THE ONLY WAY LEFT IS TO CALL AN EXTRA SESSION.

It is now perfectly apparent that there is no hope that this congress will pass a $430,000 appropriation in any form whatever for a portage railway at The Dalles. No one questions the good faith of Governor Penoyer in asking congress to give that sum to open the Columbia, or in seriously expecting to obtain hearing for his request. But the indications from Washington point unmistakably to the conclusion that the combination of circumstances is such that it is folly for the governor to any longer be under the delusion that he has anything to expect from this congress. Holman's hostility to all unusual, extraordinary or new items of expenditure; a Democratic congress desirous of making an economy record; the Republican senate already committed to a canal and locks project partly completed, Senator Mitchell championing a boat railway; the influence of the Union Pacific railway in congress against opening the Columbia river—all these conspiring circumstances unite to make the probable chance of congressional aid almost a perfect impossibility. It would be difficult of procuring, all things favoring. As it is, there is no use to waste a word on the subject.

Before the Oregon legislature the matter would be very different. There is a harmonious relation between the governor and the legislature on the subject of a portage railway. Both are committed to it. It was recommended by him and passed one house, and was defeated in the other not upon its merits, but as a mere by-play of politics. If the same legislature were called together it could in two weeks provide for a portage railway at The Dalles. The people of Eastern Oregon are entitled to it for the marketing of their present and their next harvest. A succession of bad years, with failures of crops and losses of stock, has left them in bad shape. Last year's big crop has only partially put them on their feet. Good snow falls indicate a big crop in 1892. The prosperity of that region absolutely demands the opening of the Columbia, and it has been proven that a portage railway will open it. If the governor wishes to do something for that section he should call the legislature together and demand of it relief for Eastern Oregon. Now is the time to do it. It could not refuse to comply. It would not dare to not act. With an election just ahead of it, it would not fail to act rightly.

FOR FREE COINAGE. Senator Stewart concluded his speech on the president's objections to free coinage in these words: The question now is, shall this money famine inaugurated by legislation be continued? Shall the corner which the money kings of the world hold on the circulating medium be maintained? Shall prices continue to decline and money advance in value, or shall we retrace our steps, rehabilitate silver, endow it with all the attributes it possessed before it was demonetized, place it alongside of gold, double the circulation and credit, and relieve this generation of the evil effects of a money famine? Let no politicians be deceived. The question of the restoration of silver cannot rest until it is settled. "Unsettled questions have no pity for the repose of mankind." Political parties and private gain count for nothing when weighed in the balance against the prosperity of the people. I appeal to the advocates of gold: Change your policy; do right; allow the country to prosper; it will not injure you. You have gathered your harvest by the enhanced value of money. Further contraction is dangerous. You will lose more by the bankruptcy and failure of your debtors than you can extort from them by further increasing the value of money. I appeal to congress to make every dollar equal to every other dollar by the only method possible—free and unlimited coinage of both of the precious metals. Treat gold and silver alike, and the value of all your coined dollars will be equal; the uncoined metals, gold and silver, will be equal to each other at the ratio of 16 to 1. Give back the money of the constitution; restore to the people the heritage reserved for them in the mines of gold and silver they have discovered and developed.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION. It is characteristic of the Oregonian to propose that the second district congressional convention should be held in that city and outside of the district. There is no reason why the first convention in the newly-created district should not be held within the boundaries of the district. The boundless ambition of Portland politicians to dictate the politics of the state of course moves the Oregonian to propose such a thing, when it is the universal custom all over our country to make congressional nominations by separate conventions held for that purpose within the several districts. The Republicans of this district will hardly consent to hold their convention at Portland. Some other city in the valley is the place.

THE OREGONIAN AND SOME OF THE ALLIANCES. They seem to be fighting together in refusing to give the present railroad commission any credit for good work for the people. The Alliance have the excuse that they are in favor of government ownership, an excuse the Oregonian cannot have because it opposed to that also. It copies any item from its exchanges that reflects on the commission. It never says a word in recognition of the services of the commission in reducing freight rates, correcting discriminations, abolishing evil practices and rendering decisions that hold the corporations responsible for negligence and thereby establishing the safety of the traveling public. It pretends to favor the commission system but in reality it is opposed to an efficient commission or to a commission of any service to the public.

The Oregonian finds fault with the new silver coins. The people who are glad to get them do not.

The supreme court of the United States has judicially determined that ex-Senator Thayer, of Nebraska is an ass.

The Dayton Herald says of him: "The friends of L. V. Ehlen, of Butteville, Marion county, request him to be a candidate for county clerk of Marion county. Mr. Ehlen is a brother to Dr. W. H. Ehlen, formerly of Dayton. If the people of Marion want an honest and upright man and one who is capable of performing the duties of clerk, we believe that Mr. Ehlen is the man."

We know Mr. Ehlen to be a good business man, and a substantial German American farmer who will conscientiously attend to any duty intrusted to him by the people.

ROCK CREEK ITEMS. Lincoln Henness has his parents a flying visit last week.

Lon Shepherd is driving a logging team for Joshua Drury.

D. D. Coffey begins a term of school at Mill City, Feb. 1st.

Our oldest weather prophets say the hardest of our winter is past.

The Henness saw mill seems to be doing considerable business now days.

We have been having some lovely winter days this month, with no snow nearer than the mountain top.

Some of our good people are struggling with the grip. It seems to be quite fashionable again.

District 99, Linn county, has no teacher yet. Miss Maggie McKnight teaches near Solo.

Chas. Shepherd fell and hurt himself quite badly while working on a logging camp at Green Basin a few days ago.

Mr. Read, a merchant of Albany, has put in a fine stock of dry goods and groceries in Dan Smith's building at Gateville.

Tom Barnes now owns a wood saw and uses all his spare time in sawing wood for any one who has such work to be done.

The majority of the cattle running at large in these parts have needed no feed as yet, the range has been good all winter.

The mill company's hall at Mill City, was christened Friday night by a dance, a fine time was the result.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse. Mr. and Mrs. Loren Tremont are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, for you may get a trial bottle free at Daniel J. Fry's drugstore, 225 Commercial street.

AT COST.—That stock of china and glass tableware, Gilbert & Patterson.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

Clarence Solbeck, aged 14 years, was accidentally shot and killed Sunday at Olympia by his brother, 11 years old.

The Box & Rhodes shingle mill at Centralia, Wash., was destroyed by fire Monday. The mill was valued at $8000.

At Castle Rock, near Kalama, Gilbert Hoarford shot and killed his brother James in a quarrel about a young lady school teacher.

A Washington correspondent says that Governor Penoyer is to blame if Senator Mitchell's bill for a boat railway at the Dalles does not pass.

Colonel Hernandez, the Mexican insurgent recently captured by government troops, was shot dead by a guard Monday, while attempting to escape.

Thomas Bob, a wealthy Puyallup Indian, died at Tacoma Monday from the effects of a blow from a billiard cue across the head, given him by Archie McKay, a white man, in a quarrel over a game of pool.

Herbert Shepherd, a 12-year-old boy of Mondovi, Wash., Monday, tried to kill a neighbor's family with a Winchester rifle. He shot D. M. Burge in the hip, and fired three times at a farm hand, but missed him.

Deafness Can't be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Rev. Mr. Spurgeon died shortly after 11 o'clock Sunday night at Mentone. His end was painless. He remained unconscious to the last. His wife, Dr. Fitzhenry and Mrs. Thorne were present when he died. At all the services held Sunday in the Metropolitan Tabernacle, of which Mr. Spurgeon was pastor, the auditorium was packed. Rev. Mr. Plonson and others offered earnest prayers and read to the congregation telegraphic bulletins from Mentone. The morning papers contain long memoirs and obituary articles. The Chronicle appears with a mourning border. It compares the dead pastor to Martin Luther. The Telegraph characterizes him as a great, fearless and faithful minister, and adds: "He leaves a void that will be filled with difficulty." The body will be brought to England for burial. Once or twice during his last hours Mr. Spurgeon recovered consciousness for a few moments and recognized his wife. His friends had been confident that he would recover, because the last attack was milder than the previous one, but the gout reached his head and the congestion of the kidneys returned. During all the moments when he was conscious he constantly thought of his wife, and once or twice expressed himself as anxious to send a message to his congregation.

Weather Report, Jan. 1892. During January, 1892, there were 13 days of which rain fell, and 4.30 inches of water. There were 1 clear, 6 fair, 21 cloudy, and 3 foggy days. The highest temperature for the month was 54° on the 29th. The lowest temperature for the month was 22° on the 13th. The mean temperature for the month was 37.5°. Monthly range of temperature, 32°. Greatest daily range of temperature 23° on the 25th. Least daily temperature 2° on the 16th. Mean temperature 11 14-31". Average mean temperature for January, (23 years) 38.8°; for this year it is below normal by 1.3°. Average precipitation in same time 5.89 inches; for this year it is below normal by 1.69 inches. Lunar halo on the 5th. Frost occurred on the 4, 5, 6, 7, 11, 12, 13, 14, 17, 18, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 30, 31. The winds were south 10, southwest 5, north 16 days. Highest barometer for the month, 30.485; lowest, 29.571; mean, 30.157. From and after the 10th, the weather has been generally favorable for plowing, and the time has been pretty well employed in plowing for summer follow. There has been a few stinging frosts but not sufficiently severe to materially injure the grass. Fall sown wheat looks well, stock so far is coming through in very fair condition. THOMAS PEARCE. Eats, Feb. 2, 1892.

MISCELLANY.

SHE WANTS $12,000 DOLLARS. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Swift, wife of the deceased minister to Japan, is in the city, and has a claim of $12,000 before congress for money expended from her private income for improvement made on the new United States legation at Tokio, Japan. The old United States legation there was such a poor structure that it was an object of ridicule among European residents, and it was through the energy of the late Minister Swift that an appropriation was made for the erection of a new legation. The appropriation was not sufficient to complete the structure, and Mrs. Swift used $12,000 of her private funds to finish it. If the minister had lived to complete his term of office, thereby enabling the family to enjoy the benefits of the improvements made, no claim for $12,000 would have been made, but as the minister died and the family were compelled to return home, Mrs. Swift thinks the money should be refunded.

A TOTAL LOSS. LONDON, Feb. 3.—The gales of Monday night caused a heavy sea to run in the channel, which added to the dangerous position of the steamer Elder, on Atherfield ledge. The place is exposed to the full force of wind and sea, is the most perilous in the channel. The wind continued to freshen throughout the night, and the position of the Elder grew worse and worse. She pounded quite hard upon the rocks. The crew staid by her. Her stern has sunk further, lifting the bow higher. Should she slide off the ledge she will surely go to the bottom. Marine men think she will almost surely be lost. Captain Hennecke signaled the leak was gaining rapidly on the pumps. At 11 a. m. yesterday the position of the Elder became most critical. The tide was rising and a flood of water poured into the steamer. The afterhold being full pulled the stern down, leaving the forehold perfectly dry. The pumps on the Elder were kept working at their full capacity all night, but the sea kept slowly gaining, the water pouring through a hole in her side, where the rocks had torn the iron plates. At day-break yesterday, signals were run up asking for help. The lifeboats were immediately sent out, and after a dangerous passage everybody was landed in safety. A few bags of mail and 227 passengers were taken to Southampton, where all destined to Bremen will be transferred to the steamer Havel, which arrived at Southampton this afternoon. All passengers concur in deploring the sensational reports that a panic prevailed when the steamer struck or afterwards.

GRAIN FOR RUSSIA. NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Ex-Governor John W. Hoyt, of Wyoming, came to New York from Washington in the interest of the movement to send grain to the starving people of Russia. He was requested recently to form a committee of prominent men throughout the country which should give direction to the efforts now being made in a somewhat spasmodic way to relieve the distress among that country's peasantry. In response to that request, Mr. Hoyt has communicated with Chauncey M. Depew, George W. Childs, the mayors of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore,
