PLENTY OF SEALS.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 13.—Prof. James Macoun of the Canadian Geological Survey, who accompanied the British Commissioners to Behring's Sea, writing to the Government officials here, says the commissioners were astounded to note the plentifulness of the seals, having been led by the United States reports to suppose that the seals were almost exterminated. At St. Paul's Island alone fully half a million seals were in sight. Mr. Macoun implies that the commissioners will suggest the setting apart for all time to come a half a dozen places in Behring's Sea exclusively for seal-breeding purposes, and that then there will be no danger of extermination.

Several female seals were killed during the suckling season by the commissioners and their stomachs were found to contain nothing but a little sea-weed and some pebbles. This is an important point and one on which the commissioners have received special instructions. During the last conference at Washington Secretary Blaine held that the most serious reason for stringent restrictions on the taking of seals in the Behring's Sea was that the mother seals which, during the suckling season, swam fifty miles every day to the feeding grounds, would be taken in great numbers and the young seals which they left on the shores of the island would perish unless the mother seals were protected. He said that the race of seals would thus soon be exterminated. Sir Charles Tupper argued against this, that, as a matter of fact, the mother seals never left their young in the suckling season, which only lasted twelve days, during which time the mother took no food at all. Secretary Blaine ridiculed this idea as unheard of in natural history, but Sir Charles pointed out that the seal, as a hibernating animal, had a store of fat on which it could well subsist for a long time. The report that the stomachs of the mother seals were found empty bears out Sir Charles Tupper's statement.

GREATEST OIL WELL.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 13.—The Greenlee and Forrest well on the Melvy farm at McDonald is the wonder of the world. It is now doing 600 barrels in an hour, or 14,400 barrels per day. It is the greatest oil producer the world has ever known. The owners ordered the drillers to remove the tools from the well. At that time it was doing 400 barrels an hour. Great difficulty was encountered in removing the tools on account of the immense flow of oil and the work had to be abandoned, the production increasing to 600 barrels an hour.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 13.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon the cage men at the shaft on the tunnel lost control of the cage and it fell to the bottom of the shaft, killing three colored men and fatally injuring two white men. The cage tenders were in danger of being lynched by the tunnel men and they are locked up in the police station for safety.

THE EASTERN STORM.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Chief among Atlantic steamers toput intoport this morning, was the Guion line steamer Alaska, she was overdue sixteen hours. Her trip was a very stormy one, and there was considerable suffering among the cabin and steerage passengers, from sea-sickness. The steamers Polynesia and Slavonia arrived also this morning. Both experienced severe storms. There is now several liners overdue, but probably they will reach port all right.

"August Flower"

Perhaps you do not believe these statements concerning Green's August Flower. Well, we can't make you. We can't force conviction into your head or medicine into your throat. We don't want to. The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it. Two bottles of your August Flower have cured her, after many doctors failed. She can now eat anything, and enjoy it; and as for Dyspepsia, she does not know that she ever had it."

ABANDONED AT SEA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A dispatch from London yesterday says: The steamship Devonshire, from Barrow for New York, has been passed at sea abandoned. Nothing has been heard from her captain or crew. Never has the loss of a steamship at sea caused so much excitement since the time the news of the great Denmark disaster was received in this city. No one knows what has become of the captain and crew. They may now be safe on board some other vessel, but maritime men think this hardly probable. The chances are that the captain and his sixteen men are lost. They undoubtedly took to the boats when it was seen that the vessel had no chance. In the storm that has been raging for the last week, the boats could have hardly lived.

Later dispatches to this city from Lloyds, in London, say the Devonshire was abandoned about 550 miles west of Barrow. Up to the time of cabling, nothing had been heard from the captain and crew, The Devonshire sailed from Barrow September 30. She generally made the passage to this city in about fifteen days, so there was no uneasiness about her non-appearance. She was a twinscrew steamship, 316.6 feet long, 36.6 feet beam, and 25.6 feet deep. She was worth at least $100,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A dispatch from London last night says that the British steamer Norwegian, which has arrived at Glasgow from Montreal, had on board the crew of the British steamer Devonshire, which was abandoned 500 miles west of Tory island.

SPECIAL SESSION PA. SENATE.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 13.—A special session of the state senate was called to order this morning. The governor's message, calling the session, was read. In it he said the session was convened to take action in relation to the alleged misconduct of the heads of two departments of the state government as well as other elective officers. The governor reviewed at great length the testimony taken by the various committees which have been investigating the affairs of Beardsley, the Philadelphia treasurer, who is now in the penitentiary, and severely arraigning Henry Boyer, the state treasurer and Thomas McCammount, auditor general of the state, for their connection with Beardsley's misdoings. In conclusion, the governor said the responsibility to determine whether any reasonable cause exists for removal, rests with the senate, and the public expected it would be met and discharged without regard to partisan advantage and to the honor of the commonwealth.

AFRAID OF A WOMAN.

SHELBYVILLE, Oct. 13.—Miss Jennette Beggs, a pretty little brunette of thirty-five summers, who owns and operates a farm of 105 acres three miles east of this city, was arrested and brought before Esquire Craycroft to answer three charges of surety of peace preferred by Councilman R. W. Harrison, ex-City Clerk Geo. Oefelein and August Brummer. Each of the stalwart gentleman named filed his affidavit that he is afraid that Jennette will do him harm with a gun or some other dangerous weapon. The trouble arose over some foreclosure proceedings instigated by the parties, who now claim they fear the little woman will murder them, but when the cases were called for trial not one of the complaining witnesses put in an appearance. The court continued the cases and subpœnaed the complainants to appear. The little woman took everything coolly, demanded a trial and wanted to be confronted by her accusers.

WANT ENGLISH.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13.—The Presbyterian synod of Kansas has adopted resolutions insisting upon teaching the English language in all the public schools as the language of this country. ARE THEY MARRIED?

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Oct. 13.—Considerable excitement, coupled with alarm, has been occasioned here in upper ten circles. The Rev. Archibald Murphy, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated at a swell marriage here last Wednesday night. The contracting parties were Dr. Noah E. Meyers and Miss Nellie Mulholland. The wedding was one of the largest and swellest of a brilliant matrimonial season. Mr. Murphy came here but two weeks ago from Philadelphia, and neglected to take out a license authorizing him to solemnize marriages. As a result, he is liable to a $500 fine under the revised statutes of Ohio. A question has arisen as to the legality of the marriage. The best legal authority is to the effect that the marriage is legal, although the stamp of doubt is upon it. The news of Rev. Murphy's neglect has stirred up a number of local ministers, who have admitted that they, too, have neglected to take out the required license. Among them may be mentioned Rev. Dr. I. B. Hedwig, ex-president of Wittenburg, Rev. S. P. Dunlap, etc. They, in the last few years, have married hundreds of people, and are all liable to $500 fine. People are puzzling themselves to know whether or not they are legally married.

THE SEATTLE AND MONTANA ROAD.

SEATTLE, Oct. 13.—The last spike of the Seattle & Montana road was driven yesterday, two miles north of the Stillaquamish river. There were ceremonies attended the occasion, but a message was received at the Great Northern headquarters to the effect that Engineer Watson had made a short speech, which was received with cheers by the workmen, after which he assisted in driving the last big nail that completes this part of the road. There are twenty miles of ballasting yet to be laid before the road will be actually completed and ready for operation. This will be completed in about two weeks, when regular trains will be run. There is also about a mile of track to be laid in the city of Seattle yet. This will be done within the next week. The Seattle & Montana is 87½ miles in length, and runs from this city to Jannan's prairie, Skagit county, where it is met by its extension, the Fairhaven&Southern, which runs direct to New Westminister, B. C. Both of these roads are the property of the Great Northern. The first survey was made in the spring of 1890, and October 12, is announced as the day which will be recorded as the date the road was formally completed.

THE METHODIST COUNCIL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—In the ecumenical convention yesterday Rev. Leonard, of New York, closed the morning session with a few remarks condemnatory of preachers who invited doubt by delivering sermons on Darwinism and on Huxley. During the recess the delegates were received at the White House by President and Mrs. Harrison.

At the afternoon session the topic of discussion was: "The religious press and religious uses of the secular press," Rev. Hugh Price Hughes being the essayist. It was strange, said he, that this great agency, the press, has rarely received the consideration of the churches. For the creation of public opinion in these swift days the press was supreme. If so disposed, the religious press should never be used for politics. Rev. Dr. Ferguson, president of the Primitive Methodist church of England, could not say amen to Dr. Hughes' assertion that religious papers should not take cognizance of politics. In England there were thousands of people that received their politics, not from the daily papers, but from weekly religious journals, and occasionally it became necessary that the religio-political questions should be treated by them (murmurs of disapproval). He would not go further into that subject because he saw that it troubled his Wesleyan friends. (Cries of "Oh, no"). Rev. O. Hose, of Nashville, Tenn., said the religious newspapers had not kept pace with the secular press in development. Religious papers should have an expert corps of assistants to the chief editor. Attention should be given to the advertising columns. Mr. Atkinson, an English member of parliament, thought religious papers should take no account of politics. It was merely a question as to how Jesus Christ would speak on the "Irish question." Rev. Dr. Balmer, of England, aroused Dr. Atkinson by expressing gratitude to Dr. Hughes, and adding that condemnation by some speakers was equivalent to praise of others, whereupon Dr. Atkinson, with some spirit, demanded to know if that sort of insinuation is to be brought forward on another brother. The chairman restored order, and Dr. Balmer withdrew his remark, but soon aroused Dr. Atkinson again by referring to the remark made by Mr. Snape to the effect that one of the English political parties had ridden into power on a beer barrel, and adding, "We have never learned that their body was divorced from the beer barrel." Dr. Morley, of New Zealand, raised a point of order that English politics could not be discussed in conference. Dr. Balmer said his allusions had been called forth by the proceeding speakers, and he hoped he would be allowed his full five minutes. Atkinson subsided with a parting shot of "I hope you won't."

SERVED HIM RIGHT.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. Oct.—13,—Domestic infelicitude between Mrs. Alvin Delong, of this city, and her husband induced her to shoot him about midnight Sunday night, killing him instantly. One of the bullets entered his left arm, and the other his heart. Some years ago Delong was employed on the Delaware and Hudson, but lost his position on account of his bacchanalian propensities. Then he took up painting and paper-hanging for a vocation. He was a hard worker, but spent a large portion of his earnings with other women and for liquor. His family includes three children—two daughter, the eldest of whom is 17 years, and a son about 14 years of age. On Saturday Delong attended a fair in this city, and when he returned to supper it was plainly evident that he had been drinking. He started to go out of the house and Mrs. Delong pleaded vainly with him to remain. Soon after 11 p. m., Mrs. Delong and a little dog named Pete started out to hunt him up. Pete had no trouble in striking his trail and led his mistress to a house kept by a woman of checkered career. Mrs. Delong enquired for her husband. Hearing her voice, he stepped out and used her shamefully. Finally he accompanied her home, abusing her every step of the way. When near home Delong assaulted his wife. Just then then two shots were fired, and by the time officers arrived, Delong was found dead at his wife's feet. Mrs. Delong was arrested and lodged in jail. During the day she has been irresponsible for her utterances. Her husband had mauled and kicked her, she said, until she could put up with it no longer.

COMMITTEE OF INVESTIGATION.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 13.—The committee charged with the investigation of the auditor general and state treasurer departments, this morning adopted a report and sent it to Governor Pattison. Committee finds the evidence wholly fails to disclose any just ground for suspicion as to the personal official integrity of State Treasurer Boyer, and that it fails to show any act personal, or official, of dishonor on the part of Auditor General Cammant or the proper receipt by him of any money, either directly or indirectly from Bardsley. In regard to present system of depositing state funds, committee suggests the law should be speedily changed. Committee will meet this evening to hear report of the minority.

Cork Coverings for Steam Pipes.

A paper on the superior value of cork coverings for steam pipes and as a protection of water service pipes from frost has been published by a French engineer. According to this paper, one variety of these coverings which is found to be very efficient consists of pieces of cork, shaped to fit the different sizes of pipes, with radial joints, similar to the staves of a barrel, which are placed around the pipe and for the time bound to the pipe by strings. After the pipe so covered has been used with steam for some time and the cork been sufficiently dried, the crevices are filled in and the string replaced by wire—elbows being also covered in the same manner—and, after the covering is finally fixed, the pores and crevices are closed by a coat of paint or lime wash.

In another arrangement, as proposed, rectangular blocks of cork, about 1 1-4 inch wide, and varying in thickness from one-fourth of an inch for small pipes to five-eighths of an inch for pipes from four inches in diameter and upward, and cemented to strips of cloth by an india rubber solution, are used; the bands are lapped spirally around the pipes and elbows and covered by another band of waterproof canvas lapped in the same manner, so as to cover the joints of the cork bands, the whole being afterward covered by a thick coating of paint or tar.

Earthworms and Water.

Besides the active enemies which are continually seeking to destroy earthworms, though apparently with comparatively little effect, these animals have a habit of seeking destruction on their own account, which looks very like a determined effort at suicide. On any wet morning the shallow puddles in the roadways and elsewhere are often occupied by the dead bodies of worms or by individuals at their last gasp. Have these worms voluntarily sought a watery grave? Or do they represent, as Darwin thought, merely the sickly and dying individuals which have been washed out of their burrows by the rain? Darwin's explanation is probably partly true, but it is also credible that the heating of the puddles by the sun's rays has something to do with the great mortality of the annelids.

Cold fresh water seems to be practically harmless, though salt water is rapidly fatal to earthworms. M. Perrier, a French naturalist, who has paid great attention to the group, kept various species submerged in water for months uninjured; and in this country there is one species, and another in the Falkland islands, which commonly passes its entire life or a great portion of it in streams and pools. The name earthworm is therefore somewhat misleading when applied to these forms, which have, however, no particular relation to the normally aquatic allies of earthworms.—Chambers' Journal.

Thought They Were Fooling Him.

A young Englishman, who has been living hereabout for a time, but who enjoys his weekly walk in the suburbs, said, the other day: "I can't find a good map of New York and its environs. They don't seem to be made up to the present date. Now, I was out one afternoon strolling on the Palisades and I rather lost my bearings. Toward nightfall I struck into a wood road where there was no one in sight but a little girl. 'Hi, little girl.' I says, 'wherever am I bound for?' 'You're goin to Gnawed Off, sir,' says she. Utterly absurd name, Gnawed Off!

"There was a village at the end of the road and I just caught a train there for New York. 'What place was that?' says I to the conductor. And he answers, as cool as you please, 'Gnawed Off.' I've looked at every map I can find and there's no such place. Now, is there a village called Gnawed Off, or were the child and the man guying me, should you think?"

The reply was: "There's no town of that name, but there's a Nordhoff in New Jersey."

"Really!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Mayonnaise.

Many persons have difficulty in making a good mayonnaise, but there ought to be no reason for it if you know your oil is good before you start. Mix the yolk of a fresh egg with a little salt and dry mustard, and stir continually with a fork while you add the oil, which at first should be only drop by drop. The best way is to cut a notch in the side of the cork of the bottle and let the oil flow through. This prevents the oil from coming faster than you want it. After a bit add a few drops of vinegar, and it will expedite matters in bringing the salad to the desired smoothness and consistency. After this you can add oil almost ad libitum without danger of its separating. It is needless to add that during this process the dressing must be continually stirred. — New York Tribune.

Refunding.

When "Aida" was played at Milan, an amateur living at some distance came to hear it but was disappointed. To make sure he tried it the second time, with the same result. Whereupon he wrote to the composer, complaining of having been put to considerable expense on his account for nothing, and inclosing a bill for thirty-two liri, with a request for the money. Among the items was one of two liri for a "detestable supper." Verdi deducted this on the ground that he might have had supper at home, but forwarded the balance on condition that his correspondent signed a formal agreement not to go and hear the opera again, which agreement was strictly fulfilled.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Delight Followed by Torment.

What man or woman will deny that a good dinner is a present delight. Equally undeniable is it that when a well cooked meal is succeeded by a fit of indigestion, rapture is converted into torture. Don't charge your dyspepsia to your dinner. No, my dear sir, your gastric department was out of order to begin with. Had you regulated it with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the large that you took on board would have been comfortably stowed away without the slightest inconvenience. This inimitable stomach entirely reforms faulty digestion, and regulates, besides, the liver and bowels, which must act harmoniously with the digestive organs, or all three fall out of gear. Take the bitters for kidney and rheumatic complaints, and in all cases of malaria. As a tonic, appetizer and promotor of convalescence it has no peer.
