BUNCHED.—The fool killer needs to strike the man mentioned in the following: Morris Peyer, a former merchant of Port Townsend, undoubtedly thinks it is. Some time ago he fell in love with a black-eyed Jewish maiden in Southern California, who at first was not inclined to favor his suit, but finally capitulated. On his wedding day he presented his father-in-law with a certified check for $5,000, and it is thought this had a great deal to do with the young lady's acquiescence. They went on a short bridal tour, and on their return the wretched dandy persuaded her infatuated father-in-law to transfer his Port Townsend store over to his loved father-in-law. The old folks allowed the young people to live in their San Francisco residence, and they came to Port Townsend. The first thing done was to bounce Peyer's brother, whom Morris had left in charge, from the store, and then Coleman, the father-in-law wired his daughter to leave her lord and fly to the arms of her parents. She flew. Now Morris has commenced a suit for divorce and to annul the transfer of the property.—Albany Democrat.

NEW BOUNDARIES.—As the Yew Park school will open next Tuesday morning, we give below the boundaries, showing what children will be eligible to attend at the new building. The boundary limits admit all children living south of State street, and above 12th street, belonging to the first, second, third or fourth grades, also those belonging to these grades below 12th street, between Trade street and the south branch of Mill creek. All other boundaries in the district remain the same for the present. Work at the "Park School," as this new building will be known, will begin at 9 o'clock Tuesday, when the directors and other visiting friends are expected to be present for the opening exercises. A public raising of the large flag, donated by John H. Albert, will be held later in the season, when the school is settled and the weather more propitious for such an occasion. The school will be in charge of Mrs. McAdams, principal, with Misses Crossett and Bentley as assistants.

GRAND CONCERT TONIGHT.—The social and musical event of the season promises to take place tonight at Reed's opera house, occasioned by the appearance of the Second Regiment band in a concert of solos and descriptive selections never before attempted, and the prizes are beautiful, being a handsome plush mounted clock, a water set and tray, pair of ladies' slippers, gent's cravat (elegant) and a toilet set in leather case. Tickets on sale at Patton's. Admission 25 cents.

OREGON AT CHICAGO.
What Supt. McElroy is Doing Towards an Exhibit at the World's Fair.

At least one state official is bestirring himself to secure for Oregon that representation which should be her share in the glories of the Pacific northwest to be revealed to the gaze of the world in 1893.

Supt. E. B. McElroy does not propose Oregon shall be entirely left as tail-ender in the procession of states, and expressed himself to a JOURNAL reporter as follows:

EDUCATIONAL INTERESTS.
"The question: Shall Oregon's educational interests be represented at the great Columbian exposition to be held at Chicago in 1893, or shall we, the teachers of the state, (like some other departments and resources we might mention) continue to snooze and doze and doze until we really fall in complete state of innocuous desuetude, from which nothing can arouse us except it be the blast of Gabriel's trumpet in the end? Or, shall we go to work and advocate and help prepare an educational exhibit for presentation at Chicago in 1893, an exhibit of which we shall not feel ashamed?" The professor was plainly warning up to the subject.

"Every person with whom I have talked is expecting to go to Chicago in 1893. Well how shall we all feel when we do get there, and every other state and territory represented except Oregon? How will we feel and what shall we say, when the stirring and active teacher from California, with the golden badge pinned to his breast, walks up to us—and says—"I'm from the active, enterprising, living, golden state of California—where are you from? Come over to our California headquarters and have some of our figs, oranges and peanuts until you can't rest?"

"Under such circumstances, we shall probably feel like 'a bound boy at a husking,' or, that we must seek for happiness in some other world."

THE JOURNAL is glad to know that the prospects for a good exhibit are now favorable and that our state will be represented. State Supt. McElroy has already taken steps in this direction and we are certain that the work will be effectually prosecuted to a successful end. We have requested Supt. McElroy, to send us all recent correspondence relative to this important subject.

Marion county is destined to play an important part in an Oregon exhibit and her delegation to the next legislature should be made up largely of the class of men who have this matter at heart and have the disinterested zeal to emphasize the importance of the matter so as to secure proper legislation.

CUT DOWN THE HILL.
And Build the Viaduct Before the Railroad is Extended South.

Conversations with many leading business men of Salem show that it is not desirable to allow the Electric Railroad company to build another trestle across South Mill creek. One large property owner is also strongly opposed to allowing the road to put its line down before the hill is cut down. He says: "To pull the cars up and down the hill will be a constant source of expense, and some danger. It will make travel slower and the hill is needed to fill the creek bed if a bridge is built. The fill could be made very cheaply and it should be done. Another heavy taxpayer expressed himself to this effect:

"Two things that should not be done—the electric railroad should not be allowed to build a trestle nor run its line over the hogback on South Commercial street. The viaduct should be built and the hill cut down before the line is put through and permanently mars the beauty of what should be Salem's leading commercial thoroughfare. South Commercial street if levelled down to a reasonable grade will eventually become good business property. The interest of the railroad company would seem to be identical with the city in this respect. There are already several stores on South Commercial street and it is the true interest of all South Salem property owners to have the hill cut down."

THE JOURNAL believes the whole improvement of viaduct and cutting the hill down is within the reach of the present city government, and would be the means of giving employment to labor which is sorely needed. The proper committee of the city council should be asked to take hold of the movement.

THE SICK LIST.
There are still about twenty out of the three hundred ailing, but only two or three are very sick. Two little boys are undoubtedly going to die soon. One is from near Portland, and the other one who is worse afflicted is a native of Orcas Island, Puget Sound. He has had a fever and it had resulted in a fever sore on his face, causing blood poisoning. He cannot live until Sunday, it is thought. Dr. Farley has been obliged to give up his position as institute physician, and has removed to Dallas. He has been in a bad way from inflammatory rheumatism for some time.

STATE FAIR.—The premium list of the state fair for 1892 is out, and all persons interested can secure copies of the same by calling at THE JOURNAL office. $15,000 in cash premiums is offered, and a grander display than ever should be made this year. The fair begins Sept. 12, and lasts one week.

WORKMEN WANTED.—A number of good men can get employment by calling at the office of the Salem Street Car Company in the Insurance block.

LAST DAY.—Saturday will be the last day for Geo. F. Smith at the old stand. Slaughter prices will prevail, and all wishing to save dollars, should take advantage of this event.

SALE PENDING.—A. B. Buren & Son contemplate purchasing the Rotan stock of furniture, but the bargain had not been closed today.

PROBATE.—A final account in the estate of Polly Swartz has been filed and hearing set for March 7th, at 10 a. m.

NO BAD EGGS.—All eggs sold by Davidson & White are tested, stamped and guaranteed.

COCO.—Is the best nickel cigar in town. Clark & Eppley sell it.

WAR IN CHINATOWN.
A White Man's Ultimatum Nearly Crushes a Celestial Skull.

Ross Evans, John Donnellson and Elmer Smith were enjoying the sights of Chinatown at a late hour Thursday evening, in the course of which they were involved in a melee of large size.

Coming up Liberty street they encountered a band of Mongolians in front of Lee Quong's establishment, all more or less fuddled with New Year's gin. Not giving way, Elmer Smith let drive at one mandarin on Lee, peeling his left temple badly. In a moment Chinatown was awake and the street was alive with enraged Celestial warriors who filled the air with missiles from a convenient rooftop. Eight of them were on Ross Evans' back at once and the air was bloody with yell, exploding crackers and pistols going off in every direction. The whitesmen fled, leaving the ground more or less strewn with wounded Mongols.

ARRESTS.
followed this morning on complaint of On Lee, and Smith paid his fine and e-sts of $17.50 before Recorder Goodell. Evans and Donnellson will stand trial at 2 p. m. They claim they were only innocent spectators and mere passers-by. The two had a mountain of fun and will not soon forget their night's adventure in Chinatown.

AT THE INDIAN SCHOOL.
The New Superintendent Fails to Show up so Far—Sickens and Other Matters.

Supt. Irwin is still in charge of Harrison Institute, the Indian training school near Salem. He is just up from a week's illness and has not heard a word from Chas. H. Watson, of Massachusetts, the appointee of Indian Commissioner Morgan. This state of affairs is hardly courteous to the present incumbent who does not know when to expect the Bay state man, or whether to expect him at all.
