KINDERGARTEN LECTURES.—As

has been frequently stated in these columns, the Salem Kindergarten association has been at work for some time raising money to secure the services of an able lecturer.

The work of this industrious little society has been crowned with success, and their lecturer, Mrs. Lucretia Willard Treat, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is on the ground. The committee is busily engaged in making up a program for a series of lectures and talks which will be announced with positive dates in the near future. It should be remembered that all these lectures are to be free, and that everybody, especially parents and teachers, are cordially invited to attend. The work is in the interest of child culture in general as well as the technicalities of the Kindergarten system. Mrs. Treat is thoroughly versed on the subject has had wide experience, and the fact that she has declined an invitation to speak before the National Education association in order to come to Oregon should arouse interest in her work.

WILL EXHIBIT.—Prof. George

Cootie, horticulturist at the State Agricultural college writes to THE JOURNAL that he will send all varieties of strawberries grown at the experiment farm for exhibition at the strawberry fair. This will be a great feature in itself.

BOARD OF CHARITIES.—Pres.

Cline, Dr. Carl and Dr. Rinehart of the state board of charities are in the city holding the regular quarterly meeting. Dr. Rinehart is the newly-elected member, and resides at the Dalles.

W. B. Simpson is still offering some choice property in South

EVERYBODY GOES.—Where?

Bad Blood.

Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, when the blood naturally becomes impure with the effete matter.
The old Sarsaparilla attempts to reach this condition by addressing the blood with the drastic mineral "potash." Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is modern. It goes to the seat of the trouble.
It arouses the liver, kidneys and bowels and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels.

Charles Lee, at Beulah's Third and Market Sts., S. F., writes: "I took Joy's vegetable blood and while on the first bottle became convinced of its merits, for I could feel it was working a change. It cleansed, purified and brood-me up generally, and everything is now working full and regular."

PROM MARION.

W. F. Ohn visited the Oregon Land Co.'s orchard of Sunnyside one day last week. He says it is the nicest orchard he ever saw in any state, California not excepted.

R. Reese and M. Coffin, late of Thornton, Ind., are here stopping at R. St. Helen's, being old acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. St. Helen.
They are dentists by trade and looking for a location. They will do work here while they remain.

The polls of the election were declared open at 8 o'clock Monday morning. M. Baley, D. Robbins and E. Farham were judges and F. Libby and Lem Parker were clerks. The new tall law appears to be well liked here. The election passed off quietly, there being 72 ballots cast.

And after typhoid fever, diphtheria, pneumonia, or other prostrating diseases, Hood's Sarsaparilla is just what is needed to restore the strength and vigor so much desired, and to expel all poison from the blood. It has had wonderful success in many such cases.

Hood's Pills act especially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

Glutens—have you tried it? Very delicate. Sold only by Sroat &

We trust to be forgiven this parody of lines from Longfellow's immortal "Psalm of Life." Husbands who are wise and thoughtful, know that the happiness of the home depends largely on the health of the mistress of the home. Many are the tasks which tally confront-her. How can a woman contend against the trials and worries of housekeeping, if she is suffering from those distressing irregularities, ailments and weaknesses peculiar to her sex? Dr. Pierce's Favorite Dis-cription is a specific for these dis-

The Old Farmer's Gold Pieces.

"One day when I was receiving teller of a bank," said Otis Hadley, president of the Kansas City Carriage and Omnibus company, "an old farmer came in with about $5,000 in gold pieces in a sack. They were all black, like an old copper, and looked as if they had been soaked in tea grounds or acid. I asked the man where he got them.
"Well," he said, "I had that money when the war started. I never had no faith in these here banks in them days, and was afraid if the war went the wrong way, they'd all go up the spout. So I buried the money just a hundred paces from my well. I never had no use for it since, but always watched the stone on the ground there to see that it wasn't moved. The other day I got to dickering with the man that owns the section joining mine, and if we swap I'll want this 'ere gold, I reckon. I thought I'd fetch it up here so I could draw it. I got mighty ashamed of leaving it in the ground. The farmers in your parts makes what they call deposits with you fellows."
"I assured him that the money would be carefully kept, and gave him a deposit book and he went out smiling.

"In about three weeks he returned.
I'd forgotten his face, but he said he 'reckoned I was the fellow what took his money,' and he produced the book. I remembered him then, and he said he'd made the deal with his neighbor and wanted his money. I showed him how to draw a check, and sent him to the paying teller.
The check was cashed in bright and shining gold.
"That ain't my money," he exclaimed in a fowling sort of way.
"What have you done with my money?" and a look of anxiety and fear was on his face. The teller told him it certainly was his money. He began to examine the coins and found some old pieces in the lot, and then he smiled and said: 'B'gosh, you fellows must 'a' had a fine time rubbing all them pieces up in this way. I reckoned you all had something else to do.'"—Kansas City Star.

The London Postman.

No whistles are used by the carriers in London. Instead, they use the postman's double knock, which is made by giving two distinct raps on the door. Every door is provided with a knocker and the doors are always locked; even the dwellings of the very poorest of London's population are provided with their knocker and kept closed. There are perhaps a few that have four stories, but they are very few. Of course this refers to dwellings only. They have large office buildings such as are found in any city in this country.

The postman in England is looked upon as an integral part of the government, and as such is treated with the greatest of consideration and respect. Such a thing as a carrier having to wait in the hallway of a house for two, three, or sometimes five minutes before he gets an answer, as we have to do, and to be unable to deliver a letter and to have to mark it "no answer" is something unheard of.

When a carrier starts at the head of a street to deliver his mail he gives his double knock on the first and second house, and the entire street almost is awake to the fact that the postman is coming. The result is they are waiting for him. In an ordinary city block it would not be necessary to knock more than two or three times, once or twice at the head of the street and again in the middle. The carrier never has to wait, and this enables him to make better time.—Postal Record.

Fires in New York City.

Do you know at what time fires usually break out? Is it during the busy, bustling hours of the day or during the still, silent hours of the night? The report of the fire commissioners answers the query. The average number of fire alarms in a year in New York city is a little more than 4,000, which is at the rate of more than ten alarms a day. Less than one-quarter of the fires start between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m., while about three-quarters start between 7 a. m. and 11 p. m. Oddly, the alarms are rarest between 6 and 7 a. m., when fires for household and business purposes are kindled generally. The busiest time for fires is between 8 and 9 p. m., about the time that fires for household purposes go out. There is no particular difference in days regarding the frequency of fires, except that they are matterially fewer on Fridays than on any other day of the week.—New York Sun.

Chinese Gieger Jaws.

The ginger jaws of hawthorn and other decorations which are so highly prized by collectors of Chinese porcelain, are so called because they are made at the Imperial Porcelain works under special orders from the palace and sent to Canton, where they are filled with preserved ginger and returned to the emperor at Peking.—Philadelphia Ledger.
