J. P. Blaize, a real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during the recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm. Inside of an hour he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store an got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and that in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. 50 cent bottles sold by Geo. E. Good, druggist.

SUGGESTED COMMENT.

Puch better streets. Salem has too many natural advantages.

Towa Democrats are booming Boies for president.

Salem wants to encourage every new line of business.

The money-lenders should not be the only people to prosper.

The canvass in Oregon has not yet reached the enthusiasm point.

Lieut. Sam Adolph favors street improvements because it employs labor.

May day came and went and the labor organizations did not eat the world up.

THE JOURNAL is in favor of anything that gives employment to labor or brings business to Salem.

The appearance of the city could be wonderfully improved by a general trimming up of trees.

A city of the size of Salem would not exist thirty days east of the Rockies without more railroads.

Salem people can boom a Y. M. C. A. and Mills meetings. Why not street improvements, a railroad and factories.

An enthusiastic Salemite says he is willing to contribute to get motor lines built on four sides of him, and an elevated railroad overhead.

The city might as well litigate as retrograde. Litigation may not improve the streets but may improve the chance of improving them.

The city council should lop off

THE SILVER QUESTION.

The silver men have been stirred into renewed activity by the letter of President Harrison to the senate saying that he is not at liberty as yet to state what progress has been made toward an international monetary conference. The particular feature of the president's letter which surprises the silver men is his statement that if free international silver coinage is not at present attainable he is in favor of securing the largest practicable use of that metal.

Representative Bartine of Nevada was pleased with the president's silver letter. "The silver men have never been opposed to an international conference," said he, "except when the conference was proposed as a club to kill the silver bill. As long as there is to be no silver bill we want a silver and international silver conference. Even if the silver bill had passed we would have supported an international conference, but we wanted the bill first and the conference second; however, as we can't have the bill we will take the conference."

Mr. Bartine added that a movement had started toward the formation of "silver clubs" in Northwest States, which promised to have an important part in politics. One of the principles subscribed to by members of the club was that they would vote for no man opposed to the free coinage of silver. Clubs are now organized through Colorado, Nebraska, Oregon and Idaho, and are about to extend their organization to Wyoming and Montana. They hope to secure sufficient strength to be a neutral political body, holding the balance of power between the old parties.

Marion county has a large number of free silver coinage men who should organize a club.

THE MAYOR AS A BOOZER.

Indirectly the mayor is doing a great deal to promote public improvements. It is doubtful if he should not turn out the greatest boomer of them all. A few more of his fiery vetoes would arouse the whole community to an activity it has not experienced before. At the board of trade meeting Thursday evening two gentlemen said they would be one each of ten men to put up $100 apiece to back the city in an injunction suit.

As an arouser of public sentiment to the necessity of street improvements and the necessity of a city government with some backbone, the mayor has been a success. Let him keep up the good work. A few more of his veto messages will do the work. He should be encouraged by all possible means. THE JOURNAL will stand by him in his good work. It has a consciousness that it will in the end be sustained and the mayor too, if he only will not falter.

General James B. Weaver, who speaks at Salem, Saturday, May 7, is one of the ablest People's party men in the United States. He is a great orator. The Oregon Blade says of his recent appearance at Baker City: "The gentleman is certainly a great speaker and well understands what he is talking about, and is probably the most intelligent and fearless exponent of the people's rights now living."

C. S. Wheeler, a photographer of Pendleton, was reading in bed the other night by the aid of an incandescent electric light and dozed off to sleep. The light dropped upon the bed, and the hot bulb soon charred the bedclothes, which then burst into flames. Mr. Wheeler awoke in time to escape serious burns and to extinguish the flames with water.

Some time last week J. H. Sponemore plowed up a skeleton on his farm. It appears to be the remains of a white person, perhaps 40 or 50 years of age, as all of the front teeth are gone and the back teeth considerably worn. All who have seen it say it is not the remains of an Indian. Mr. Sponemore is under the impression that the law does not allow him to disturb the skeleton, and he cannot plow the ground any depth without he plows it up. Most men would go on with their plowing.

Klamath Falls is soon to have a bank. Cyrus Baldrige will be its president. The delay just at present is caused by such bad roads that it is not possible to transport the bank safe to Klamath Falls. The Klamath Star says: "With the advent of the bank business Klamath Falls may be said to be fairly started on the regular highway of commercial progress, and the people of Klamath land on the square avenue of strictly methodical business dealing. A bank is a blessing to a backward community."

Every extra dollar of expense and go ahead to improve all the streets of the city.

Every active and live young man who expects to make a living in Salem should belong to the Salem board of trade and help build up the city.

This city has no interest in sending any man to the legislature who is not heartily and aggressively in favor of pushing the capital city to the front.

This city has no interest in sending any man to the legislature who is not heartily and aggressively in favor of pushing the capital city to the front.

Every citizen owing a lot front on a street should proceed to have it paved. That, with clean graded, gravelled streets, will make our the most beautiful city on the coast.

It should not be a question with any Salem man how little he shall do or give toward pushing this city. It should be a question how many opportunities he can have to help along in any legitimate enterprises.

Salem has now no available place to hold a great public gathering. There is really no place proper and large enough to hold the strawberry and rose show that is to come off this month.

A $10,000 road tax levy distributed among 75 road districts and 500 miles of roads and bridges to keep in repair does seem a little out of proportion. It is evident that no change need be looked for the roads of this county.

The Friends institute should not fail of getting its building erected and the school started this year for want of a thousand dollars on a subscription list. All the property to the north of the city should assist in the matter.

INFAMOUS SCOUNDREL.

Who Confesses to at Least Sixty Crimes.

CONFESSED TO SIXTY.

Murderer and Burglar Who Should Hang.

PARIS, May 5.—In the department of the Drom yesterday Mathias Redelt was sentenced to death for killing Pere Idefonse Bursar in the Trappist monastery at Alguebelle, on the Arc, last October. In the course of the trial Mathias was revealed a wretch of little less versatility than Deeming. For the last fifteen years he has passed from place to place on the continent, killing, robbing and blackmailing without rest. He speaks all continental languages and confesses to at least sixty crimes. To escape detection for burglaries he frequently entered monasteries and affected the greatest piety. In every instance he would mysteriously disappear, as would also the communion service or other silver plate. When his funds began to dwindle he would again put on the garb of a monk. After numerous robberies and attempted murders in French monasteries, he brought up one year ago as a Trappist brother at Alguebelle. He affected the utmost piety, and gave to the order 200 or 300 francs which he had with him when he entered. One night in the sixth month of his residence there he entered the room of Pere Idefonse Bursar, killing him and taking from him 17,138 francs in notes and securities belonging to the order.

YELLOWSTONE PARK.

A Former Manager Before the House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—E. C. Waters, formerly manager of the Yellowstone Park association, yesterday resumed his testimony before the house committee of public lands, but failed to bring papers concerning leases that he promised to bring. He said he had never spoken to Russell Harrison on the subject of putting stock in trust for him but had put stock in trust without Harrison's knowledge. He thought he asked Russell Harrison to say to the secretary that anything he (Waters) said could be relied on. Waters did not know Rieckens, but had used Kerns name as trustee for stock because he knew Kerns to be a friend of Russell Harrison. When asked whether the stock set aside for Russell Harrison was for consideration or as a gift, the witness finally said he had asked Russell Harrison to see the secretary of the interior, and felt that he might want to call on him again for something right and proper.

HOME-WRECKERS AT WORK.

A Pair of Prominent Minneapolis Men Implicated.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 7.—A sensation in high social life has just been revealed in this city, the like of which was never heard of before in the flour town. Louis Webber, the manager of the millinery department of Donaldson's glass block store, is and has been for some time the possessor of a beautiful wife, and the couple have a charming bright-eyed little baby. Not long ago Mr. Webber went to Europe for the firm, and while away the beautiful wife began to be seen about town with actors and other men late at night. When Webber returned these tales were carried to him, and a quarrel ensued which nearly resulted in a separation. They patched the matter up and have been living amicably for some time. A couple of weeks ago the wife left the city suddenly with the nurse, and though it was suspected that she had run away from her husband, he denied it and said that she had gone on a visit to relatives. However, he sent detectives and secured the child, the wife still remaining away in spite of his efforts to get her to return. She was finally traced to the Colonade hotel in St. Paul, where she was registered under the name of Mrs. Peters. Webber, it appears, had tried in vain to see his wife, but was always refused admittance. He hired detectives and learned that the woman was being kept at the hotel by Fred Underwood, of the "Boo" railroad, and Louis Watson, a well-known operator on the chamber of commerce, who is engaged to marry an estimable and highly-connected young lady of this city. Webber at first kept the matter out of the
