

German Syrup

J. C. Davis, Rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, Eufaula, Ala.: "My son has been badly afflicted with a fearful and threatening cough for several months, and after trying several prescriptions from physicians which failed to relieve him, he has been perfectly restored by the use of two bottles of Bo-schee's German Syrup."

J. F. Arnold, Montevideo, Minn., writes: "I always use German Syrup for a Cold on the Lungs. I have never found an equal to it—far less a superior."

G. G. GREEN, Sole Man'r, Woodbury, N.J.

He Slept Soundly.
A crowd of men were standing on Clark street, near Taylor, when a man came along with no shoes, his feet being incased in white cotton stockings. Without waiting for any formal introduction he said in a loud voice, apparently for the benefit of all present, "Gen'l'm, I have seen some pretty hard lines in my time, but when a man goes to sleep on a stop and they steal a pair of eight dollar shoes off his feet, that rather beats me, and I'm going to get out."

Here the shoeless man was plied with a number of questions, but all he would answer was that he went to sleep on a stop about an hour before and when he woke up all his pockets were turned inside out and his shoes were gone. "At first I thought I was dreaming," he said, "and I smiled at having such a funny dream. I reached down and felt of my feet and finally I got up and walked; then I was satisfied that I had been robbed."—Chicago Times.

The Verdict

OF ALL who have used Ayer's Pills for Biliousness and Liver Complaint it is that they are the best ever made. Being free from any mineral ingredients, and sugar-coated, Ayer's Pills are adapted to all ages, constitutions, and climates.

"Having used Ayer's Pills for many years in my practice and family, I feel justified in recommending them as an excellent cathartic and liver medicine. They sustain all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. B. Co., Bureau, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills keep my stomach and liver in perfect condition. Five years ago I was afflicted with enlargement of the liver and with a severe jaundice, which, most of the time being unable to retain any solid food on my stomach, I finally began to take Ayer's Pills, and after using only three boxes of the magical pellets, was a well man."—Lucius Alexander, Marblehead, Mass.

PURSUED BY AN EVIL GENIUS.

The Red Misfortunes of a Man Who Tried to Profit by Insurance.
"Mighty unucky man," said the commuter, shaking his head as an other commuter limped by, "a mighty unucky. You see, he explained, 'about a year ago I got run over by a horse and wagon—out rigger case; and carelessness on the part of the driver; laid me up for two weeks."

"Why didn't you see 'em?"
"No, I didn't have to. They offered me $500, and I thought that was better than a lawsuit. Of course I lost my time, or rather the firm lost it, for my salary went on just the same, because I was injured in the discharge of my duty. Then I had taken out an accident policy the day before, and I got twenty-five dollars a week in that, so with the $500 from So-and-so it wasn't really so bad."

"But this man?"
"Well, he's a neighbor of mine; a very industrious man; seems to be smart, too; but everything turns against him. I told him about my case. He has a large family to support on a moderate salary and is always looking for a chance to turn an honest dollar. Well, sir, he took out an accident policy, put on his oldest suit of clothes and watched the wagon. He has some collecting to do for his firm, so he spends an hour or two every day on the street. When over he saw a wagon owned by a responsible concern he took to the nearest crossing, timed himself so as to collide, set his face firmly toward the direction opposite to that from which the team was coming and started across the street."

"But his evil genius pursued him. In every instance the drivers turned up or pulled out, or the horses shied, or a fool policeman jerked him out of the way. It seemed as though he just couldn't get run over. Drivers swore at him, policemen yelled at him, nervous old ladies threw up their arms and screamed at him. He got under the horses' very noses and against the wheels, but he couldn't get hurt. He got rheumatic pains in the cords of his neck from twisting his head up street so much, and the strain always expecting to get trampled into the hard granite pavement and always getting fooled by men to undermine his nervous system."

"At length he gave it up. He went down town the last night before his accident policy expired—it was Saturday night—and fell down in front of an express wagon. The horses jumped back on their haunches, the driver nearly fell off his seat and a policeman was going to arrest my unucky neighbor."

"He came home quite discouraged and threw his policy into the fire. Sunday morning he got up bright and early, put on his best clothes, borrowed a bicycle, rode two blocks and, would you believe it, ran into a wagon and broke his leg, besides mauling the bicycle and ruining his good clothes. He's been in bed five weeks and had to pay for the bicycle. Now the milkman has sued him for the value of the milk he spilled, much of which went on his Sunday coat."

Sense and Production.
The dealers have always said that they provide what the people want. So they do in a general sense. They provide variety, and variety in attire, like excitement in affairs, is all important with our rapid transit generation; but foolish modes—fur caps that do not cover the chest, winter hats without crowns and all such fashionable manichisms, are devices resulting from the overtaxed ingenuity and misconception of manufacturers. They are not made because they are wanted; alas, they are worn only because they are made. Variety is desirable, but it need not find in the face of comfort. Nor need dress reform mean dress deformity.

The public is more sensible than it gets credit for being. It does not call either for foolish fashions or for fanaticism in reform. In fact, it knows better what it wants than how to get it. Good sense is not wanting, but inertia hinders its expression as often as anything else. Lecturers and writers make ripples on the surface, but the level that is to move great bodies lies in individual living.

Kato Field's Washington.

His Own Piece of Luck.
A nervous little man in the hall of the chamber of commerce building was telling of a daring robbery.

"Why, they held me up, and took my watch, my money—and my knife. Boldest thing I ever saw. Right on Halsted street too. Just think of it, before midnight at that!"

Then, with an impressive wag of his head, he added, "It's a good thing I didn't have my revolver. I tell you."

"Why not?" asked an interested listener.
"Why not? Why not? Why, you found it all man alive, if I had my revolver, they'd have taken that too."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Fatal Reports.
Sheridan, who was always distressed for money, was one day hacking his face with a dull razor, when he turned to his oldest son and said:

"Tom, if you open any more eyes with my razor I'll cut you off with a shilling."
"Very well, father," said Tom, "but where will you get the shilling?"—New York Home Journal.

An Earthquake at Sea.

Two distinct quakings of the earth and consequent disturbances of the sea were felt by the schooner Charles L. Mitchell on Monday night, three miles southeast of Cape Henlopen. The Mitchell arrived at South street wharf from Cuba with a cargo of sugar, and Captain Frost told the story of his experience. His vessel was slowly beating her way up the coast under easy sail, when she fell in with the tug Munn and was taken in tow for Philadelphia. The wind at the time was light from the north east and the atmosphere hazy, but clear overland. Captain Frost had taken in all but a few light sails and the vessel was heading north, with both canvas and steam, toward her port of destination.

Suddenly two terrific reports, like explosions were heard, then a rumbling sound, as if the vessel was grinding her bottom out on a shoal. She trembled and spun about on her keel as if about to be lifted bodily out of the water by an unseen power. It was first thought she was fast on a rocky shore, but it was found that the observations were correct, the vessel being well off shore and in the deepest water. Those on the tug Munn thought that one of the bulk oil carriers had exploded, but the rumbling noise and the period of time through which it extended after the first explosion proved conclusively that the report was of a different character, doubtless from earth quakings.—Philadelphia Record.

A Possible Help for Women.
Darning stockings, with the attendant horrors of mending and sewing on buttons, represents a batch of work which comes regularly every week to be done, and is a sore trial to the woman who longs for the time when she may give it to better things. Yet she knows these tasks are necessary, and that they must be accomplished for the comfort and well being of the family in her charge.

Now there must surely be plenty of women who cannot do finished or high class work, yet to whom mending and stocking darning, clearing up of rooms and dusting would be light and agreeable work, women who, having ample time, would be willing to do such important yet trivial housework for the small sum of money the service is worth. They need not be highly educated or very young women; they need only be willing, quick and ready to do well any and every trifling which comes up for somebody to do. There are certainly plenty of places waiting for just such workers.

We hear much of the women who are starving in making shirts at three cents apiece and trousers at five cents a pair. The tales are too well authenticated to be doubted. But surely the work above suggested would be easier, pleasanter and more profitable to the women who are keeping soul and body together at such a pittance as that.—Harper's Bazar.

A Woman's Letter to a Congressman.
Most congressmen are overruled with letters and dispatches from people whom they never heard of, asking for documents, books, stationery, etc. The sublime gall displayed by some of these citizens is truly wonderful. But I think the woman who sent the following postal card deserves the cake:

"DEAR SIR—Being referred to you by the first assistant secretary of the interior department, saying that you would get me all the public documents which are published for distribution and information, please send me all such documents of every department and branch thereof of the United States government. Also as complete a set as possible of penalty envelopes and cards and wrappers.

"Will you kindly send me as complete a set of stamps as possible from every department of the United States government, and specimens of the general issues of the United States stamps!"

"I would like the penalty envelope on every color of paper on which they come, and any other curiosities."—Washington Cor. Brooklyn Eagle.

A Murderer in Iceland.
A murderer has been committed in Iceland. A young fellow has killed his betrothed in a fit of jealousy. The whole of the 70,000 inhabitants of the island are deeply wroth by the event. It is fifty-six years since a like deed was done. We here in America, made callous by the constant recurrence of crime, cannot realize the horror such an event inspires in the simple Icelanders, among whom crime is as rare as learning is general, who, without school boards, not seldom understand several languages, whose richest man boasts of no more than $1,500 a year, and among whom abject poverty is unknown.—Yankee Blade.

After Many Years.
A North Berwick doctor was surprised the other day. Several years ago he aided a needy family in town not only with professional services, but with groceries, etc. Later they moved away and were partially forgotten. But they had not forgotten the kindness, and the other day a lady came to the doctor, recalled the events and asked for the bill, which she paid, and then added ten dollars as a present. The family evidently were of the deserving species.—Lawton (Me.) Journal.
