OFFER HER A HOME.—Several good citizens have become interested in the old mare "Calamity," mentioned in Friday's JOURNAL. Superintendent Downing of the state prison says he will give her a shelter and plenty of food for the winter, where she can be comfortable and recuperate her wasted energies so as to be able to work. Tom Hubbard, another man with a big heart, reports a man who he thinks would take her. Others are interested in the poor old starved animal. It is claimed by Redfield, the junk dealer who was fined for cruel treatment of this once valuable beast, that she was given to him by a farmer near Salem, who wanted to get rid of her because she was going to die. Whoever was to blame for starving her should have been more severely punished. The old animal has undoubtedly earned thousands of dollars for her owners and is entitled to a competency in her old age, or to be decently killed, and not starved. If she keeps on making friends, some one will next offer to put silver shoes on her feet and prepare her for the next state fair. "Calamity" is going to be taken care of.

HOSIERY FACTORY.—A company has been organized to build and operate at Waterloo a factory for the manufacture of hosiery and all kinds of woolen goods. The plant has already been purchased at a cost of $60,000 and is being packed and will be in Lebanon inside of thirty days. Lumber has been secured and will be on the ground in a short time to build a large shed in which to store the machinery until the mill can be constructed. The machinery altogether weighs 150 tons.

ASSESSMENTS.—A. C. Clever and Ed Edes are footing up the assessment rolls in the county assessor's office. It will take several days to complete the footings. School Clerk Simpson assisted by H. H. Smith has nearly completed the assessment of the school district. This is very particular work and the work is necessarily slow.

GET THERE.—That is what the workmen did on the new Bush block, and the foundations of the Hughes-D'Arcy's block. That brick front is a good and square piece of brick-laying, and the stone work on the basement was well done. It is a good bit of compliment to the workmen on those jobs.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES.—County Superintendent Yoder has received from the state a full supply of school registry books, clerk's record books, and other blanks for teachers and officers that are furnished by the state. Send in your requisitions at once for what you need before the present supply is exhausted.

NEW BRIDGE.—The county commissioners let the contract today for a 50 foot span bridge with 160 foot approaches in the German settlement on Pudding river. The contract was let to J. McCoy at $443, against two other bidders. The bridge is to be put up within 60 days.

W. R. C. SOCIAL.—There will be a social by the ladies of Segwick Corps, W. R. C., at their hall Nov. 9th. A grand time is expected, and no doubt, those good ladies will once more make their many friends happy.

THE DOCKET CLEARED.

Miss Rigby Gets a Verdict for Nursing—Special Term Nov. 16.

Judge Boise worked hard the past two weeks to clear the docket and but for the railroad cases would have succeeded in doing so sooner. As court opens at Albany Monday, Oct. 25, the term will close here today.

State Insurance Co. vs. Salem Street Ry. Co., action for money; verdict for plaintiff, judgment on verdict.

Carrie E. Young vs. Wm. E. Young, divorce; decree, plaintiff awarded care of child.

Lute Savage vs. Amelia C. Rieley; continued.

Mary A. Ramp vs. Chas. Calvert; demurrer overruled.

Alexander Esson vs. Vallier Watler; to stand.

John Savage vs. City of Salem; motion to strike out part of answer.

Jesse Macy vs. R. L. Swartz; settled.

M. L. Ahalt vs. Sarah E. Ahalt, divorce; to stand.

C. B. Moore vs. Ellen L. Moore; report referee filed.

Ellen L. Moore vs. C. B. Moore; same.

C. W. Johnson vs. S. P. Co.; motion for new trial.

Annie E. Brooks vs. John M. Brooks; default, C. D. Ford referee.

State vs. S. P. Costello, selling liquor without a license; continued.

Thos. Holman vs. Nancy Clark; demurrer overruled.

Freestone Distillery Co. vs. A. I. Wagner; filed reply.

Same vs. F. P. Talkington, to be heard.

G. W. Vedder vs. Marion county, writ of review; to adjourn term, third Monday of November.

Mary Goodenough vs. Evin Daley, damages; continued.

Salem Street Ry. Co. vs. City of Salem; dismissed at cost of defendant.

Mohr Bros. vs. H. S. Simon; continued.

A. G. Jenkins vs. S. F. Jenkins, divorce; to stand.

The time of Judge Boise Friday evening and this morning was entirely taken up hearing motions in the railroad cases. They asked continuance until the February term.

The court will probably sit in a short session Monday morning, before the judge goes to Albany.

THE SPECIAL SESSION next month will be for hearing of equity cases, as when court adjourns this term every case will have been called and disposed of that could be. Judge Boise takes great pride in always closing up his work within the time set and there are few delays in litigation for which he is responsible.

THE DOCKET SATURDAY. In Johnson vs. S. P. Co., motion for new trial overruled.

Mary E. Corby vs. Chas. W. Corby, divorce; Geo. H. Burnett attorney, W. C. Day referee, default.

Lucinda S. W. vs. Geo. Swiggle; amended complaint to be filed.

141—H. W. Cottle vs. Amelia Strang.

142—State Insurance Co. vs. Salem Street Ry. Co.

143—State of Oregon vs. S. P. Farnum.

144—State of Oregon vs. G. A. Andrews.

An extra term of court will be held in November to expedite business that is not now ready.

KNOCKED OUT. The long-winded answer of the railroad companies was all knocked out today except the claim that the companies had not proper notice and that the commission rates are too low.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT. An Evil of Old Educational Methods Creates Disturbance at Portland.

The alleged case of corporal punishment on a rebellious pupil by Prof. Adams of the East Portland schools has aroused considerable interest among the teachers of the Portland schools. There has been some doubt expressed as to whether it is permissible under the school laws. The rule governing corporal punishment gives the principal of the school the prerogative of inflicting it at his own discretion. Subordinate teachers are strictly prohibited from punishing a pupil, except in the presence of the principal. All the school directors oppose corporal punishment, except in extreme cases. Professor Roby is in favor of a principal governing the school whenever he can, and forcibly when he must. He thinks a little punishment judiciously distributed among the disturbing elements will have a beneficial effect on the entire school. When he was principal of the Central school, which had 800 pupils enrolled, he punished eighteen pupils in one day, and in the succeeding four years not a single case occurred. Professor Roby is opposed to corporal punishment except in the case of ungovernable pupils.

Director Thompson is opposed to any kind of corporal punishment except in extreme cases.

Director Williams favors corporal punishment, but wants the principal to restrict it to rebellious pupils.

City Superintendent of Schools Pratt thinks that it is an element of evil in any teacher to let the necessity for a case of corporal punishment arise. All rebellious pupils should be disciplined as soon as they exhibit any sign of rebelliousness.

ALL FOR $17.—A. D. Webster, formerly of Albany, has been brought to Salem, where, according to the sentence of Judge Pipes, he will spend ten years in the state penitentiary, as a punishment for the murder of Robert Fales, though Webster declared to an Albany man, who conversed with him on the train, that the grand jury and circuit judge had agreed to sign a petition for his release in a year, which is very doubtful. Webster said he was not sorry for killing Fales, asserting that he only acted in self-defense, which seems to be a different view of the matter from that taken by the jury. The affair all arose from Fales demanding $17 for working seven or eight days in Webster's hotel, whereas the latter claimed only $2 was due to him.

LINCOLN IRON.—Parties in Salem today report wonderful developments in the new iron fields near Lincoln. The iron is on the Township farm and a company of capitalists have leased that farm and others, agreeing to pay 25 cts. a ton royalty for all ore taken out. The ore is in soft crystals and tests show it to go as high as 75 to 90 per cent of pure iron. Shipments will be made to the river by rail and thence by water to Oswego. The ore is far superior to that iron used at Oswego. With coal field developing to the east of Salem, and iron ore beds opening to the west of us there is no reason why Salem may not yet become a great center of iron industries.

BEATS THE WORLD.—If low prices will draw trade the whole country should now come to Salem and buy sugar. Granulated is sold 18 lbs. for $1.00; extra C, almost pure white, 20 lbs. for $1.00; and good yellow 22 to 23 lbs. for a dollar. One store advertises this as the effect of the McKinley bill. Whether it is the effect of that or not, Salem has as solid a lot of merchants as there are on the coast, and they can back up what they say. Now is the time to lay in your sugar.

BWARE OF THE MICROBES.—A JOURNAL reader wants it to suggest that while an ordinance is being drawn up to prohibit teams from driving on or Wilson avenue and Marion square, it should also include the nuisances of carpet beating, cow grazing, dumping, etc. He fears disease might be spread by the carpet cleaning process.

AN INVELEGATE SMOKER.—The one man in Salem who probably does more smoking than any other in Oregon is Ed Cross. His stock of smoked meats is one of the largest and best on the Pacific coast.

ARCHBISHOP RIORDAN left San Francisco for the East on the 17th, accompanied by Father McSweeney of Oakland. They will attend the Sulpician celebration at Baltimore and also the golden jubilee of the venerable Archbishop Kenrick of St. Louis, returning some time in December. Father Quill and Father Lane, the latter from Dublin, will officiate at the church of St. Francis de Sales during Father McSweeney's absence for two months.

Klein is a very small word, but when considered in the shoe business, it means considerable. Klein, the shoe man, is the leader.

A. NOLTNER VS. HARVEY SCOTT.

An Oregon Pioneer Runs His Texas Toothpick Clear through Tony Noltner.

ROSEBURG, Oct. 22, 1891.

EDITOR JOURNAL: I was sorry to see your paper give circulation to the false and silly statements of Noltner's paper, in regard to the ownership of the Oregonian in several of the state papers, and of that paper's probable establishment of an alliance publication at East Portland, but probably your limited knowledge of this fellow's early history, led you to believe it true. As I expected, several of the papers mentioned, notably the Albany Herald, have denied the assertion, and shown there was no foundation whatever for the statements made.

There is not a more unscrupulous liar or self-conceited ass in the state, than this same Noltner. He is the fellow who published month after month, in the interest of his party and political friends, that, as state printing expert, he had measured the work, but when put on oath before the commission to inquire into the facts, in answer to the question, "Did you measure the printing, without any qualification or reservation whatever?" He answered, "No," without any qualification or reservation whatever. Harvey Scott holds a position of as much honor and a great deal more power and influence than that of any Oregon Senator, and I am quite confident that the thought of dabbling in politics, or laying plans for his election as U. S. senator, has never been thought of by him. If he wanted the position, there is no one in Oregon better qualified, in my judgment.

PIONEER. "Job Davis supposed another will have been made and for some time said nothing, but when he learned that there was no later will he disclosed the fact that he held this document. I understood A. J. Davis holds the property for the benefit of all the family and claimed no exclusive possession. He has been willing, and considered himself bound, to divide equally with all the heirs, and as there would be about a million for each one, he thought there was enough for all. The New York nephew wanted more than his share and tried to work a game to get it, and has caused the trouble we read of.

The deceased was a man of great judgment, and secured several mining interests that have developed immense riches. At Butte their value is set at $12,000,000; there must be something in it, as since his death, scarce more than a year ago, the income from his estate has accumulated so that nearly $1,000,000 lies in bank waiting the issue of this suit to be divided among the heirs. So that, besides the estate itself, there is a cash fund sufficient to make every one of them a rich man, or at least, very comfortably off as the world goes."

The wish of the brother, who claims the will, is to divide this accumulation, and permit the great estate to go on accumulating, and divide its earnings as they are available.

THE WORLD ENRICHED. The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

A BUSTER.—Caterer Westcott, at Strong's, is a connoisseur of mushrooms and Friday captured one nine inches across. He found it under the high bank near the Salem Flouring mills. It is a beauty, and will garnish a dozen juicy beefsteaks.

Fine lot of dried salmon, eastern oysters, smelt, catfish, sturgeon, and poultry in abundance. Davison & White, Court street.

That car load of picture frames at Catterlin's is nearly gone, so hurry up with your coupon.

SPARRING.—At the Salem armory on Friday night there was a ten-round sparring contest between Wm. Lavan and Reddy Brennan, with gloves. There were also two rounds by others and a large crowd present.

Twenty Pounds of Sugar for $1.00.

Geo. F. Smith don't carry it, but makes picture frames of the best moldings at proportional prices. 307 Commercial street.

No SUGAR HERE.—Hollenbrand says he isn't offering a barrel of sugar for a dollar, but sells more pure candy than ever.

Baskets of all kinds, baby and doll cabs, express wagons, games of all descriptions, at low prices. Wm. Sargent.

The Davis Will Case.

John E. Davis, a wholesale grocery dealer at Salem, Mon., gave S. A. Clarke, of Butte, following particulars of the now famous Davis will case:

"The uncle never married, but lived many years with a woman, by whom he had a son that he fully recognized, and who is in accord with the other heirs who favor an equal distribution of the property. In all, there are eleven brothers and sisters of the deceased millionaire, and their children, and all the trouble seems to come from a son of one of the sisters, who has managed to become heavily indebted to wealthy men in New York who advance him the money to carry on this litigation, which can stop any time the other heirs will buy him off by giving him enough of the estate to satisfy his ambition. It is a game of bluff, and A. J. Davis and the rest of the family don't care to be bluffed.

"Many years ago the deceased (Davis) lived in Iowa and became wealthy there. He left for Montana and his son remained in Iowa. The brother, A. J. Davis, was in his confidence, and after his decease was thought by all the family in Montana, without having made a will—one Job Davis, an old Iowa fellow, but no relative, reported that he had been guardian for nearly a quarter of a century of a will made by the deceased before he left Iowa. There were several persons there who knew of this will and had seen it. It made A. J. Davis, his brother, heir to all his possessions.

University Notes.

Miss Minnie Lansing, a member of last year's junior class, came to chapel Friday.

The shingles are being put on the roof. By the first of next week all will be under shelter.

Mrs. Dr. Thompson addressed the school at 3 p. m. Friday, in behalf of the Y. W. C. A., in a very pleasant way.

It is generally supposed that the incipient turrets on the roof corners will grow to viable size with proper food and care.

A recital will be held next Wednesday evening of music and elocution to secure magazines, papers, etc., for the University reading room.

The rhetorical for the second term will be held on Thursday next, in the afternoon. All students below the third year preparatory, will participate.

The carpet in chapel has been re-laid. A general system of restoration will be inaugurated, and the building will be freed from all appearances of the fire. If not sooner, during the Xmas holiday the rooms can be re-kalsomined and re-painted there is needed.

The following are the rhetorical for the week. B. B. Barker, a good essay on "National Intercourse"; D. S. Benedict recited "Bacon on Studies"; Miss Merle Benedict, an essay on "System"; T. E. Brown recited Holmes humorous poem, "The Boys"; Fred Brown, an essay on "Success in Life. The Monday rhetoricals add a very pleasant feature to the school.
