

It was supposed would bring the defective and additional evidence. As, however, the detective did not put in appearance, the yacht was searched, and no sovereigns being found, the case was dismissed. It was noted, however, that all the sums expended by the men were in British sovereigns, and that the captain and cook left the yacht on its arrival here on account of her alleged suspicious movements. On being released Nov. 5, a new crew was shipped and the yacht put to sea, her ostensible destination being Japan. The yacht is still hovering about the islands, and it is estimated that she may head for San Francisco.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Wise, the murderer, was present at the coroner's inquest upon the body of his victim, Salter, and acted in a manner that confirmed the belief of those who have watched the case that he is a moral monstrosity. He chuckled and rubbed his hands with pleasure as the witness told the circumstances of the murder; how he had pushed young Salter over the cliff; how he had laughed at his victim's suffering, and how he had afterwards threatened to kill his own companion, the boy groom. Boat swin Stuckey, of the training ship on which Wise was a cadet, testified that Wise had told him the details of the murder in a smiling and unconcerned fashion, and had added the information that he had made a similar attempt to kill boys before, and had "tried to settle one" during his last vacation. Stuckey said he asked him if he did not fear future punishment for his crime, and Wise had replied that he did not care anything about it. Lieutenant Mills testified that the Salter murder, had confessed that he had strangled a boy in the Catholic school at Guildenford last July, and buried his body in the woods back of the school. Wise was wonderfully calm while telling of his crimes, but when the witness visited him again three hours afterward, a complete change had come over the boy's appearance and he looked like a ferocious maniac, with glittering eyes and sinister expression of countenance. After hearing further evidence the coroner committed Wise for trial at the Dorset assizes now in session. It is learned that Wise is a native of England, though he says that his parents are Americans and that his father died in an American asylum. He was born at Falling, a suburb of London, and is 15 years of age.

WORK FOR STRICKEN PEASANTS.
ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—Owing to the exceptional severity of the weather the government has given orders that work on the eastern portion of the Siberian railway shall be suspended for the present. As a measure of relief to many peasants in the famine stricken districts the government is considering the advisability of engaging thousands of them to work in the construction of the Siberian road during winter. The work of building the line will be resumed as soon as the weather moderates sufficiently. As a preventive and cure for croup Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no rival. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant and safe to take. There is not the least danger in giving it to children, as it contains no injurious substance. FROM CHILL.
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Nov. 19.—The United States cruiser San Francisco arrived this morning from Valparaiso, Chile, via Acapulco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—The San Francisco was present at the closing scenes of the Chilean revolution, and Admiral Brown in an interview, stated that the fall of Valparaiso after the defeat of Balmaceda's forces was attended with scenes of carnage and rapine. Reports of the bombardment of Iquique, the admiral stated, had been much exaggerated. Comparatively little damage having been done to the city. The family of Admiral Viel, Intendente of Valparaiso, and other refugees, were taken on board the cruiser Baltimore, and were landed at Mollendo, Peru. A number of minor offenders who were aboard the vessels, afterwards went ashore again at Valparaiso. Admiral Brown stated that despite the charges against the United States Minister Egan's conduct had been dignified and impartial. Concerning the reports that the cruiser San Francisco had acted as a spy at Quintero Bay, the admiral said that he had denied these charges both in a letter to Minister Egan and in his report to the navy department, and that he did not care to discuss them further.

W. C. T. U.
BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The W. C. T. U. convention after several days' session, closed yesterday. It was voted that a telegram be sent to the president and government of the United States against any belligerent action on the part of the United States against Chile. Resolutions as adopted pledge the members to renew efforts in the cause of total abstinence and prohibition, urge women to use every means practicable to secure equal governmental rights in state and church, declares unalterably against all political parties that in any way protect the liquor system; endorse that party which embodies in its platform the enfranchisement of women, prohibition of liquor traffic, and preservation of the sabbath; condemn the action of the state department in issuing a circular letter to consuls in the South and Central America, instructing them to gather all information possible regarding the beer trade in those countries, with the view of extending this business, condemns the use by tobaccoists of advertisement in the shape of women's forms and faces, and the use of obscene cards in cigar boxes and cigarette packages; protests against immoral theatrical literature and medical advertisements; advocates dress reform; protests against the publication by newspapers of details of crimes and sensational stories, etc.

DANGEROUS TWENTY-DOLLAR GOLD CERTIFICATE.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The secret service division of the treasury department has information of the existence of a most dangerous counterfeit gold certificate. It is a photographic counterfeit, check letter A—B. K. Bruce register, James Gillilan treasurer, act of July 12, 1882, department series A 372,945. Apart from the counter containing the figure 20 on the face, and the portrait of Garfield, there is little of the gray of the photograph about it. The seal is small and scalloped, having a reddish tinge, apparently applied with a brush. The number is very pronounced and heavier than in the genuine. The surface on the note is one-half of an inch narrower and one-eighth of an inch narrower than the genuine. It has the two parallel silk threads running through it. The tint on the back of the note is light brown, white in the genuine notes it is orange. This counterfeit is determined by the character of its tint rather than by the lines in the engraving, as it is a photograph of genuine work.

NATIONAL UNION CO.
MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—A special from Aberdeen, S. D., says: It is learned that the business department of the Alliance in twenty-two states of the Union has united with leading business men of New York City and formed a company similar in its plan of operation to the celebrated Rochdale system in England, and the co-operative stores in Utah. The organization is called "The National Union Company," and has large means at its command. It is asserted that the advantages to the Alliance are twofold. It will have the business ability and experience of some of the shrewdest men in the nation at its back, while there will apparently be plenty of capital to meet any emergency which may arise and to push business as circumstances permit. In return, the Alliance will give the organization its patronage. It is the aim of the new organization to buy out a merchant in every trade center of importance, stock him with everything he wants in the line of general every day goods demanded by farmers and make him the local manager of the concern.

THE BRAZIL TROUBLE.
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The steamship Eardale, from Rio Janeiro, arrived at Brooklyn yesterday morning. The ship left before serious trouble began in Brazil, but the officers bring some interesting news. The Eardale sailed from Rio on the morning of October 24, having been in port about two weeks. During that time there were no United States war vessels in the harbor, but there were two British and French cruisers. Of all the Brazilian men-of-war in the Rio navy-yard, only two appeared to be in commission, so the reports which reach here of activity in the Brazilian navy are probably exaggerated. "The only trouble known of," said one of the Eardale's officers, "occurred the night of October 8. A great crowd of medical students had gathered at one of the theaters where a rather popular actress was the cause of a good deal of cheering and shouting. The police objected to the disorder, and tried to put a stop to it. The result was a rush of students against the police, who drew their swords and pistols, and fought the crowd. Several students were killed and a number of the combatants on both sides badly injured. On the following night the police and students met in a row, which resulted in the death of two of the latter and a number of minor casualties. A young Englishman, who happened to pass down the street where the fight occurred, was killed instantly by a stray bullet. As a result of this rioting, mounted police patrolled the streets of the capital night and day, and after dark it was unsafe to go into the streets. The garrison was not called on for assistance, probably because the army would have sided with the civilians. The soldiers hate the police. The latter are made up of the worst classes. They are mostly negroes. "Was there any political significance in this student riot," was asked. "I think not. The Republic can form of government has not panned out as it was expected. There is a powerful faction desiring the reinstatement of the empire. They want Dom Pedro's son or his nephew on the throne. Since the fall of the empire prices of every commodity have doubled. The government has imposed a high tariff." The officer said further, it was the general opinion at Rio when he left that the government would not last many months longer. He was not surprised when he read of the revolutionary movement.

EATEN BY WOLVES.
ST. PAUL, Nov. 19.—News has reached this city that three children of Andrew Gulik, near New Brighton, were killed by wolves yesterday afternoon. Prairie fires early in the fall drove a large number of wolves down from the north. The children wandered into the woods and were attacked, and before aid could reach them their bodies were partially devoured. Armed men killed eleven of the wolves and a regular expedition will start today.

WANTS A RICH MINSTER.
VIENNA, Nov. 19.—A strong feeling of insubordination is developing among the Hungarian clergy against the new primate of Hungary, Dr. Klaus Vassary. The new primate differs in every respect from his predecessor. Cardinal Simon was worth millions and lived in a style befitting his station. The successor of Cardinal Simon speaks of himself as "being as poor as a church mouse," having brought nothing with him from the convent from which he was promoted to the arch-Episcopal palace. It is believed that the primate will be made a cardinal in the spring. It is rumored that the late Cardinal Simon began life as a poor boy.

THE KAISER AND THE USURY LAW.
BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Among the moral evils which the Kaiser has undertaken to cure is that of usury. The Kaiser blames usury for much of the misery among his subjects. He believes that the present usury law, passed in 1880, is inadequate to deal with the evil, and he proposes to have a brand-new law that will make usurers unhappy and protect the poor and needy.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 19.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis and daughter Win-ale left the city today for Memphis, Tenn. The Richmond Dispatch tomorrow in editorial will say: "The southern states ought to vote a person to Mrs. Davis, and Virginia should lead the movement. It is nothing but fair and proper that we should cut her upon the same footing that the United States government places widows of its presidents. That duty devolves upon the states that composed the confederacy. As the confederacy is a thing of the past, it cannot be a very costly precedent, for inasmuch as there never will be another confederacy, there never will be another widow of a confederate president."

THE SILVER QUESTION.
LONDON, Nov. 19.—The News in its financial articles of this morning in referring to the speech of Secretary Foster at the chamber of commerce banquet in New York on Tuesday night says:
"Secretary Foster's speech confirms the opinion that America has gone too far to draw back. The United States treasury is in the same position as the Bank of France, it has been saddled with an immense stock of silver while taking measures to hold no large resources of gold, that it might just as well not keep silver at all."
"Americans seem so occupied with crop and trade prospects that they have neglected currency matters."

Aluminum is almost three times as heavy as iron, weight for weight; it is nearly four times as bulky as silver, and more than seven times as bulky as gold. SYRUP OF FIGS

HE ESCAPED THE DEATH PENALTY.

A Confederate sentenced to be shot for treason has escaped the gallows. "I have one man under sentence of death for smuggling arms across the lines, and hope Mr. Lincoln will approve it." This sentence was contained in the letter from General Sherman to his brother, John Sherman, written from Memphis, Tenn., under date of Aug. 13, 1863, and published since the general's death.

The man whose death sentence was referred to by General Sherman is M. A. Miller, an ex-captain of engineers in the Confederate army, who lives on a farm in Henrico county, near this city. Captain Miller has narrated the story of his wonderful escape from the doom that awaited him. Says the captain: "It was such a sudden thing the way in which I was first made aware of the seriousness of my position. It was one afternoon late in July, 1863, while I was in a Federal prison in Memphis, Tenn., that a friend of mine, a Miss Gibson, who had been to call on me, whispered, 'Lieutenant, you are under sentence of death and are to be shot at an early day. Take my advice and get away from here before they put the breech-locks on your wrists and shackles on your ankles, for then you will be totally disabled and can do nothing.'"

"Mr. Lincoln did approve the sentence of death, but I am still here while and General Sherman have gone to join Lee and Jackson and other good soldiers. When Sherman first took possession of Memphis he issued an order declaring gold, medicines and salt contrabands, and as such prohibited their sale to the people. But his orders were practically ignored and we got anything we wanted.

"For a month I was steadily supplying our soldiers with arms, and met with no serious difficulty. But one afternoon in July my good luck deserted me. I was carrying over two boxes of officers' swords, and was in the middle of the river when a picket boat ran up to me. I at once knew that danger was ahead and jumped on the gunwales of the boat I tried to sink it, but the skill was too heavy and would not dip. The officer in charge of the picket boat arrested me and the skill man also, and took us with the two boxes to a gunboat near by.

"There the boxes were opened and as soon as the nature of their contents was disclosed I was at once carried to the military prison in the Irving block, in the center of the city."

Miller describes his trial by court martial, conviction and sentence to be shot the Friday following the Monday of his conviction. Of his escape the captain says that he induced his guard, who was not aware of the gravity of his sentence, to let him go home to see his sick child. While in the house he went upstairs, jumped out of a window and fled through the lines.—Atlanta Constitution.

Practical Joking in England.
Americans do not understand practical joking in the same sense that it is understood in England. Practical jokers who tried their pranks in the United States would probably receive a reception that might astonish them. In England practical joking seems to be the summum bonum of many men's lives.

At a country house in England there is certain to be a good deal of practical joking, particularly if there is one man who is considered "slow." In Kent, not long ago, when a cricket week was in progress, a guest had the bad luck to incur the ill will of the rest of the men in the party. He declined to stay up late in the smoking room, and refused to join in a game of cards. One night after he had gone to bed the rest of the men gathered at his door, and finding he had retired, went in and carried him and the bed bodily down stairs and out of doors, where they carefully made up his bed, with him in it, in the middle of the cricket field.—New York World.

Large Deposits of Onyx in the Ozarks.
Large deposits of onyx have been found in the Ozark mountains, only a short distance from St. Louis. The only onyx in the market has hitherto come from Puebla, Mexico, so the discovery of this new vein is of considerable commercial importance. Onyx is very valuable, selling for from three dollars to fifteen dollars per cubic foot. The buyer taking the risk of possible flaws below the surface. In mining it no powder can be used, so holes are drilled in rows and wooden plugs inserted. These are then caused to swell by soaking in warm water, and a solid mass of the desired size is thus separated without danger. The onyx is reached through a wide mouthed cave in the mountain side, so it can be marketed at very slight expense.—New York Telegram.
