

"German Syrup"

A Farmer at it. We live in a place where we are subject to violent Colds and Lung Troubles. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many different kinds of cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. That has been my experience. If you use it once, you will go back to it whenever you need it. It gives total relief and is a quick cure. My advice to everyone suffering with Lung Troubles—Try it. You will soon be convinced. In all the families where your German Syrup is used we have no trouble with the Lungs at all. It is the medicine for this country.

No Joke.

A newspaper called The Rocky Mountain Cyclone has just appeared, with the following editorial explanation: "We begin the publication of The Rocky Mountain Cyclone with some new difficulties in the way. The type found in the printing office has been blown away by a cyclone. We have ordered the missing letters and will have to wait until they come. We don't like the idea of this variety of spelling any better than our readers, but mistak will happen in the best regulated or phantoms, and iph the c's and exes and qu's hold out we shall c'e (seem) the c' hard. The Cyclone whirling up a phantion till the sorts arrive. It is no joke to us; it is a serious affair."—New York Tribune.

Satisfied.

Mrs. Henpeck—Take that down again and I'll show you how to put it right. You never did understand such matters anyway, and—

"Only an Amytower."

Close by a prosperous church in a certain town is a district known as "Tennessee Town," populated entirely by negroes. The pastor of the church had long made efforts to organize classes of the young colored boys for the purpose of giving them instruction in literary and scientific topics. He was only partly successful. Nothing that he could get for the entertainment or amusement of the restless, idle lads seemed to have any effect on them.

He tried magic lanterns and logeodermis, and all kinds of "clubs," but felt that he was not succeeding in the least. At last he purchased a small box of chemicals, and practiced a list of experiments, and announced an illustrated lecture on "The Wonders of Little Things."

The little hall was packed with an enthusiastic audience, and the experiments were successful. Curious to know the reasons for the large attendance on this particular occasion, the long suffering lecturer called upon one of the brightest lads at the close of the entertainment and questioned him.

"What made so many boys come out to the lecture tonight?"

"I speck kase we 'lowed you was gwine ter blow yosef up!"

"What! Do the boys want to see me blown up?"

"No, sah," with a grin. "But dey wants ter see what might gwine ter happen!"

"Don't you know there's no danger with those things if they are rightly handled?"

"Yes, sah; but we knowed you're only an amytower!"

That was the last chemical lecture in the course.—Youth's Companion.

Women and Opera Glasses.

Two women dropped in at a matinee. Coming in that way they are without glasses.

"Shall we take one of these theater glasses, dear?"

"Yes. Drop a dime in, and these things opens. Have you the change?"

"No. I only have five cents."

"Well, I have five. That makes it."

Then the two dear creatures drop two five cent pieces into the slot, and when it does not work are amazed and indignant. Usher is summoned, who vainly tries to explain, and there a pretty exciting time until the man drops in a ten cent piece from his own pocket and procures for them the glasses. I believe, however, that to this day they have an idea that there is some sort of swindle in the odd little apparatus attached to theater chairs.—Chicago Tribune.

His Idea of It.

"William Flint," said the teacher, "I have kept you in after school hours as a punishment for whispering. You may return to your seat and write a composition on spring."

BREVETTES.

CHATS ABOUT MEN.

Arthur Balfour is said to be one of the most absentminded of men. Chaucery Dewey receives each week on an average ten invitations to speak. Senator Stanford has given $3,000 to the Catholic Orphan asylum in Sacramento.

A hermit named Owen Mulligan, who died in Clinton county, Ill., recently, left a fortune of $100,000. Baron Alphonse de Rothschild, a few days after the death of a favorite daughter, distributed $10,000 to the poor of Paris.

The Japanese minister to Washington wears his turban a magnificent opal, almost as big as a pigeon's egg, set in a frame of sparkling diamonds. William Wirt Henry, of Richmond, is said to be a grandson of Patrick Henry. He is a lawyer and an authority on all matters pertaining to the history of Virginia.

Daniel O'Connell, said to be the son and namesake of the great Irish liberator, is employed in the Somerset House as a commissioner of income taxes at a salary of £200. He is about sixty years old.

Professor John Stuart Blackie, who will be eighty-three years old in July, has never worn spectacles, and has not required a physician's services for over thirty years. He attributes his strong health to his systematic habits.

Many people remember that Judge Lyman Trumbull wrote the thirteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States. He still lives in Chicago, the same tall, slender, delicate appearing man that he was when in the senate. Emile Ollivier, the minister of Napoleon III, has so long disappeared from public life that in many quarters he was assumed to be dead. He is this year to award the Prize of Virtue which is annually bestowed by the French academy.

Senator Ransom had first one son and then another for private secretary in Washington. The second one looks so much like the first that most people fail to discover the substitution. The senator's oldest son is now practicing law in Asheville.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

In London eighteen theaters are given up every Sunday for religious services. Julius Kahn, of San Francisco, hatter and actor, is a delegate to the California Republican state convention.

The Omaha Excelsior says that W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) has purchased $370 worth of "Wild West" souvenir spoons to give to his friends. The spoon was designed by Miss Julia Officer.

Lotta, it is said, told an intimate friend recently that she was worth $2,500,000. She is still unmarried, and sticks affectionately to Mamma Crabtree. Lotta has not appeared on the stage this season.

"A Man Born in Missouri," a play which Charles H. Hoyt has just finished, will not be sent on the road next season, as expected. This is owing to the success made by "A Texas Steer," which has cleared for the firm of Hoyt & Thomas nearly $42,000 this season.

Among the superumeraries at the Pesth opera is an old Hungarian baritone who was once a star. While enacting the beggar in "Cavalleria Rusticana," all who entered the church, principals and chorists gave the mendicant alms, but dropped real coins and bank notes into his hat.

It is stated that John Drew's last engagement with the Daly company will be played in San Francisco this summer. At the conclusion of the Daly company's season in this city Mr. Drew will return at once to New York and begin the rehearsals of the new play in which he will star under the management of Charles Frohman.

AROUND THE THRONES.

The czar's crown is said to be worth four times as much as Queen Victoria's. The king of Greece rules over 900,000 fewer people than dwell in the two cities of New York and Brooklyn.

The king of the Belgians imitates the example of the great Duke of Wellington in sleeping upon a little camp bed. Kaiser Wilhelm gets up at 6, the Emperor Francis Joseph is at his desk or abroad by 5 and the czar is often absent before 3 a. m. Queen Victoria arises at 8 o'clock.

The late Prince of Furstenburg practically owned the entire country between the Neckar and the Danube, in which is situated the Black Forest, the Schwarzwald, dear to song and story. The new khedive of Egypt is described as quiet, serious, interested in everything, but without conceit. He is quite conscious of the difficulty of his task and anxious to learn before he speaks or acts much.

RAILROAD JOTTINGS.

The Pittsburg and Lake Erie will build a bridge over the Beaver river, Rock Point, Pa.

The Wabash people are laying the Eel river division with a new and heavier steel rail, the light rail taken up going into sidetracks along the line. A locomotive drawing four passenger coaches has recently done a mile in 39 1/2 seconds on the Reading road, which would come very near 100 miles an hour if maintained.

The Baltimore and Ohio is said to be arranging to build an extension from Penna. N. J., to Salem, Bridgeton and Mulville. Connection will be made with Cape May and Atlantic City. The route has already been surveyed and maps made.

Frank L. Coombs, a well known California owner of trotters, has been appointed minister to Japan by President Harrison.

C. W. Williams agreed to match Alberton against Astor or Nancy Hawks for a purse offered by the Des Moines association.

J. C. Silbey says that the fastest track on earth is the one that is driest and hardest on the immediate surface and the wettest beneath.

Cassius, the horse that ran second to Salvador in the Suburban of 1890, has developed such a temper that he cannot be worked with other horses.

A match of $5,000 has been made between the pacers Direct and Hal Pointer, to take place during the Grand Rapids (Mich.) meeting in August.

Dolero, for whom Phil Dwyer paid $25,000 at the Scott sale, sold him to Father Bill Daly for $3,000 because he did not think the son of Rayon d'Or would stand training.

Copenhagen, the battle horse which carried the Duke of Wellington fourteen hours at a stretch at Waterloo, has been honored with a monument at Stratfieldsaye, the country seat of the duke.

Allerton recently worked an eighth of a mile in 15 1/2 seconds, and three yearlings sired by him trotted eighths in 24, 25 1/2 and 26 1/2 seconds, respectively. This would indicate that Allerton is likely to rank as high as a sire as he does as a performer.

WHISPERS ABOUT WOMEN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, who recently died in Glasgow, left $2,500,000 to charitable institutions in that city. The Duchess of Marlborough now buys her clothes in New York. She says the American modistes are better than the English.

Alice Van Ripper, of the Harvard annex, in her examination stood A in German and French and B plus in Greek, and she is still in her teens.

Miss Helen Gladstone, daughter of the ex-premier, is the vice principal of Newham college, the women's annex of Cambridge university. Miss Gladstone is forty-six years old and of a very retiring disposition.

Mrs. Noble, wife of the secretary, and her two sisters, the Misses Hilsdale, are said to resemble each other so closely that casual acquaintances distinguish between them with difficulty. They make no attempt to dress in a way to decrease the resemblance.

Mrs. H. M. Stanley discovered a cousin in Auckland, New Zealand, in the person of Colonel Carre, one of the many retired officers living in that colony. The colonel is married to Lady Chute. The widow of Sir Trevor Chute, the last general commanding the British forces in Australia and New Zealand.

FAIR SEX FADS.

A corset having the bones entirely covered with narrow ribbons and edged with lace is one of the latest freaks of fashion.

Watered gauze is a pretty novelty. It is striped with the same color and then a watermark floats over all, making a most airy and delicate effect.

The Biarritz is the glove for negligee, and is suitable for traveling, walking, tennis or outdoor sports generally. A certain looseness of fit is necessary.

Silk scarves are much worn around the neck. Soft, filmy silk, some with deep fringe. They are usually tied in a large bow in front, though some ladies wind them loosely about the neck.

The sleeve with only one seam and rounded at the top, decreasing until it fits the arm at the wrist, is the favorite. It is cut rather long, ending in a little point or turn and falling over the hand.

Young girls are wearing ribbon corsets for evening dress. Simple ones are made at home by getting a wire frame and cover with twisted ribbon. In front the ribbon is so fastened as to look like a butterfly. A pretty one is black ribbon twisted with gold wire and three small gilt butterflies in front.

NOVELTIES IN SILVER.

A large silver bowl ornamented with a tortoise shell hairpin.

A demijohn with a perforated cork is a new form of salt cellar.

Two small chickens are used in a new knife rest as supports for the bar.

A new handle for paper cutters is a small chicken roosting on the handle proper.

An egg boiler of silver has an egg shaped body. A spirit lamp furnishes the heat.

A small chicken, with a perforated head, standing on a leaf, is used for holding salt.

SUN AND SHADE.

A little cloud will surely mar The sun's effulgence, dear, And so we see it from afar We feel the darkness near.

And so one little deed will cast A shadow o'er our life: And thus the darkness holds us fast— We live through pain and strife.

But through it all still shines the sun Behind the darkness shy, And even the gloomy clouds pass on: Again the light is nigh.

God sends the light and darkness, too, He sends each pain and care; But ah! God sends us joys anew, And enlightens every where.

Oh, Mary, dear! when grief doth reign In thine own troubled heart, Look far beyond and comfort gain With but this simple thought:

Though gloomy are the clouds that dim Our horizon now, The sun will shed its beams again Ere long, my dear, I know.

—Emma Cettinski in Hall's Journal of Health.

England's Largest Driving Wheel.

The largest driving wheel in England is in use in the woolen mill at Darwen. The mill was formerly driven by leather belts, but did not prove successful, and rope driving was resorted to. The 85,000 spindles and preparation are driven by a 2,000 horse power tandem compound engine, with cylinders 23 and 44 inches in diameter and 72-inch stroke, running at 54 revolutions per minute. The flywheel is 30 feet in diameter, weighs 65 tons and is arranged with 30 grooves for 14-inch ropes. These ropes lead off to receiving pulleys upon the several floors, so that each floor receives its power directly from the flywheel. The speed of the ropes is 5,089 feet, or practically a mile, a minute. It will interest every American to know that American rope is used on England's greatest wheel.—Power.

Felling a Western Hobber.

The great robber of moisture on the plains in the west is evaporation. The activity of the winds is so great and constant that more vapor is raised from exposed water surfaces than in many regions of greater heat. The annual evaporation is seldom if ever less than four feet, and may rise to eight feet. Water storage upon high plains where there are no trees, if not wholly a delusion, is held to be somewhat delusive. More hopeful is the expedient of deep tillage, for, hidden from the sun and winds in the loose soil and subsoil, the moisture will thus be preserved at the very spot where it is needed to sustain vegetation.—New York Times.

Getting Even.

Church Usher (confidentially)—That woman I just seated is Mrs. Stuckup. She had me sent around to the back door one day when I called at her house on a business errand. Made me transact the business through a servant too. But I've got even with her.

Friend—You have given her one of the best pews in the church.

Usher—Wait half an hour. She's right where a stained glass window will throw a red light on her nose.—New York Weekly.

No Reason for a Heavy Rod.

There never was any reason why the butt end of a rod should be as solid as a policeman's baton and its top as tenuous as Home Rulers declare themselves to be. The modern flyrod, which weighs ten ounces, and is either of split cane or of greenheart in two parts spliced, is really the primitive willow wand improved upon; the drawn gut cast is the nearest possible imitation of the cast of horsehair with which our grandfathers fished.—National Review.

A Relation of Washington.

One of the treasures of Bucksport is a time scarred oil portrait of the late Mrs. Jonathan Buck, nee Hannah Gale, who was a sister of George Washington's mother. Mr. Buck was the founder of Bucksport and made the first survey of the town in the year 1790. Now the question is, what relation is Bucksport to the father of his country?—Lewiston Journal.

Precious Bullets.

Bullets made of precious stones are rarities in warfare. But during the fighting on the Kashmir frontier, when the British troops defeated the rebellious Hunzas, the natives used bullets of garnets incased in lead. The British preserved many as curiosities.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Every adult man has 1,400 square feet of lung surface; or, rather, the membrane lining the air cells would, if spread out on a smooth, plain surface, cover a surface equal in extent to the above figures.

Although the ordinary systems of duplex telegraphy are generally said to double the capacity of a line, it is now quite clearly understood that up to the present they have been incapable of doing it.

Music beckons the human race on, and is followed by the two great columns, the joyous, light hearted and happy, and the sorrowful, wretched and despairing.

The French crown jewels are said to have once included among their number a perfect dragon, two inches in length, carved from a ruby of the first water.
