THE GOSPEL CARRIAGE.

To Start Out from New Haven with Evangelists and Bibles and an Organ. The evangelistic omnibus, or "Gospel Carriage," as it is to be called, will start out from New Haven with a few days in charge of the Rev. J. C. Collins of that city, and another evangelist whom he will select. The carriage is to be sent out under the direction of the Society of Christian Workers of the United States and Canada. This society was incorporated about five years ago under the laws of the state of Connecticut with a capital of $6,000. Single shares are valued at twenty-five dollars. Mr. Lewis B. Tibbals, of this city, who is the financial backer of the society, told a reporter something about its work.

"It is the aim of the society," said Mr. Tibbals, "to aid in evangelistic work by furnishing carriages of this sort as well as railroad cars, wagons, tents and everything needed by the varying demands upon the evangelist. Take the small towns a little distance from the railroads and they are apt to be destitute of religious influence. The Gospel carriage will bring the evangelist to them. He will be provided with Bibles and Christian literature, which he will dispose of among the people. The car will also contain a small organ, to be used in the services. "The Gospel carriage is the most complete vehicle for the purpose that has ever been devised. It is about the size of an omnibus, but a trifle wider. It will carry four persons besides the driver; and it is so built that it can be closed up tight in case of a storm. It is divided into two sections. In front is a miniature kitchen provided with cooking utensils, and in the rear are the seats, with arrangements for four berths, which can be let down at night. The driver's bunk is built underneath the wagon. "In the rear of the vehicle is a folded platform, which can be let down when its use is required. Hot and cold water is provided. Mr. Collins will start out from New Haven, but I think he has not yet determined upon his route. It will be the aim to carry the Gospel into places otherwise inaccessible. If the plan is found feasible other carriages will be placed upon the road in due season."

The president of the society which undertakes this work is the Rev. Mr. Torrey, principal of Dwight L. Moody's Chicago school for the education of evangelists. It holds its annual convention next November in Tremont temple, Boston.

Mr. Tibbals is a man of middle age who has long been connected with religious work. He is the proprietor of a toy store here, but is a citizen of Florida, where he is engaged in pineapple raising. He has a plantation of 100 acres on the Indian river.—New York Sun.

The Cutting Power of Rivers. We frequently see statements and estimates of the amount of sand and mud that is annually carried into the ocean by the great rivers of the world. No one who has seen a suddenly formed river torrent cut a deep channel in a roadway can doubt the power of water to wear away the features of the globe.

In fact it has been estimated that in about 6,000,000 years, if the present rate of denudation be continued, the whole surface of the earth will be smoothed out to one general level.

But while it is easy to see how a river and its tributaries can rapidly cut their way through ordinary soil and sand, it is more difficult to conceive the remarkable effects produced by water which runs over a bed of solid rock.

The Colorado river, for instance, flowing between lofty walls of rock and upon a rocky bottom, is still deepening its channel.

The explanation of the cutting power of the water of the Colorado lies, as the Rev. Dr. Hutchinson, the geologist, has pointed out, in the fact that it is charged with sand, brought to it in great quantities by its tributaries. This sand being swept down the steep gradients of the river wears away the rocky bed as emery dust wears stone.

This nature assists nature on all sides, and the sand that from wind and water have formed out of the exposed rock of the mountains becomes in turn an instrument for channeling and wearing away the better protected rock of the valleys beneath.—Youth's Companion.

Accounting for the Sky. According to a belief of the savages in the south Pacific islands, originally the heavens almost touched the earth, but Maui and another god named Ru pushed them up to their present lofty position. However, the work was not complete, for the surface of the sky was very irregular. So they each took a big stone and with them clipped off the rough parts of the sky, thus giving it a perfectly oval appearance. Then they procured finer adzes, chipping away with them at the vault of blue stone until it became faultlessly smooth and beautiful, as it is now. There are ten heavens, one above another, which are the abode of warriors who have perished in battle.—Exchange.

Edible Seaweed. Many varieties of seaweed furnish a wholesome and palatable food for man and are used by the poorer classes along the shores of northern Europe, while others are reckoned a luxury by the rich. One edible kind is called "Irish bog moss," while from another are formed the birds' nests, which are considered such a delicacy by the Chinese, the best being sold for nearly their weight in gold. These nests are constructed by a bird resembling the swallow, which reduces the seaweed in its beak to a gelatinous mass before employing it for building.—Interview in Washington Star.

Paymaster Relieved of $17,000 in Broad Daylight. The Robbers Make Good Their Escape. SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—At 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning Paymaster Gilson, of the Judson Iron works, was held up on the train running from Oakland to Berkeley and robbed of $17,000 in cash. It was payday at the iron works and Mr. Gilson had been to the bank and drawn the money with which to pay off the help. He boarded the train shortly after 11 o'clock, carrying the money in a bag. He felt perfectly secure, as he had no idea any one would be bold enough to attempt to rob him on the train in which a dozen other passengers were riding. Shortly after the cars had passed Sixteenth-street station two men jumped up, and under threats took the money from him, after which they jumped from the platform and disappeared. Gilson immediately gave the alarm, and the police were notified, but at a late hour no traces of the thieves had been discovered.

The complete story of the affair is as follows: Saturday was payday at the Judson Iron works. On the second Saturday of every month the secretary at San Francisco goes to the Bank of British Columbia, where the company's accounts are kept, and draws all the money needed for pay roll. This morning John Gilson, secretary of the company, made the trip as usual. The sum necessary to meet the demands of the employees was $17,000, and he drew it in coin, gold and silver. He then started for the works on the Oakland side of the bay, and left San Francisco on the 11 o'clock broad-gauge ferry. At the Oakland mole he boarded the 11:24 o'clock train for Berkeley. The cars were crowded more than usual, for a picnic of the order of Chosen Friends was in progress at Shell Mound, and a number of merry-makers were wending their way thither. Mr. Gilson sat in one of the ordinary passenger coaches and kept his hands on the sacks containing the coin. He was crowded in his seat, but that did not matter. Train passed Sixteenth street station at 11:24 o'clock, and at 11:30 drew up at B street station. It is not customary to stop there more than a minute or so, only long enough, in fact, to allow passengers get on and off. The conductor looked along the line of cars and saw a couple of men board the train. The newcomers evidently had their plans well made, they moved briskly and made for the car where Gilson was sitting with the treasure. Then they stepped quickly up to him, and those who were watching them saw them suddenly produce pistols. Covering Gilson one of them made a demand for the money, intimating that if Gilson did not hesitate he gave them what they wanted. The bold operators then ran quickly through the car and jumped. Passengers who noticed them through the windows, saw them run over to a buggy that was waiting near by. On reaching it they jumped inside and, picking up the reins, lashed the horse and set off eastward down B street.

New Steamer Line. TACOMA June 13.—Elaborate arrangements are being made here to receive Phranang, the first of the Northern Pacific line of steamers between Tacoma and China and Japan. The steamer, to arrive on the 16th, will be met at the station by a steamer containing the mayor, city officers, and prominent citizens representing commercial organizations, and escorted to Tacoma. It will be received in Tacoma by the firing of guns. It is stated that the Northern Pacific will also establish a line to Australia and perhaps to South America within a year.

Two trains of the first cars made by the Northern Pacific car shops at Tacoma start from this city on Wednesday, loaded with Pullman sound shingles for St. Paul. The trains are made up of ninety of the first of an order of 200 cars made for the Northern Pacific. They will be placarded, staid in place where the cars were made, and where going. The cars are staid in place stock cars.
