $28,045,000; net earnings $6,059,000; government requirement, $1,740,000; paid in, $1,161,000. Total debts of bonded roads up to December 3, 1890, amount to $112,518,000. The increase
