CLAIMING TOO MUCH.

Once in a while a Democratic lation of the country has been moulded largely in the interests of these monopolistic plutocrats.

When Mr. Cleveland was president the most remarkable brood of plutocrats that ever swarmed from the breeding pens of Wall street went into power. > LINN COUNTY GOVERNMENT. The Salem JOURNAL is highly please d that the third party has place I a lieset in the field in Linn county, not that there is any hope whatever that a single man on that theket can be elected, but because it makes the "political situation doubt-ful with the chances in favor of the Republicans" and that if Republi-cans should succeed, it "will tend to improve county government not a little." Ye gods and men! Improve county government, Let the blind zealot of THE JOURNAL reflect for a moment that not a county in the state that for the last twenty-five years has been so well and fru-gally managed as Linn county.— Albany Democrat,

The farmers of Linn county do not agree with the Democrat. They have organized and put a ticket in the field, and strange to say they do not seem to recognize the truth of paper claims too much. The Albany all that the Democrats claims for its county ring Democrats in the line

SHOOTING AT PORTLAND.

PORTLAND, March 18 .- Policeman Day Hutchins, who was very much interested in the case, told his story five minutes after it happened, as the policeman and the wounded prisoner were riding to the jail in the patrol wagon. "I was standing at Front and Alder streets when I saw a large crowd come running up Front street from Morrison, and they turned up Alder. They were pursuing this man lying in the wagon and one young fellow said to me, 'I am a and First, and I was close behind

"He did not come back, however, but Jumped into Bob Stevenson's express wagon and started up Alder street at a flerce gait. The crowd, which was by this time very large, struck by the bullets, and I certainly hope not. I fired at him four times, with what effect I don't know. When Litt's corner was reached the wagon struck the curb and be went out as the wheel broke. Here he was pounced upon and held until the patrol wagon came up." When the patrol wagon arrived at the scene it could barely make its way through the enormous crowd which had suddenly sprung up as from the ground. There were a half a dozen officers, headed by Captain Cardwell, on board, and the man was at once put inside and started for the jail. Here another large assemblage was congregated, and the man was taken into the front cell, which was filled by a crowd anxious to see the fellow. There arrived at once L. H. Mo-Mahan, the editor of the Woodburn Independent. In one hand he held his handcuffs and in the other his warrant.
