STATE BOARD KNOCKED OUT.

The Supreme Court Sustains the Southern Pacific in the Taxation Case.

The supreme court Saturday decided the all-important taxation question. The decision came in the following case:

Oregon and California railroad company, appellant, vs. E. M. Croissant, respondent, appeal from Marion county; judgment of the lower court reversed and the cause remanded to ascertain such amount Opinion by Bean, J.

The above case, involving the validity of the action of the state board of equalization, was decided Saturday.

The court holds that the state board, being a board of equalization and not of assessment, has no authority to change individual assessment or classify property into any classes other than those authorized by law, and appearing upon the county assessment rolls; that the only classification of real property for the purpose of assessment and taxation known to the law is mortgages, city, village or town property, and other real estate, and when the state board undertook to classify real property into railroad lands, wagon road lands, swamp lands, railroad tracks and telephone lines, and add to each of these classes a certain per cent, on account of the manner in which they are designated, its acts were unauthorized and void, but so far as it confines its action to the classification known to the law its acts are void. The court declined to pass upon the question whether the state board should have taken the abstracts of the assessment rolls certified by the county clerks and not the tabulated statement of the state board of equalization as the basis upon which to levy the state tax, because there is nothing in the record of the case upon which this question can arise or nothing to indicate the basis upon which the state board proceeded in making the state levy, although it is said in the opinion, "It is difficult to conceive that a county or taxpayer could refuse to pay the state tax for the reason suggested."

OTHER PROCEEDINGS.
Minerva Ann Dice, respondent vs. Mary E. McCauley et al, appellant, appeal from Polk county; judgment of the lower court reversed and the suit dismissed. Opinion by Strahan C. J.

T. E. Hogg, respondent, vs. M. M. Davis, appellant, appeal from Benton county; judgment of the lower court affirmed. Opinion by Lord, J.

J. Q. A. Bowby and W. W. Parker, respondents, vs. C. W. Shively, appellant, appeal from Clatsop county; judgment of the lower court confirmed. Opinion by Lord, J.

Jane Skottowe, respondent, vs. O. S. L. & U. N. R. R. Co., appellant, and J. T. Mullen as administrator of the estate of Nicholas J. Skottowe, deceased, respondent, vs. O. S. L. & U. N. R. R. Co., appellant, appeal from Wacoma county; judgment of the lower court affirmed in both cases. Opinion by Lord, J.

C. P. Kellogg & Co., respondents, vs. D. H. Miller, appellant, appeal from Jackson county; judgment of the lower court affirmed. Opinion by Bean, J.

Eugene Water Co., appellant, vs. the city of Eugene, respondent, appeal from Lane county; judgment reversed and remanded back to the court below to be tried on the pleadings. Opinion per curiam.

Court adjourned until July 2, 1892.

SICK

Head-Aches

Sick-headaches are the outward indications of derangements of the stomach and bowels. As Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is the only bowel regulating preparation of Sarsaparilla, it is seen why it is the only appropriate Sarsaparilla in sick-headaches. It is not only appropriate; it is an absolute cure. After a course of it an occasional dose at intervals will forever prevent return.

Jo. M. Cox, of 735 Turk Street, San Francisco, writes: "I have been troubled with attacks of sick-headache for the last three years from one to three times a week. Some time ago I bought two bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and have only had one attack since and that was on the second day after I began using it."

"The Midnight Alarm," a melodrama, will be produced at Reed's opera house Wednesday the 22nd. Its hero is a fireman, Harry Westmore, and its heroine is a little news-girl known as Sparkle, who in the end, of course, turns out to be the person whom everyone is looking for. Gideon Tillwell, an old farmer just arrived in New York, furnishes amusement with his quaint rustic ways, and aids in foiling the arch scoundrel, Silas Carrington. Carrington is a big oil speculator, but at the time of the story is in financial straits. He plunges into crime to retrieve his fortune, and one of his dark deeds is to fire his own mansion for the insurance. The department responds gallantly, and the fire engine rushes across the stage at full tilt drawn by a splendid team of horses. As the alarm is turned in at midnight and as much of the plot hinges upon the success or failure of Carrington's schemes, the reason for giving the play the name it carries is plain. The East River wharf, with the giant Brooklyn Bridge in the shadowy distance, is in the first scene, and is followed by charming glimpses of rural landscape in the third act, and some realistic New York scenes in the fourth and fifth.

Give us Laughing Philosophers!
None of your snarling cynics for us. They laugh not, neither do they smile. They are lugubrious—dyspeptic. They are usually sour of visage, pale, slight, dry, quite grayish individuals. In fact, you look as if they had been at log-cabin with round head all their lives. The side-splitting, button-busting guffaw that proceeds from the individual with a good digestion is never heard from them. They magnify mole hills into mountains, "trifle is light as air" into gaseous atmosphere, since as a man who looks trouble with a smile, rep's as set at small talk, and in whom the possibility of a nervous breakdown is never heard from them. They are a man with a good digestion. Use Hostetter's stomach Bitters to secure this blessing, and banish the nervousness and querulous disposition to snarl and snarl which attends dyspepsia. Rheumatism, gravel, palsy, malaria, kidney trouble and is griddle tried by the Bitters.
