THE ROBINSONS HERE.

John Robinson's Circus and Menagerie.

This great show with its six hundred people came in about 5 o'clock this morning and have set their tents out near the depot. The street parade was as good as any ever seen here, one novel feature being the large number of girls belonging to the ballet, mounted on gaily caparisoned horses.

The main feature of the performance is the spectacular representation of King Solomon's reign in Jerusalem, with the visit of the Queen of Sheba and her large retinue. The effect produced by the pageant, with the dazzling costumes under the glare of three calcium lights, is a very pretty one. The large ballet shows excellent training, and their various evolutions are very pretty and interesting. This is one of the main features of the show.

Old John Lowlow, who has delighted thousands of audiences during his reign as head clown with the Robinsons, has retired, but now fills the position of ring-master. While old time circus patrons miss him, Mr. Robinson has engaged younger blood, which keeps the youngsters in laughter the same as of yore.

Several additions have been made to the menagerie since it was last here and it contains many rare animals. The same old giraffe eats alfalfa off the top of its cage. The lions with three cubs attracted a great deal of interest. The children had considerable sport this afternoon with the smaller of the three elephants, which was quite playful. Another thing which caught the eye of the youngsters was the 12-year-old boy who rode and drove 30 ponies at one time and afterward gave an exhibition of fancy riding in one of the rings. He is certainly one of the cleverest riders of his age.

The male and female bareback riders also attracted a great deal of attention. Many of their feats have been seen here before, but they have different specialties which are new.

CON STIPATION

Attends half the American people yet there is only one preparation of Sarsaparilla that acts on the bowels and reaches this important trouble, and that is Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It relieves it in 24 hours, and an occasional dose prevents return. We refer by permission to C. E. Elkington, 125 Leont Avenue, San Francisco; J. H. Brown, Potomac; H. S. Wynn, Geary Court, San Francisco, and hundreds of others who have used it in constipation. One letter is a sample of hundreds. Elkington writes: "I have been for years subject to bilious headaches and constipation. Have been so bad for a year that I have had to take a physic every other night or else I would have a headache. After taking one bottle of J. V. S., I am in splendid shape. It has done wonderful things for me."

From Des Chutes, Crook Co.

JULY 28, 1892.

Leaving the Springs we traveled up Lost creek through a valley wide enough to see the Three Sisters viewing them from the west. Over the summit where the scenery was grand beyond description, the Sisters on the south, Jefferson, Hood, and several others, whose names we did not know on the north, add the valley of the Des Chutes on the east, extending 175 miles south from the Columbia river. The only thing this country lacks is water, and inhabitants. Bad strange to say the pine tree, several kinds of shrubbery, and green grass grows on the desert. Plenty of green grass in the valley fully enough to cut for hay, but too frosty for garden.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, biliousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Harsh purgative remedies are fast giving way to the gentle action and mild effects of Carter's Little Liver Pills. If you try them, they will certainly please you. If you had taken two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring you would not have had that coated tongue and bad taste in the mouth this morning. Keep a vial with you for occasional use.

Daubigny's Painting Boat.

Daubigny wished to be free from following on foot the banks of rivers, to be independent of hotels, to be on hand at sunrise and sunset, when the effects were most enchanting, and to move about stream at will. With this desire he went to see his friend Bailett, the boat builder, at Astoria, and explained his project. "Hold!" said Bailett, "I have just what you want, a boat intended to be used for a ferry."

Daubigny, who was accompanied by his son Karl, looked over the boat, which was some twenty-eight feet long, six feet beam, flat bottomed and drew only eighteen inches of water.

Bailett agreed to complete it, so that three or six rowers could be used, and a sail at will. At the stern was to be placed a cabin in pine sufficiently large to work and sleep in, with lockers on each side to contain bedding, cooking utensils, provisions, and artist's materials. Thus equipped, with a plentiful supply of provisions on board, and accompanied by his son Karl, other pupils, or a chance friend, Daubigny made extensive voyages on the Batin—for so was this curious little craft christened by an impudent rustic—along the Ohio, Seine, Marne, and adjoining rivers. Here, freed from material cares, living close to nature, he produced those marvelous studies of river life by which he is perhaps most widely known.—Century.

A Word for Fast Horses.

I do not believe in slow driving. There is no more virtue in driving slow than in driving fast, any more than a freight train going ten miles an hour is better than an express train going fifty. There is a delusion abroad in the world that a thing must necessarily be good and Christian if it is slow and dull and plodding. There are very good people who seem to imagine it is humbly pious to drive a spavined, galloped, glundered, spring halts, blind, staggered jade. There is not so much virtue in a Rosinante as there is in a Bucephalus. At the pace some people drive, Elijah, with his horses of fire, would have taken three weeks to get into heaven.

We want swifter horses and swifter men and swifter enterprises, and the church of God needs to get off its jog trot. Quick tempers, quick lightnings, quick streams, why not quick horses? In time of war the cavalry service does the most execution, and as the battles of the world are probably not all past our Christian patriotism demands that we be interested in equal velocity. We might as well have poorer guns in our arsenals and clumsier ships in our navy under than other nations as to have under our cavalry saddles and before our artillery slower horses.—T. De Witt Talmage in Ladies' Home Journal.
