SANTIAM BRIDGES.

The Albany Herald has the following: complimentary words: "Judge W. C. Hubbard and Commissioners J. W. Watson and J. S. Anderson, of the Marion county court, and the Linn county court returned from Mill City yesterday, where they had been to examine the site for a bridge across the river. They selected two prospective sites, one above and one below the railroad bridge, and will advertise for bids at both places, to be opened at Salem on September 9th, in the presence of the county courts of both counties, and will then decide whether to build and the location and let the contract if they decide to build, which they will undoubtedly do. They also decided to put in riprap and otherwise strengthen the Jefferson bridge. The welfare of the two counties will be carefully considered in all questions that arise, by the present efficient boards."

THE STREETS.—Considerable feeling's stirred up among the business men over the letting of the contract for 12 inches of crushed rock on our streets. Many who signed a petition for two inches of gravel with drainage, want to know why their petition did not receive more favorable consideration. They claim that an ordinance for the proposed improvement cannot be passed, so they rest easy, but the people who probably have the most reason to complain are those who would be satisfied with almost any kind of improvement, yet have no hopes of getting any. It does seem as though a council elected on the improvement issue ought to "get together" and give the people something permanent, and that soon.

WEBSTER IS CAPTURED.

Joseph Smith Brought in the Missing Trusty This Morning.

On the local train this morning came in Joseph Smith from near Lebanon with Webster, the "trusty" who escaped from the Oregon penitentiary last week. It was considerable of a surprise to everybody, as no word of his capture had been received.

SMITH'S STORY.

Joseph Smith is a son of the late William Lester Smith, and has spent all his life in Linn county, living at the forks of the Santiam, 1 1/2 miles east of Lebanon. He is a farmer and miner, and has not taken much interest in the search for Webster until yesterday evening, when the presentment came to him that he could find him. Another young man started out with him but soon tired and went back. Smith went on to the Sanderson bridge, 7 1/2 miles north of Lebanon, and there waited for his man. Just at midnight, after waiting half an hour, Webster came along the road. Smith pointed his shotgun at him and made him throw up his hands and surrender. He denied that he was the man, claimed his name was Morris, and said that he had just come from over the mountains.

Webster was baredheaded, and when questioned said he had lost his hat getting a drink out of the river. Smith wanted to take him to Lebanon, but he said he could identify himself at Albany, so Smith agreed to take him there and they started out foot. They had only gone a few miles, however, when the old man confessed that he was Webster. Smith had discovered the India ink marks on his arm, and was sure of his man. Webster told a pitiful tale and begged to be let go. He offered to give Smith a note for $200 which his wife would pay, but Smith would not accept it. They got to Albany at daylight and it was a surprise to Sheriff Jackson to be called up. Smith had asked him to go out with him last night to make the search, but he could not go, and little expected the "hayseed" to bring him in.

At Albany, Webster met a number of old friends, and the identification was only too perfect, but he bore up bravely until the train neared Salem this morning, when he trembled and broke down badly.

WEBSTER'S STORY.

It was published in the San Francisco papers this spring that Webster had died in the prison, and as this news reached him the old man became very uneasy; not having heard much from home, he feared it was a scheme to secure his property and was very restless. As he was trusted outside the prison, he frequently asked permission to go to the brush for sticks to fix up his flower beds. On the day of his leaving Webster says he had gone out further than usual and knowing he could not get back in time for roll call, was tempted to make his escape. This was near the Davidson farm, and from thence he took to the woods. He says he has not had a good meal since leaving, and that his only sustenance had been turnips, berries and some raw potatoes. His plan had been to strike the Willamette, steal a boat, and make his way to the Columbia, thence to salt water, where he would have made his way to France, the language of which country he can speak. He says the officers were within twenty feet of him at the Lebanon hop yard, and that he had seen them many times, but was always lucky enough to evade them.

THE CAPTURE.

was well concealed and carried out. Fifty officers and men were out on the search, but the honor fell to an unpretentious young man with a cool head and steady nerve. Mr. Smith is a brother-in-law of our townsmen, H. A. Thomas. He was paid the $100 reward offered by Supt. Downing, and started for home this morning on the 11:17 train, a happy man.

FOOD AND DAIRY COMMISSION

Two Essentials for a Baking Powder That Will Make Perfect Bread.

The late report of the Minnesota State Food and Dairy Commission contains the result of a series of experiments made by Prof. C. W. Drew, State Chemist, to determine the strength and keeping qualities of the various baking powders.

The report attaches great importance to these experiments. Baking powders that vary in strength, or that readily lose strength before use, are unreliable and will not give even results; besides, it is an indication of the use of improper ingredients in their compounding. The tests showed the strength or leavening power of the Royal very much greater than that of the others. The uniformity of strength of all the samples of Royal tested, no matter what their age, was remarkable. Its leavening power was practically unimpaired even in the oldest specimens. The difference in the amount of leavening gas in different samples of the other brands was so great as to seriously impair their usefulness in baking. As much as 24 per cent. loss was found in samples a few months old. All the samples of Royal examined by State Chemist Drew were reported of satisfactory strength and quality.

Dr. Drew states that the "Royal" being of greater strength than any other, and possessing better keeping qualities, it is the natural conclusion that it is the best baking powder made.

IN CLOSE QUARTERS.

Narrow Escape of a Witness From Being Lynched.

CRISFIELD, Md., Aug. 6.—There was a determined attempt at lynching on Smith's island yesterday that was prevented in a novel manner. A resident of Tangier, one of the neighboring Virginia islands, was on Smith's island attending a camp-meeting. He was recognized by one of the Smith islanders as having been instrumental in sending three of their number to the Virginia state prison, and having their boat confiscated, for dredging in Virginia waters. At the time of their arrest last winter most of the Tangier men were for letting the prisoners off, but this man pushed the prosecution. Immediately after he was recognized on the camp grounds he sprang for his boat, and flourishing a revolver, kept his pursuers at bay for a short time. They closed in on him and, tying his limbs, were about to put a rope around his neck, when three preachers, who were on the camp grounds at the time, made their way to the boat. They were just in time to prevent the lynching, and succeeding in effecting his escape. Finding that their cries and entreaties were of no avail, owing to the fact that the mob in their fury would stop at nothing, one of the ministers, knowing the great reverence in which the Deity is held by the islanders, called out "Let us pray." He immediately began praying in an earnest manner "that the blood of this man be not laid on our souls," while the other two ministers forced their way to the side of the prisoner, cut his bonds and shoved off the boat, telling him to go.

Gold for Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—A local paper is authority for the statement that $60,000,000 in gold coin left this city for Washington Thursday night, guarded by 39 picked men of the railway mail service. The paper goes on to state that the accumulated store of gold coin at San Francisco has been steadily increasing during the past 20 years. When J. P. Jackson assumed the office of sub-treasurer, he found more than $70,000,000 in coin in the vaults of that institution. Since then the amount has increased to $78,000,000, and the accumulation was seriously crowding the vaults. In the mint, too, there had been a steady accumulation. At the time of the Chilean trouble, the government had stored here more than $100,000,000. It was then that attention was directed to the danger of carrying such an accumulation of treasure, not only in San Francisco, but in any seaport city. The proposition to remove the bulk of the coin in the sub-treasury vaults to Washington was mooted then, and it has come up regularly from time to time since, finally resulting in its shipment to Washington, under a strong guard, last night.
