THE CAPITAL JOURNAL.

HOFER BROTHERS, - - - Editors. PUBLISHED DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY BY THE Capital Journal Publishing Company. - (Incorporated.)

BY ONE THOUSAND MAJORITY. That is the watchword of victory of the Marion county Republicans this year. That is the size of the majority they propose to roll up for Harrison, protection and reciprocity.

Republicans are pretty well satisfied, as a rule, with the Harrison administration. They are reasonably well united and harmonious. The Democratic party is divided on the Hill-Cleveland line, on the protection-free trade issue, and on the silver question.

With this flattering outlook why should not the Republicans of Marion look up with encouragement? With any ordinary good management and harmonious work the people will ratify every nomination of Thursday's convention.

THE FIGHT FOR TREASURY.

This was one of the most hotly contested battles of the convention. There were a number of strong men running, and the managers had a man. The popular candidate was J. H. McCormick, of North Salem, and he grew steadily as the ballots proceeded.

THE LEGISLATIVE TICKET.

The Republican legislative ticket is made up mostly of new men this year. Salem having the most aspirants for the big fat offices it was natural that the deals should be made mostly in favor of the outlying precincts.

zealous. His retentive memory is prodigious, and on this account no legislator ever feared his bill would be forgotten when Mr. Simon's attention had been directed to it.

One of the chief causes of Mr. Simon's success as a politician was his fidelity to his promise. This may seem strange to some county politicians and parvenues in politics; but it is a fact beyond dispute that a political promise made by Mr. Simon was never broken.

The absence of Mr. Simon in Europe for one year from next May will eliminate from Oregon politics its most powerful and successful general. The Republicans may cast about for a long time before they can place at the head of their party a man so well qualified to insure it the repeated successes that Mr. Simon has obtained.

When the advocate of free trade has nothing else to talk or write about he devotes an oration or editorial to "the markets of the world." One might imagine from such utterances that there was a boundless extent of profitable markets waiting to be invaded by American commerce.

There could be no higher authority on this subject than that we have quoted. It is the concentrated expression of the opinion of England's business men, deliberately framed on the basis of their own experience. That is, the markets of the world are supplied, and, if America should discard the barrier of a protective tariff, they would be throwing their own market open, without any other market being opened in return.

There is no more flatterer humbug than the talk about markets of the world. Every important nation except Great Britain has a tariff for protection, and the only way to get at other markets is through reciprocity.

Protection and reciprocity go hand in hand in guarding the industries and building up the commerce of the United States.

they find it economical to sell to the first buyer. Cattle interests in Eastern Oregon were never in better condition for years than in the present season.

New potatoes are reported at Hope, Idaho. These were not imported, but were dug in a garden in that city, the other day. New potatoes by the middle of March are not to be had every year, even in the favored Northwest.

The clip of wool this season will be in better condition than for several years past, and the yield will be abundant and of good quality. Wool will not begin to come to market for some time, but the Dalles warehouse men are preparing to handle the largest clip of any season.

Saturday was a very busy day at The Dalles stockyards, and thirteen carloads of cattle were received from Idaho and shipped to Troutdale, and today there are four more feedings. As the spring weather becomes settled, cattle of all kinds are moved to market, and The Dalles stockyards controls nearly all shipments.

A lady at Antelope, a few days ago, having her life made miserable by the continuous "spree" of her husband, determined to demolish the cause, and undertook an individual crusade against the saloon on her own account. She demolished the fixtures around the bar with a club, and then made for the coal oil lamps, when the barkeeper put her out. Some of the citizens of Antelope admire her grit, and do not severely criticize her judgment.

The thriving little town of Dufur is looking its best at the present time. The surrounding hills have donned their emerald mantles; the wild flowers are in full bloom; grand old Mount Hood, so appropriately called the bride of heaven, in its pure white robes, never presented a more beautiful or inspiring appearance. The farmers are delighted with the promises of abundant crops, the outlook for a bountiful harvest being better than known for years past.

A Million Friends. A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and colds.—If you have never used this great cough medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at Daniel J. Fry's drugstore, 225 Commercial street. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

New Washington, Penn., people are not slow about taking hold of a new thing, if the article has merit. A few months ago David Byers, of that place, bought his first stock of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has sold it all and ordered more. "It has given the best of satisfaction. I have warranted every bottle, and have not had one come back." 25 and 50 cent and $1.00 bottles for sale by G. E. Good, drug gist.

THE MODUS VIVENDI.

Views of Army and Navy Officers, Etc.

WAR IS NOT PROBABLE.

That is the Opinion of Army and Navy Officers. SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—Rear-Admiral Belknap deprecates the idea that any serious international trouble is imminent as a result of the Behring sea difficulty. "It is hardly probable," he said, "that the two great countries will become involved in a war, or even in a serious complication, over a few fishing vessels in Behring sea. I think the whole matter will be arranged with more or less amicability. There may be some little friction, but it will hardly be attended with momentous consequences. The United States and England, as also Russia, thoroughly appreciate the situation, and recognize the fact their mutual interests necessitate a diplomatic adjustment of the controversy. I think that the settlement, whether it is made sooner or later, will be peaceful, and no beligerent action on either side need be apprehended."

General Thomas A. Ruger said: "I have had no official intimation of any call upon the military forces, and with regard to the situation in the Behring sea I can only give an individual opinion, and that is that they have not got through with the talking part of the business yet. War between the United States and England would be, without doubt, the greatest military problem the world of modern times has ever known. Look at the immense mutual interests existing between the two nations, to which the whole real question is but as a drop in the bucket, and I think you must be convinced that the uttermost and last thought of resort would be a declaration of war. It is true England's navy is the largest and strongest in the world, but in the event of hostilities breaking out the United States has money sufficient to make her own navy equal to that of Great Britain at short notice. As to the army, I think we are more than equal to any army she can put in the field. I think any trouble of this nature is very far off and very unlikely to happen over the Behring sea question."

An Insane Millionaire. NEW YORK, March 25.—George Sheppard Page, the millionaire chemist, whose office in New York is in 60 Wall street, and who lives in Stanley, Morris county, N. J., was committed to the state insane asylum at Morris Plains, N. J., Monday afternoon. His affliction was brought about by over application to business and a severe attack of the grip, from which he suffered last winter. Mr. Page has been for several years a prominent figure in Wall street. He lived in princely style at Stanley. His estate there embraces several hundred acres, and the house itself is on the side of a hill overlooking the Passaic river and the surrounding country. Mr. Page was always eccentric. It is said that in summer he used to invite newspaper men to his house, and on driving them back to the station would attire himself in knickerbockers and red stockings, and carry pistols in his belt, all of which was done for show. Mr. Page, just before his sickness, concluded a business transaction in gas interests that involved $1,000,000. That matter preyed upon his mind.

A Sensational Divorce Suit. CHICAGO, March 25.—A divorce suit, apparently promising interesting developments, was begun yesterday by Mrs. Ella Burlingham, wife of the Oak-street druggist whose departure for Europe during the Cronin excitement caused much comment. The couple came to Chicago in 1874 with only $500, and now he is worth $75,000, which Mrs. Burlingham sets forth that she helped to earn. The defendant's refusal to purchase a home, notwithstanding his ample means, and a belief that he is about to start for Europe with another woman, are the grounds advanced in the wife's bill for divorce. It is understood that Le Caron, who gave such sensational testimony before the Personnel commission in London, was a partner in the drug business here with Burlingham.
