outfit of woman's wear and the female bandit donned the attire of her sex, in which she presented quite a striking appearance. She soon tired of the limitations of corset and skirt, however, and again appeared at the cell door in cutaway and trousers.

The fact that a trail of blood was found along the route of the retreating thug who shot Policeman Grogan, and that the man Clark denied that he knew she was a woman, has given rise to a suspicion that she trapped Clark to cover the retreat of the third person, who was probably her sweetheart.

Grogan was confident he had winged the fleeing footpad who shot him, but neither the man Clark nor the woman Fortsund bear a scratch.

Some of the exploits Helen claims credit for are already discredited, but her description tallies with that of the author of two or three bold acts in Butte. Clark has been positively identified by the wounded officer and by both of the victims of her robberies, and a watch belonging to one of them was found on him. The girl is held as an accomplice, and the only evidence against her is her own confessions and the watch of one of Clark's victims found on her person.

HIGHWAYMAN AT KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—Dr. J. F. Craig, while returning from visiting a patient in the southern part of the city at 12 o'clock, was stopped by a highwayman, who grasped the horse's head, at the same time levelling a revolver at the doctor. The doctor had a loaded riding whip and, struck the man's arm a powerful blow, probably breaking it. The pistol fell from the man's hand and he ran away screaming with pain. The doctor got the pistol and reported the matter to the police, but as the man was masked he could give no description of him.

FOUR GENERATIONS PRESENT.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—The birth of a little girl to Mrs. A. N. Fase, of Kansas City, Kansas, brings out a peculiar fact. The mother is 16 years old. Her mother, Mrs. M. Spangler, is at the house, a grandmother at 33, and Mrs. G. M. Redman, of St. Louis, is also there. She is the child's great-grandmother, aged 52 years.

BURNED TO DEATH.

CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 20.—A sad tragedy occurred Sunday night in the home of John Good, a farmer, who resides four miles from this city. The children were playing upon the floor of one of the rooms of the lowest story of the house, and their mother went up stairs, where she remained some time. Upon returning, she was horrified to find the clothing of her 2 year old son ablaze. The flames were soon extinguished, but the child died in agony a few minutes later. The 4 year old brother of the child told his mother that he lighted a match and put it on his brother's feet, and it was from this that the clothing ignited.

"German Syrup"

Asthma. "I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup. I am confident it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. I am pleased to inform thee—unsolicited—that I am in excellent health and do certainly attribute it to thy Boschee's German Syrup. C. B. STICKNEY, Picton, Ontario."

They had opposed the marriage, being Catholics and the prospective bridegroom a divorced man. The wedded couple went to San Francisdo.

MARRIED A CHINAMAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—The story of the marriage of a white woman and a Chinaman is related in a complaint filed in the superior court yesterday by Ester Allen against William Mountt. The plaintiff says that at the marriage ceremony was performed that she did not know the object of her affection was a Mongolian, and now that she has discovered that fact she prays the court to release her from the odious marriage. She does not ask for a decree of divorce, but for an annulment of the marriage. She avers that she married Mountt at Liverpool, England, in 1888, and at that time she believed that he was an Englishman. They have no children, nor are they possessed of any property. The husband is a seafaring man, and employed on vessels as either a steward or cook. Immediately after her nupitals were celebrated she was compelled by her husband to accompany him on his voyages as stewardess. He was a pleasant and an agreeable companion and wholly devoted to her." Had it not been for the fraud practiced upon her, in holding himself out as an Englishman, she never would have married him, as she would not live with a Chinaman. She says she was baptised, confirmed and raised in the Christian religion, and is a communicant of the established church of England.

HE WAS NOT DEAD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Beverly Brown was born under a lucky star. He is a colored man about 37 years old. County Physician Converse yesterday called at Speer's Morgue in Jersey City and directed Assistant Morgue Keeper Hecht to go to the county jail for a body. When Mr. Hecht visited the jail he found the body of a man lying dead apparently in one of the corridors. It was that of Beverly Brown. Assisted by one of his men, Hecht lifted the body and deposited it in a plain wooden box he had taken with him and drove to the morgue. Half an hour later, when he was preparing to put the body on ice, he heard a groan, and, making a fresh examination of the dead prisoner, he discovered unmistakable signs of life. He hastened an attendant after Dr. Vreeland, who declared that the man was not dead, but was suffering from brain trouble, and ordered his removal to the city hospital.

SAM SMALL ARRESTED.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—The Rev. Sam Small was arrested in this city on a charge of obtaining $1000 by false pretenses, made by the Rev. H. N. Monroe, an Episcopalian clergyman at Newton, Lower Falls. Mr. Small has been stumping this state for the past few weeks in the interest of the prohibition ticket. Secretary Merden, of the prohibitory state committee, went bail for him, and he has been stumping the state ever since. The case was brought in the civil court to avoid the scandal that a criminal case might bring to the cause of prohibition. It is said the transaction which resulted in the arrest of Mr. Small was agreed upon in August, 1890, when Mr. Small was president of Olden university. It is alleged that Small induced Monroe to pay $1000 for a lot of land which he declared was worth that much. The land belonged to the university, and it is alleged that the university demanded only $500 for it, and Small made $500 by the transaction. When Monroe heard of this he demanded the return of his money. As it was not forthcoming, he caused the arrest of Small.

AMERICANS SHOT.

RIO GRANDE, Oct. 20.—Sunday morning on the Mexican side three men were shot by the government forces under command of General Lorenzo Garcia. Two of them were cowboys, who had been working near Victoria, and who had incautiously crossed the river without a permit from the Mexican consul on this side. The other was Juan Basan, an army contractor who was suspected of revolutionary sentiment. By some they are said to have been American citizens.

SEIZURE OF CIGARS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—It became known yesterday that a prize of fifty thousand fraudulently stamped cigars was made last Friday at the auction room of Davis, Haber & Co., in this city. The cigars were branded as coming from the factory of Goldarenza & Entenz, St. Augustine, Fla., but when the revenue officials wired that firm the reply was returned that the cigars had not been made by them, and that twenty million fraudulent cigars bearing the firm's brand had been disposed of by unknown parties in and around San Francisco. Investigation showed that the cigars seized on Friday had been consigned to Davis, Haber & Co. by a New York firm, and that many of them had been made by Chinese manufacturers in this city and been sent east, whence they were reshipped.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—Secretary Foster will leave Washington this evening for Ohio to remain until after election. He is booked for 10 speeches in behalf of the Republican cause. His first one at Findlay Thursday night being the main one of the series.

RAUM SAYS IT IS NOT SO.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Post says positively that the resignation of Pension Commissioner Raum in the hands of Secretary Noble, to take effect on Nov. 30th. Raum, who has just returned from Chicago, denies the story and also stated that ex-Governor Steele of Oklahoma, is not on his way here to succeed him.

METHODIST COUNCIL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—At the ecumenical Methodist council yesterday Judge A. L. Sibley, of Marietta, Ohio, spoke on marriage and divorce laws. His proposition was that the right to divorce is complemental to and demanded by the right to marriage not only in cases of adultery but also of desertion. Marriage was a means, not an end, and special cases excepted, God and nature had made this relation the universal right of mature men and women. This included the right of each party to the union to its essential benefits. Desertion deprived the innocent party of these unless made the ground of divorce. The grist of all is in the principle deducible alike from reasons and scripture that the right to marriage in its essential benefits and as the only condition for righteous propagation, becomes paramount to the rule of its permanence. In cases of wrong to an innocent partner, whereby the fundamental obligations of the relation are abnegated. Finally, it leaves to innocent parties an escape from the propagation with the foulness of an unknown adultery, and from being forced by the weakness of desertion into a life of celibacy.

Thomas Fundle, head master of the Bible Christian college, Devon, England, spoke on the attitude of the church of toward amusements. He said there is nothing in the New Testament opposed to moderate and rational use of amusements.

Bishop Foss, of Philadelphia, said the urgent need of children was play, and as for athletics, the jollier the better if they were harmless, but if the training made nothing but splendid brutes, church colleges should put them out. The Sunday paper, he said, was indictable before the bar of God, and the church stood with it particeps criminis. Rev. Mr. Belmer, of Manchester, England, said it was strange that the church failed to recognize the need of the people for amusement. People would go to theatres. Theatres were full while churches were half empty. The church should purify the theatres, to do it church members would have to go there. (Mingled cries of "No," and "You are right.")

Rev. Mr. Hubbard, of Baltimore, feared that the gates were too widely opened. He said: "We have got in the dance and theatre, and by an' by we will get in the races."

During the session, Dr. Chapman, of England from the committee charged with its preparation, read the address of the ecumenical conference to Methodists throughout the world. It sends greeting to the brethren in every land to which the common faith has spread, and glorifies God for its prosperity. He has given Methodist churches, under which they have grown, until they number 25,000,000 adherents. We rejoice to recognize the substantial unity which exists among the various Methodist bodies. The firm basis is a common creed. The time has come to close co-operation of the Methodist church, both at home and abroad, which shall prevent unhallowed rivalry. We need to combine our energies, for the work we have to do is vast and urgent. Let us trace the moral evil of men to its true sources, to their surroundings, their physical natures, their ignorance, their passions, and their will, and set ourselves to deal comprehensively with them. To do this it will be necessary for the members of our churches to make full use of their political rights for to allow the great powers of law and government and their still greater influence to fall into the hands of ungodly men would be incredible folly and sin. God forbid that any of our churches should become the instrument of political parties.

We distinctly approve of associations in which, unfettered by any vow, godly women may be organized for ministering to human needs and sorrow, but we hope that with their enlightened opportunities women may not be tempted to undervalue the sphere in which they are not only supreme but alone. The sphere of the mother is in the home. The children of the church have occupied the attention of conference. The address rejoices in the wonderful progress of such societies as Epworth. We feel says the address, that our Sunday schools have not as yet realized their past possibilities, but the home is the great nursery of religious faith and life.

Help but Don't Coerce.

To help nature in its efforts to throw off the trammels of disease is, of course, the legitimate method of medication. This method is, unfortunately, too often diverted from and help perverted in coercion. Drastic, excessive purging is undoubtedly the most frequent form of coercion of this sort. The bowels are forced, literally wrenched into action. Of course this is accompanied by much griping pain and succeeded by exhaustion, which leaves the organs of evacuation in a state incompatible with subsequent regularity and activity. The last state of that man or woman who uses drastic cathartics for constipation is decidedly worse than the first. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the finest laxative in existence, since it produces the needful but no abnormal action, is progressive, not abrupt in operation, and strengthens instead of weakening the organs upon which it acts. Use it for malarial, kidney, rheumatic and dyspeptic ailments.

NOTHING GREEN ABOUT HIM.

A Rural Traveler Who Was Up to the Tricks of the City Bunco Man.

He was an elderly man, probably fifty. His whiskers grew in a little tuft like Uncle Sam's, straight out from the point of his chin; his linen duster was evidently the same he had purchased to attend the state fair several years ago. He came out of the front end of the depot, gazed around in a bewildered fashion, up and down and across the street, and half a dozen cabmen rushed for him headlong.

"Cab, sir! Cab, sir! This way!"

"Any part of the city, sir; nice cab!"

"Take you to a good hotel, sir, for a quarter!"

One had his grip, the other the umbrella and a third had him pinioned by the ample folds of his duster. Just then a well dressed man who had been watching the occurrence approached, and waving the cabmen aside said, "Where do you want to go, sir?"

He recovered his grip, umbrella and breath first, glanced up at the man, granned a sardonic, rural, spasmodic grin, and as he gripped his belongings and backed off remarked sarcastically:

"That's none of your darned business. You'd like ter know what I come from, too, wouldn't ye? An ef my folks is all well, an how the crops are? Mebbe you know somebody down in our town an use to play on my farm when yer was a boy? Speak out, ain't I right? Ain't my name Smith an don't I remember Hiram Johnson an his boy Dick that run off to California? An don't I recognize you? Yes, I guess I do, an ef you don't git right out'n hyar darnal quick I'll call the perlice, I will I know yer didos. I an't been in Indianapolis five times fer nothin an don't take the papers jest fer the crop reports. You git now, quick."

"But I assure you, sir, you are mistaken. I don't know you and don't want to. I only thought"——

"Thought I'd like to cash a check, or play a lottery, or buy green goods, eh? Whar's yer pardner? An't it pretty near time fer him ter show up?"

"I tell you, sir, you are mistaken. I am in the employ of this railway, and just thought I might save you some trouble with those cabmen. Now go on, and if you do get buncoed, why don't say it wasn't your own fault," and the irate young man retired up stairs to the company's offices.

The agriculturist winked the other eye in admiration of his own shrewdness, and calling a cabman, said: "Young man, you take me to the —— building; that's whar the Universal Investment company is, ain't it? They advertise to pay $100 in six months on $1 a week put in, an begosh, I'm goin er buy some shares. Ther better'n county bonds."—Chicago Times.

His Fee a Clothespin.

Dominie Johnson, whom old Brooklynites will recollect, was "taken in" once. A wouldbe Benedict wrote to him to engage his services in tying the matrimonial knot, and hinted that he was saving a roll of five dollar gold pieces with which to fee the doctor.

"An evening or two later," said the clergyman, in telling the story, "he honored me with a call. He was accompanied by one of the prettiest little women I ever saw. I performed the ceremony, and he insisted upon my kissing the bride. He made an officious display of a long thin roll well wrapped in tinfoil, and as I bowed him out he slid it slyly into my side pocket. When I returned to my library I examined the roll and found"——

"What?"

"A clothespin surrounded with tenpenny nails! A month or two afterward he wrote to me from St. Louis saying that he had charged me the wedding fee I was to have received for kissing his bride."

"There is a halter awaiting that knave," concluded the clergyman warmly, "and I never read of a hanging that I do not wonder if he isn't the victim traveling to glory under an alias."—New York World.

A Navy Officers' Club.

Few people in Brooklyn are aware that there is an excellent club in operation at the navy yard. It is called the Officers' club, and only officers of the army and navy are eligible for membership. The clubhouse is situated near the York street gate, is an unpretentious brick building, painted yellow, like all the rest of the houses at the navy yard, and not much for looks on the outside. The interior, however, is exceedingly comfortable and homelike. There is a restaurant attached to the club, and an excellent dinner is served there to the officers at fifty cents a head. The other meals are a la carte.

A number of naval men have bachelor apartments in the building, and a jolly time they have of it there. The late Lieutenant Paul, who was William Waldorf Astor's brother-in-law, lived at the club while he was stationed at the navy yard, and made himself very popular there.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Men Who Have Traveled.

In the matter of mere distance covered the records of the world's famous travelers do not make much of a show beside those of some railroad men. An old railroad man named Layton, now a sleeping car superintendent at Indianapolis, has kept a record of his journeyings since 1863, and the total is 2,338,246 miles. Conductor S. G. Boone, late of the Reading, has covered 2,847,000 miles, and another Reading conductor has ridden something over 1,597,700 miles. Even these figures would probably be far surpassed by the records of some of the old captains of the ocean steamships.—New York Sun.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hill's Catarrh Cure.

SICK Head-Aches

Sick-headaches are the outward indications of derangements of the stomach and bowels. As Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is the only bowel regulating preparation of Sarsaparilla, it is seen why it is the only appropriate Sarsaparilla in sick-headaches. It is not only appropriate; it is an absolute cure. After a course of it an occasional dose at intervals will forever after prevent return.

Jno. M. Cox, of 735 Turk Street, San Francisco, writes: "I have been troubled with attacks of sick-headache for the last three years from one to three times a week. Some time ago I bought two bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and have only had one headache and that was on the second day after I began using it."
