

It is not known yet whether any were killed. A multitude of prisoners were taken and lodged under a strong guard in the cells. The military organized under arms, but took no part in the struggle. This course is said to have been followed by the direct order of the kaiser, who was made aware of the situation as soon as the riot first broke out. He commanded that the military should not interfere unless the police should prove themselves unable to cope with the mob.

The authorities had taken great alarm over the occurrences of Thursday night, and have been on the qui vive, expecting far more serious disturbances would follow the discovery of their own strength as workingmen. That night every policeman was on duty. The chief of police in company with several of his aides on horseback visited different parts of the city that had been scenes of the disturbances. Disorders on the outskirts of Berlin have been far more serious than in the center of the city. Inflamed by their excesses the rioters, many members of whom had passed the whole night in the streets, began to renew their disturbances yesterday morning. The law-abiding residents of the city have taken alarm, and many of them do not dare to leave their dwellings.

At an early hour, menacing crowds of workingmen began to assemble in Unter den Linden. There was a strong force of police present, however, and they kept the crowd of idlers continually moving. By noon the crowds had augmented to such an extent the police were compelled to charge them to clear the streets. They met with a determined resistance, but finally dispersed the rioters.

The mob in Kaiser Wilhelm square were determined to hold their ground. The police charged several times with drawn swords, and finally, after a determined resistance on the part of the rioters, who fought with sticks and stones, they were routed. Quite a number of the mob were severely hurt, and the leaders fell into the hands of the police.

Several socialist meetings were held in the vicinity of the boulevards, and this fact did not have a reassuring effect upon the operators there, as they feared the mob might attack their headquarters of speculation, which are held by many as partly responsible for the bad times existing.

The rioters tried to break through the police at the castle gate and almost succeeded, when a force of mounted officers arrived and broke up the crowd, riding down and injuring them.

Emperor William does not show any anxiety as to the final outcome of the present troubles. There was great excitement in the vicinity of the castle at 3:30 yesterday afternoon when his majesty, attended by an aid, and preceded by two mounted policemen, emerged on horseback from the castle court and rode slowly through the streets, notwithstanding they were packed by excited masses of people. He was loudly and enthusiastically cheered by the masses as he proceeded.

THE SITUATION IS SERIOUS. LONDON, Feb. 27.—A Berlin correspondent of the Times says: "The impression created in Germany by Emperor William's speech at Brandeburg is indelible. It is felt that the gauntlet is thrown down and the struggle of the government with the growing opposition will be fought to the bitter end. Education, liquor traffic, and other unpopular bills will be forced through the legislature. The emperor's words have solidified the radical coalition. Ministers are now in the presence of the united opposition of national liberals, radicals and socialists, and the government will be delivered, and the government will be delivered, bound hand and foot, into the hands of the centerists."

Later from Berlin. BERLIN, Feb. 27.—Conflicts between the police and a mob of three thousand rioters continued in Rensenthaler strasse until 1 o'clock last night. The police attacked the rioters with the flat sides of sabres. The mob was at length routed, and dispersed into side streets, where scattered bands began the work of looting the shops of butchers and bakers. It is asserted that only a few genuine workmen took part in the demonstration.

Prominent doctors testified that they thought an overdose had been given.

BOODLE MEN. The Canadian Commission Show More Money Was Received. MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—The latest revelations before the royal commission prove that over one hundred thousand dollars was received at different times by Mercier, Laugel and Paquet, in addition to such sums heretofore disclosed. In a speech delivered last night Premier D'Amboise hinted at the arrest of some members of the Mercier government and their friends.

SILVER QUESTION.

Agitation by Outsiders to Influence Legislation. WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The report that Great Britain has consented to take part in the international monetary conference and indicated that the Bank of England is willing to hold one-fifth of its reserve in silver is denied at the treasury department in most positive terms and one prominent official made no attempt to conceal his opinion that the present agitation of the question is for the sole purpose of influencing favorable action on Senator Teller's bill now before the senate. Providing for an international conference and thereby effecting the postponement of action at this session of congress on the question of free silver. It is learned from other sources of unquestioned reliability that there has been no material change in the situation on this question since the opening of this session of congress.

CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER. He Will Probably Resign if a Democratic President is Elected.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 27.—A Washington special says: Chief Justice Fuller, of the supreme court, is seriously contemplating tendering his resignation and that if a Democrat shall be elected president he will probably resign shortly after the inauguration. The reasons assigned are that he is comparatively young and does not care to go on the shelf. That the pay is inadequate to meet his living expenses and that the work is hard and trying, leaving him little leisure.

New York Life Insurance. NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—A committee of the policy holders of the New York Life Insurance company has made its report. Latest from Berlin. BERLIN, Feb. 27.—This city today is far more tranquil than for the two days past. Up to 3:30 o'clock there has been no disorders, authorities have better control and several small gatherings were easily dispersed. The streets are crowded, but the people are animated chiefly with curiosity to look upon the destruction wrought by the mobs. The police are vigilant and though no further disturbance is anticipated they keep the crowds moving and will not allow the holding of meetings on the streets.

The Anti-Option Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The subcommittee on Judiciary yesterday resumed a hearing on the anti-option bill. John B. Passos, of New York, opposed the bill, terming it an unnecessary interference by congress with the mercantile interests of the country. Regarding the so-called evil effects of boards of trade and exchanges, he asserted that although thousands of persons probably were ruined every year by speculation that was no reason why these exchanges of business should be interfered with by congress. The farmers today would be in a miserable state but for the existence of boards of trade and exchanges. C. W. Davis, of Wichita, Kan., argued in favor of the bill. He opposed both long and short selling as detrimental to trade.

A Man Robbed and Murdered. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Early Tuesday morning the battered and bruised remains of an old Frenchman were found on the Cliff House beach. Yesterday they were identified as those of Pierre Heileringer, 67 years old. Heileringer was a laborer who had saved considerable money. He sold all his effects and left his house last Monday to take a vessel for New York via Panama. When found the old man's pockets were rifled, and it is supposed that he was robbed and murdered.

Teaching Tramps a Lesson. CAROL, Ill., Feb. 27.—Upwards of fifteen tramps made a descent upon Mount City, Ill., eight miles north of here, yesterday, and so aroused the shipyard employes that they determined to teach the tramps a lesson. They gathered the tramps together at a point just below the city and administered a whipping to each one, laying him across a log with back bare, and administering from ten to thirty-five blows to each. The shipyard men scoured the city last night in search of two stragglers who got away.

On the Way to Paradise. Let us hope that the people who habitually disregard their health will reach that desirable place, and avoid the locality which is less desirable as an eternal residence on account of the heat and surrounding generally. But while we tarry in this vale of tears, why should we voluntarily endure the tortures of dyspepsia when a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitter will rid us of the atrocious malady which—unless physicians are very much at fault—tends to shorten the term of our existence. Hostetter's Bitters, consequently, should always accompany this complaint and are indispensable to it. These pills are all contained in the Bitters, which also contains completely natural, restorative, and nutritious elements. Since the appearance of a gripe it has shown a singular mastery over this pernicious complaint that has carried off so many of our brightest and best.

FREE COINAGE.

Harter Claims the Bland Bill Will Disrupt the Party.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The free coinage men of the house feel elated over the action of the caucus in refusing to consider any proposition for the delay of free coinage legislation. Harter and his friends content themselves by simply announcing that they will oppose the Bland bill by every parliamentary tactic in their power when it comes up in the house and that it will never pass the lower branch of congress. The generosity of the Democratic committee on rules has placed at their disposal parliamentary weapons of destruction necessary to tire out and weary the friends of the measure by weeks of delay. Free-coinage people openly deride these pretensions, and say that the Democrats who oppose the free coinage bill, for the most part, merely content themselves by recording their votes against the bill. Bland, Pierce and other leaders of free coinage, are compiling and arranging petitions to be presented today to the committee on rules, asking for a day for consideration of the free coinage bill. These petitions contain the signatures of all the friends of free coinage.

Representative Pierce said there is no doubt that the rules committee will report an order at an early day, and the date will also be set when the final vote will be taken. So far as the free coinage men are concerned, he said, they did not want more than the three or four days' debate—certainly not for more than a week. Bland will insist, however, that final action be taken when the bill comes up. "We will pass it through the house," said Pierce. "Send it to the senate, and the responsibility will then rest with that body. The bill has," he says, "a clear majority of forty votes in the house; so there is not the slightest doubt of its passage. With ten Republicans favorable to free coinage, they will have about 210 votes for the bill. The remainder of the Republicans and thirty-five or forty Democrats will vote against the bill."

Harter said the passage of the Bland bill will disrupt the Democratic party as completely as did the slavery question in 1860.

BOUND TO DIE.

Made all His Funeral and Other Arrangements. LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—One of the most romantic suicides chronicled in this city for some time past came to light a day or two ago. A few weeks ago an old man visited Evergreen cemetery and purchased a lot, at the same time telling the sexton that he expected to use it very soon. He also called at the Los Angeles marble works and picked out a tombstone, afterward making further arrangements for the final disposition of his body, refusing to give his name until the promise of secrecy had been exacted. It leaked out, however, that the man's name was Frank George, and that he was a wealthy citizen of King county, Wash., and mention of his strange actions was made in print. He appeared to be perfectly sound in mind and body and in good spirits. Nothing further was heard of him until Thursday, when he was found dead in his bed at a lodging house. From his appearance he had been dead more than twelve hours and had taken morphine. He left several letters. In one to the undertaker with whom he had arranged for his burial, he inclosed $100 and wrote: "Please do the best you can for the money, and I will meet you in a better world if we make the proper connections." In a letter to the tombstone men he wrote: "Inscription—Frank George, born April 3, 1883; died (please put the date.) Please do the work as soon as possible." Receipts were found among his effects showing that he had paid for everything except the coffin and the undertaker's charges which he left until the last. From tax receipts from King county, Wash., it is evident that he owns considerable property. It is not known whether he has a family.

Death From Morphine. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Berry, of Portland, Or., died early yesterday at St. Mary's hospital from an overdose of morphine. She came from Portland recently for medical treatment. She was a morphine "fiend." She registered at the American Exchange hotel, and was found in her room unconscious. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where she died without recovering consciousness. Several morphine bottles were found in her room, and it is believed that she took an overdose. The deceased's name was M. G. Berry. She was about 36 years of age, and is said to have a divorced husband living in East Portland.

Neuralgia Cured in 15 Minutes. Mr. J. S. Sturtevant, editor of the Wapaco, (Wis.) Post, says: "Last night Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured my wife of neuralgia of the face and tooth in fifteen minutes. We would not be with out it." 50 cent bottles for sale by G. E. Good druggist.

THEY ARE ALL RIGHT. Mrs. Frank Leslie and her Husband are Happy. NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Stories which have gained circulation regarding the difference in the daily life of Mrs. Frank Leslie and her husband, Willie Wilde, having brought out stories from San Francisco to the effect that she considered herself his mental and financial superior, Mrs. Leslie was seen yesterday to get her version. "As for my claiming any mental superiority to Mr. Wilde, that is absurd," she said. "He is my equal; nay, my superior. He easily made $5000 a year in London, and could make more than that here, if he wanted to. Why he doesn't, I really can't say. Before I married no unkind word was ever said of me. I suppose the change is due to the fact that I married a foreigner. People seem to object to his club life. For myself, I really can't see why he refuses to take advantage of his opportunities and does not go to work. I make every effort to do what is right. I hurry through my work, drive to recep-
