

The finish, but even then he must divide honors with the secretary of the navy, who built and armed cruisers between nightfall and morning for two weeks before the Chilian was down on their knees in abject apology, and with Commander Evans, whose martial demeanor gave the Chilian admiral a terrible cramp. We must not leave out Tracy and Evans.

POLITICAL ADVANCE GUARD.

They Do Not Know What Will be the Outcome of the Convention.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The advance guard of politicians will leave for Minneapolis this afternoon, and will be followed by the newspaper correspondents tonight.

The Former Party Will Travel in Senator Stockbridge's Private Car.

The former party will travel in Senator Stockbridge's private car, and will consist of Senators Gallinger, Pettigrew, Sawyer, Gray, and Jones of Nevada, ex-Senator Mahone, Representative Burrows and Senator Stockbridge.

Very few of these politicians are agreed as to the outcome of the convention which they propose to attend, and nearly all of them are frank enough to say that they do not know what the result will be.

Senator Stockbridge says he would not risk a nickel one way or the other on the nomination, so misty is the situation to him.

"Blaine will be nominated hands down," is the prediction of Senator Jones.

Senator Gallinger, when asked for his prediction, said:

"I am now and have been for some time in favor of the nomination of General Alger, but from present indications I am inclined to think that Mr. Blaine will be selected."

All the Blaine talk today was not confined to this carload of prospective travelers. Senator Perkins, of Kansas, who is not a delegate, says that it looks very much as if Blaine will be nominated, and Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, who is a delegate, is confident that this will be the result.

He says that nothing can stop Blaine's nomination.

"He is not a candidate," says Wolcott, "but when the party demands it he cannot or will not refuse."

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 2.—Last evening the session of the general assembly of the United Presbyterians was devoted to reports of various committees. A report from the committee on reform characterizes the Chinese exclusion bill as "un-Christian, unpatriotic and a monstrous injustice."

MARRIED AT SEA.

The Old Folks Objected, but Love Overcame All Obstacles.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—The steamer Walla Walla arrived in port Tuesday evening and brought at least two happy persons, Mr. and Mrs. Glessner, who had been married but a short time before the steamer was docked, by Rev. B. Cameron, a Canadian Episcopal minister who, happened to be on the steamer. It seems that the young people were residents of New Westminster, B. C., and had decided that they should marry. The relatives objected, and to prevent a separation both Glessner and the bride, who was under age, took the Walla Walla at Seattle to make a trip to this city. Before the services of the minister had been secured, the young couple approached Captain Wallace and told him their story. The captain wanted to help them, but said he thought it best to consider the matter and asked for a little time. The wait did not satisfy the young lady, and while Captain Wallace was thinking whether to marry them or not, the young couple gained the good will of the minister and he united them in the bonds of matrimony about 15 miles westward of Point Reyes. When the knot was tied a suitable present was tendered the young couple, consisting of a considerable sum of money, which was contributed by all hands on board. Mr. and Mrs. Glessner will remain here for some little time, but they expect to return home as soon as the relatives on both sides show signs of being peaceful.
