Marshal Minto found the watch in his possession and got him to go and reveal where he had hid the gold chain in a water closet.

He also worked E. M. Brooks, a friend of the much-deceived young lady, (to spare whose feelings we withhold her name, as she is a very respectable and well connected young lady,) for about thirty dollars in coin. His hearing was set for Tuesday and the whole engagement declared off.

GOOD ROADS.

Practical Suggestions Respecting Their Procurement.

"Let me make a people's public highway," some of the world's great men might fittingly have said, "and I care not who makes their laws. If they be a nation to my liking, I will give them sound roads and broad and many, and they shall become prosperous and intelligent. But if they be sullen and rebellious from my rule, I will imprison them with poor lines of travel. They shall not journey, they shall not trade, but I will leave them grovelling and hampered by self contract. Let me only give them poor roads, and I will settle them forever. They shall never long for liberty; they shall grope in mud and everlasting darkness."

With these words the imaginary statesman appears to us, when we have read and tossed aside the book of history, and are sitting in a meditative mood. He raises his finger. He points here and there to broken passages as though he would have us read them in a continuous story.

Ours is a land of such gigantic distances that other than wagon roads must first be made. In our new world, farm and market are so far apart that only steam, and that a minute, can join the two. And so we have pushed forward our railroads as only American energy can push forward; but we have lived, for the most of us, these hundred years along our same mud roads. But we are awakening. We are learning that it is dead loss to expend half the energy in getting our crops to market that it takes to till them. We are thinking profitably and well on the subject of good country roads.

The first method to success in many localities—is this: Citizens cease working the taxes, but pay them. The proper country official secures bids for placing material on mile or half mile sections of road. The award of any mile is of course made to the lowest bidder for that particular section. His work must successfully pass inspection before a committee of practical farmers.

This done, though the change comes gradually, the country is soon enjoying the finest macadamized roadways. And it should be borne in mind that there is no extra expense; taxes are simply paid in money and not in work.

There is another way of getting good roads. It takes advantage of steam and machinery. It may cost most at first, but at last it is cheapest. The plan, put briefly, is this: A township buys one of the many kinds of stone crushers. The road supervisor of the district hires a steam power and engineer for five dollars a day, as may be done at almost any time save summer. Whenever it has been decided to begin operations, there the farmers are summoned to work out their taxes. They are expected to bring their wagons, Ten or fifteen teams follow one another in the rock depot, which, it is granted, has been donated to the common cause. The stone is unloaded into the hopper of the crusher, and driving a few moments later to the endless chain, the beds are filled with broken rock. On the return trip this is scattered to the appointed place. So on and on until sunset. With such arrangements farmers have actually broken a hundred perch of stone a day at a cost of five to eight cents a perch in money. Are we still going to drive through mud?

These are but suggestions, and yet they are practical suggestions. On the day when they are practiced as well as practical, we may expect to see farm lands double in price. We may expect all the advantages of town life to be extended to the country. When these become generally practiced suggestions then America will be a land of good roads from ocean to ocean.—EARLE EUGENE MARTIN in Commercial-Gazette.

CON STIPATION

Afflicts half the American people yet there is only one preparation of Sarsaparilla that acts on the bowels and reaches this important trouble, and that is Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It relieves it in 24 hours, and an occasional dose prevents return. We refer by permission to C. E. Elkington, 125 Locust Avenue, San Francisco; J. H. Brown, Petaluma; H. E. Wain, Geary Court, San Francisco, and hundreds of others who have used it in constipation. One letter is a sample of hundreds. Elkington writes: "I have been for years subject to bilious headaches and constipation. Have been so bad for a year back have had to take a physic every other night or else I would have a headache. After taking one bottle of J. V. S., I am in splendid shape. It has done wonderful things for me."

WAS IN SALEM.—W. S. Brauff, who, in the JOURNAL'S last evening dispatches, was reported killed at Langent, had been in Salem a few days before while here he visited L. C. McClane, of the gas works, who says he was a well informed gas engineer, but seemed to be hard up, although he did not ask for aid. He was a member of the K. P. order, and had been in charge of the gas works at Fairhaven, Wash., for some months. Mr. McClane considered him a man of good capabilities, but says he acted very strangely while in Salem.

1492 WORLD'S FAIR. 1893

THE COLUMBIAN FAIR EXCURSION CO., of Chicago has established an agency in Salem, where those who intend going to the World's Fair can obtain information of much interest and value. The purpose of the company is to provide first-class accommodations going to and from and while at the fair, at reasonable rates and on terms within the reach of all. Many people do not seem to be alive to the necessity of securing rooms and accommodations in advance. It is estimated that 30,000,000 people, an average of 100,000 per day, will visit the fair. This company is now contracting hotels, which are being built and to be built, and it is a fact that those who do not make provision in advance had better stay at home. We would therefore impress upon those who intend to visit the fair the importance of registering upon our books and securing their certificates at once. The further payments can be made to suit the convenience of purchaser, any time between now and April, 1893. No certificates will be sold beyond the number of people to whom the company can give all their promise, viz: First-class accommodations. For full information call on

Can't Cook as Mother Did!

How many a young wife's heart has been saddened by hearing the above remark! And yet how often the words are true; especially when cake, pastry or biscuit are in question! The reason is plain, yet it is "like telling a secret."

Our mothers used and are using Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. They cannot be misled into using any of the ammonia or alum powders. No dyspepsia no sallow complexions, when mother did the cooking.

The first symptoms of ammonia poisoning, says a New York paper, which appear among those who work in ammonia factories, is a discoloration of the nose and forehead. This gradually extends over the face until the complexion has a stained, blotched and unsightly appearance. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the only pure cream of tartar powder that contains the whites of eggs.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.
