Seven years with Chicago Kindergarten College; now at the head of Grand Rapids Kindergarten Association work. At the yesterday meeting she explained the value of Frobel's system, as applied to children, and to all the grades of education, also showing how this thought would help us all to live our lives better. A meeting will be held at the Congregational church this Friday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock. No admission. All are welcome.

ORIGIONAL DESIGNS IN ROSES.

Mrs. J. D. Southerland has on exhibition a four foot step-ladder completely decorated with the choicest roses. The beams are of pink roses, the supports red and the steps white.

Liberty bell, by F. A. Knox, is mounted in an ivy draped belfry. The bell is over three feet high and is made of white, yellow and pink roses, inscribed with green letters "Proclaim Liberty, Philadelphia, M D C C L III." It hangs gracefully, and is a great ornament to the hall.

Mrs. J. V. Taylor has probably the most original design in her lake view cottage and lake. A ticket on the same is inscribed. "Lake view, a quiet summer retreat for rest and recreation." At the rear of the cottage is laid a large mirror representing a lake, on which are sailing small fishing boats. On the whole it is a most unique affair.

The old oaken bucket by Miss Greta Strickler is an exact duplicate of an old fashioned well with a windlass and old oaken bucket. It is admirably executed.

Mrs. Mize, of South Salem has a difficult piece of work in a girl of roses pushing a baby cab also covered with roses. The young lady carries a basket of roses in her hand, and no doubt on closer inspection an infant of roses would be found in the carriage.

NOTES.

The night blooming cactus opened last evening about ten o'clock to the edification of all present.

Mrs. D E. Swank, of Aumsville sent in an excellent display of superb Marechal Niel roses, which were too late for entry, but deserve favorable recognition.

A FACTORY FOR SALEM.

An Opportunity for the Capital City to Secure a Plow Factory.

For some days there have been murmurings in the air about the possibility of Salem securing a stove and plow factory. On investigation THE JOURNAL finds that a well matured plan has been formulated and is backed by good men. One of the parties at the head of this movement is a Salem man of good business and mechanical reputation, Mr. John Patterson. He conducted successfully about fifteen years ago a small stove factory in Salem, being the head of the firm of Patterson & Devol, whose business burned out. He has worked in the business nearly 35 years and is confident that a good and paying establishment could be worked up here on on extended scale.

Mr. Patterson was seen yesterday by a reporter and below is given an outline of his project: He says a foundry and shop could be started in this place for the manufacture of chilled plows and plow points, also stoves, hollow ware, and all kinds of castings. I am corresponding with a man in the East who is a thorough man in the chillled plow business, and the balance of our company are skillled workman in the different branches of the bussiness." In order to start such a business these men want the citizens of Salem to guarantee them $5000, and two good building lots, in addition to which they agree to expend $10,000.

Mr. Patterson further says: "You can hardly estimate the amount of money expended by the people of Oregon for the plows that till our soil. The market is a big one, and a good business can easily be worked up. We could employ from 15 to 30 men from the time we started up, and we should only go into it with a hope of building up a much larger business. As for myself and one of the company, I can say we manufactured the first stoves that stood the test in this state, and the first tea kettle ever made on this coast. This we can substantiate by referring any one to David McCully and others who are well known in our city. If the people of Salem will give us a chance we will start a manufactory here that the city of Salem can be proud of in future years."

This is certainly a proposition that our people should take an interest in. Mr. Patterson will submit his plans to the Salem board of trade in the near future, and the same will no doubt be favorably acted upon.

Manufacturing of any kind should be encouraged now and all the time by our citizens. It is the means of building up a city as nothing else can be, and our people should thoroughly look into this matter with a view to locating this factory here as soon as possible.

Bad Blood.

Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, when the blood naturally becomes impregnated with the effete matter. The old Sarsaparillas attempt to reach this condition by attacking the blood with the drastic mineral "potash." Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is modern. It goes to the seat of the trouble. It arouses the liver, kidneys and bowels and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels.

Charles Lee, at Beamish's Third and Market Sts., S. F., writes: "I took it for vitiated blood and while on the first bottle became convinced of its merits, for I could feel it was working a change. It cleansed, purified and braced me up generally, and everything is now working full and regular."

THE CANVASS

Will be Made Tonight or Tomorrow.

County Clerk Sherman has not yet commenced to make the official canvass of the election returns, and will probably not commence it until tonight or tomorrow, although the official returns from the entire thirty-six precincts have been in since Tuesday. An effort was made to get a Democratic justice of the peace to assist in overseeing the job, but none could be found.

The returns from the thirty-two precincts and the estimates from the remaining four were not changed today. No new figures from the missing precincts were received and the only thing to do is to wait until the official count determines it.

The board of canvassers will consist of D. C. Sherman, and justices Jas. Batchelor or Salem and A. M. Cline, of Woodburn.

COUNTY COURT.

County court continued in session yesterday and the following business was transacted:

In road district No. 21 E. M. La Fore was ordered to clear the road of stumps along the line of W. R. Munker's claim at the expense of the county, not to exceed $75.

Jas. Rossell was ordered to build a bridge across the south fork of Silver creek, at a cost not to exceed $199, under the direction of the supervisor.

Road district No. 59 was given an allowance of $100.

Road district No. 38 was allowed $25 for the purpose of repairing a bridge across Mission creek at Champoeg grist mill.

It was ordered that the clerk advertise for bids for a bridge across the little north fork of the Santiam, the span to be 100 feet, with two fifty-foot approaches. Report is to be made at the next term of court.

Warrant for $100 drawn for the improvement of the county road from Crooked Finger prairie to Scott's mill.

In the matter of the location of the B. G. Dove road: dismissed at the cost of petitioners.

In the matter of the Isaac Stevens road: road ordered established. James Buteson's claim for damages disallowed. Viewers' report entered as matter of record and supervisor ordered to open the road.

Petition for J. W. Hobart road read first time.

Depot addition road petition read first time.

J. J. Ryan, of Butteville precinct, granted malt liquor license for period of six months.

Matter of vacation of portion of Rosedale addition to Salem: ordered that matter be heard June 11th.

C. Zimmerman was allowed $45 for one rod in width off his land on the Salem and Buena Vista road.

At the May term the Benedictine fathers, of Mt. Angel, were granted an easement of taxes which is not understood by the public and for which act the court is being censured quite generally. The fathers applied for a tax rebate of $590, but as their application came in so late—after the court had decided to grant no more rebates—the court, in compromise, granted a relief of $300. The school was really entitled to a rebate on the whole (if application had been in time) since a mortgage amounting to $50,000 is held by a foreign corporation against their lands.

Everybody knows what it is, and that is the reason they go to Hellenbrand's for that pure ice cream soda.

DIRECT.—Readers will be interested to know that Keller & Marsh are today receiving direct from the factory a variety of bed room furniture. All prices.

DIED.

RYAN.—At his home, near the fair grounds, Thursday, June 9, 1892, Newton Ryan, aged 19 years.

Deceased was a son of R. R. Ryan, and has been sick a number of weeks.

Funeral Sermon at 10 a. m. from the M. E. church. Newton was born in Lancaster county, Nebraka, April 19, 1873, and died at 5 p. m. Thursday of typhoid fever.

CLARK.—In Gervais, Oregon, on Wednesday, June 8, 1892, at 11:25 p. m., Mrs. Hattie Clark, aged 28 years and 3 months.

Deceased was the wife of J. C. Clark, the Gervais druggist. Her maiden name was Miss Hattie Stafford, of Mt. Angel. The funeral services were held Friday morning at 10:30 at the Presbyterian church at Gervais, thence to the Simmon's burying ground near Mt. Angel.

HODGKIN.—At the family residence, on Court street, in Salem, Oregon, June 9, 1892, at 2:30 p. m., Mrs. Frances E. Hodgkin, aged 40 years.

Mrs. Hodgkin was the daughter of Hon. Rice Dunbar, one of the earliest of the pioneers of Oregon. She was a sister of Hon. W. R. Dunbar and Judge R. O. Dunbar, of Goldendale, Washington, of Mrs. Kirk Ward, of Seattle, of O. W. Dunbar, of Astoria, and Mrs. Eliza Reynolds, of San Francisco. She was born in Marion county, Oregon, at the old family homestead in the Waldo hills on the 5th day of July, 1852, and, with the exception of a few years' residence in California and in the city of Portland, her whole life was spent almost within the shadow of the place of her birth. She was married in this city to Hon. Frank E. Hodgkin on the 2d day of September 1874.

In the death of Mrs. Hodgkin wife of Hon. Frank E. Hodgkin, assistant state treasurer, which occurred yesterday at her home on Court street, this community loses a member of far more than ordinary qualities of mind and heart. She was born in this county on the 5th, of July 1852 of s terling pioneer stock and was married in Salem on the 2nd of September, 1874. Almost her entire life was spent in this city and its vicinity. Her friends were numbered in almost every household of this community and expressions of appreciation of her womanly qualities and profound sorrow at her death are universal. She was for many years a member of the Episcopal church and was active and conspicuous not only in the work of the church but in deeds of benevolence and charity wherever there was a call for a helping hand. Her funeral services were conducted at 2:30 o'clock today at the Episcopal church. Rev. Wm. Lund officiating and her remains were interred in the Odd Fellows Rural cemetery.

Hood's Pills act especially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

JUST ONE CENT SHORT.

Not Much, but It Caused a Lady a Lot of Trouble.

There are some things more embarrassing than to simply be without money. One of these is to be a Harlem lady down town with four cents. Nine miles from a seventh floor nest short one cent is worse than Sheridan twenty miles away on a thoroughbred horse. A lady who lives in Harlem and is accustomed to spending her small change in contiguous shopping districts found herself in this unfortunate predicament a day or two ago. She didn't make the discovery until she had reached the elevated platform to return home—then she almost fainted. She had purchased an evening paper as she came up and was short just that one cent. She had overtraded. She felt through everything composing her costume likely to contain money, and added and subtracted, multiplied and divided, but only the four cents remained. Conscious of the scowls of the cold, cynical gateman and the curiosity of those who noticed her at all, she modestly withdrew down the stair, not, however, before a gentleman had lifted his hat politely and inquired if she had lost anything.

"N-no; oh, no—thank you," she had replied confusedly and got away.

She was neither good looking nor young. It is painful to admit this, but it is necessary for the truth of history and to show why she didn't go right along through and have half a dozen gentlemen to assist her. Being neither good looking nor young and accustomed to the seclusion of Harlem, she was exceedingly timid of the world that roars and seethes in lower Broadway. It was after 4 o'clock and the few acquaintances she could think of had gone home, she felt certain. When she paused at the bottom of the elevated steps her knees knocked together so violently she could hardly stand up. Her first thought was the boy who sold her the paper—perhaps he'd take it back.

"Awe! w'at are ye given me?" said the boy when this was suggested.

"I'm giving you the paper, if you'll give me back that cent—I n-need it to go home, and"—(Oh, the humiliating confession!)

"Rats! Come off yer perch now, old woman! I ain't no chump!"

"Old woman!" Gracious heavens! All for one cent too—and she with a bank account and a husband with a bank account and three children with bank accounts. It was dreadful, but she was desperate. If this boy wouldn't take back the paper she would have to beg a cent of somebody, and that—oh, dear! Such horrible people do that every day and nobody would believe her! She pleaded with the boy to buy the paper.

"Here—give me a paper!" said a man of the crowd gruffly shoving a cent into her hand. He had just come along and caught at the first paper extended as he made for the stairs; but as he put the penny in her hand he noted, half blindly, that the hand was white and soft and the fingers wore handsome rings. He had reached the second step before this got lodgment in his busy brain and then he looked back and said:

"Well, I'm dashed! I didn't know there was so much money in the newspaper business!"

The poor, blushing lady, clutching her cent, hurried across to the other stair and reached home to fall into hysterics when she told her husband. And he, the brute, almost has hysterics every time he tells of it.—New York Herald.
