THE DOG FIEND.—Some work has been done in Salem the past few days that has even sickened the Chinamen. Since yesterday morning over thirty dogs have met their death by poison. Last night it was a common sight on the streets to see a poor innocent canine curl up, writhe, moan, howl and finally die in the most intense pain. Many who witnessed these distressing sights would be glad to see the fiend incarnate who has perpetrated this loathsome job subjected to similar pain, then strangled, tarred and feathered and let loose. A dog is property, and whether valuable or not, the poisoner could be prosecuted and imprisoned for his dastardly deed. The city police and humane society should make it their business to ferret out the cowardly, base, pusillanimous, recreant, craven, worthless, low-minded, dishonorable, degraded, vile, sordid, shrunken-hearted villian who so far forgot his relationship to the human family, and prosecute him on every possible charge.

ELECTROCUTED.—A few days ago Rector Lunn's pet Scotch terrier was following after the electric car in which its master was riding, and as the car stopped the unfortunate canine run under the platform and met its death. It must have came in contact with the electrical oforaters and received a severe shock, for when discovered the body bore no signs of injury, except that blood was streaming from its nose and ears. This must surely be called a successful case of electrocution, and really it is a big improvement upon the poisoning process.

A THOUSAND SHIRTS.—Salem is not only a growing and thrifty city—the liveliest one on the coast—but she is pre-eminently a clean city. Her streets and alleys may occasionally smell to heaven, but as far as the people are concerned, they insist on being clean. This is best proven by the fact that Col. Olmstead's steam laundry has no less than a thousand white shirts a week to do up. It speaks well both for the city and one of its thriftiest institutions.

SALEM'S CLEAR SKY.—Yesterday when it was reported that the people of San Diego could see the planet Venus with the naked eye in broad daylight. Professor Halden, of Lick conservatory telegraphed congratulating the people of that region upon the clearness of the atmosphere. Today hundreds of Salem people have been gazing at the same star at all hours, which is, to say the least, a fine commentory on the pure atmosphere of the Willamette valley.

NEARLY READY.—The new Hughes and D'Arcy buildings are nearly ready for occupancy, and they are a beautiful pair of buildings. Mr. Hughes will move his grocery stock into the new building very soon, when Mr. Gray will put a new modern front into the store now occupied by Hughes, as also the two adjoining.

PEOPLES' PARTY PAPER.—Articles of incorporation were filed today by the Farmers' Journal Publishing Co., of Portland, with a capitol stock of $10,000. The incorporators are H. B. Luce, W. H. Spough, Chas. Miller, A. Luelling, W. G. Burleigh, S. H. Holt and W. A. Sample.

TREES PROTECTED.—Chains were this morning being on the posts in front of the court house for hitching horses, and hereafter there should be no trouble about horses destroying the shade trees. It is a good move.

LOTS OF MEAT.—The well known and popular meat market of McCrow & Willard, 316 Commercial street, is selling a lot of meats these days.

FLOCKING THERE.—The people of Salem are just simply flocking to the markets of E. C. Cross to buy those cold storage steaks, chops, cutlets, etc.

ACTUALLY RESIGNED.—The JOURNAL is informed that Rev. P. S. Knight has sent in his regisnation as superintendent of the Oregon school for deaf mutes, and that the same has been accepted. The board has appointed Prof. Beni. Irving as his successor, and that gentleman is now in charge of the institution. It is also understood that Mrs. Knight will sever her connection with the school in the fall.

Notaries Must Register.

County Clerk Egan calls attention to the fact that few notaries are complying with the new law which compel them to have their commissions recorded in the office of the county clerk. The law says:

"A notary public, upon being appointed and receiving his commission from the govenor, shall have his commission recorded by the county clerk in the book kept for that purpose, paying the fee of one dollar therefor, and the county clerk shall thereupon be authorized to certify as to the official character of such notary public, upon all instruments requiring such certificates, and as to whether such instrument is executed according to the laws of the State of Oregon."

Sheepskins Granted.

Below is given a complete list of the teachers who received certificates to teach at the last examination held by County Superintendent Graham. Out of thirty-nine applicants, fifteen were granted certificates and two state diplomas.

Oregon R. R. & Nav. Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Chicago special says: Object of J. J. Hill's present visit to New York is to secure a controlling interest in the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line, consisting of 1000 miles or more of track between Spokane and Portland.

There are but two ways in which Hill can gain control of the Oregon Railway and Navagation companies' line. Either the Oregon Short Line or Union Pacific has defaulted under the terms of the 99 year lease as to make that instrument nugatory or Hill must hold controlling interest in the $26,000,000 Oregon Short Line stock, the Union Pacific at one time owned $14,000,000 of this stock but it is possible that it may have sold enough to lose its controlling interest.

In either case it would be a comparatively easy matter for Hill to secure control. Such a conclusion would instantly make Hill master of the Northern Pacific coast railroad situation. He could dictate rates to be charged on the Pacific Coast traffic and annual contracts which now give Union Pacific almost a monopoly on Portland business.

With the transfer of Oregon railway and Navigation Co., would go the line of streamers plying to every ocean and river port between San Francisco and British Columbia and river lines covering nearly 1,000 miles of territory.

THE RECORD BROKEN.

Nancy Hanks Makes a Mile in 2:07 1-4.—By Bud Doble.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Maud S is no longer queen of the trotting turf. The proud position which she held so long has been rested from her, and Nancy Hanks reigns supreme. Yesterday afternoon in Washington park, in the presence of ten thousand spectators, Bud Doble drove the beautiful mare to beat her record of 2:09. She not only beat her own record, but lowered the world's trotting record from 2:08¾, Maud S' time, to 2:09¼. The day was an ideal one for trotting. The track was a trifle dusty, but as fast as it well could be. The mare was in excellent condition, and before she made the trial the general opinion was that if Nancy Hanks was ever to equal the record of 2:09, this was the occasion. She was without boots or trappings of any sort, and hitched to one of the new sulkies with ball bearing and pnuematic tires.

At the second trial the mare was sent off. For the first sixteenth mile, Abe Lincoln, pace-maker, lost ground steadily. Then Starr urged him on, and at the quarter he was on Nancy's wheels. There was no sound in the densely packed grand stand as the mare flew past the quarter pole in 31½, 2:06 gait. As Nancy started along the back stretch, trotting as true as a die, head well up, feet striking the ground with the regularity of a pendulum, a man in the grand stand called out, "1:04 at the half," and a mighty yell went up from the crowd. Not a sound was heard as the mare passed the three-quarters pole and turned into the homestretch. Abe Lincoln, under whip, moved up to Nancy's throat latch. Doble spoke gently to her, and her feet flew faster than the eye could distinguish them. "She'll do it; she will do it, by——!" yelled the irrepressible spectator, and there was a faint yell as the fastest quartette of clattering hoofs ever heard on a trotting track swept under the wire. A moment's pause, a hasty consulting of watches, and then umbrellas went sailing into the air, accompanied by a loud-lunged howl, and then bedlam broke loose. Hats, canes, and coats, were tossed wildly into the air. Men slapped each other on the back, while others shook hands in sheer delight. The loud cheers which went up told Doble, even before he slowed up, that the record was broken. Three cheers were given for Doble and Nancy Hanks. The official time for the mile, which was the lowest mile ever trotted, was 31½, 1.03¾, 1.36½, 207¼; the last quarter in 30¾ seconds.

The exhibition was given for a certain sum to be paid by the Northwestern Breeder's association, under whose direction the trotting meeting is being held. An additional sum, the amount of which Doble declines to disclose, was to be paid if the record was broken.

After the excitement had subsided, Doble waxed enthusiastic in speaking of the mare, and said: "In my opinion she is without a peer on the trotting turf. She was not distressed in the slightest degree at the end of the mile, and finished fresh and strong. She trotted from wire to wire, never lost her head, and did not show the slightest inclination to leave her feet. I did not touch her once with the whip, and only swished it through the air, and spoke quietly to her as she entered the home-stretch. She did the trick so comfortably, I'm sure she can beat it in the future."

Saved a Woman's Life.

Mr. J. E. Thoroughgood, writing from Georgetown, Delaware, says: "Two teaspoonfuls of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy saved the life of Mrs. Jane Thomas, of this place." He also states that several other very bad cases of bowel complaint there have been cured by this remedy. For sale by Baskett & Van Slype Druggists.

How to Carry an Umbrella.

A learned lady advertises a treatise on how to carry an umbrella gracefully. This is an age of grace in America, one is glad to know, and why not grace in an umbrella? Meantime some practical suggestions drawn from studies in real life may help persons who, either late or early in life, are wrestling with the art of carrying an umbrella in a fascinating manner, but cannot take lessons from the lady. We don't charge anything for them, either.

If you are going up stairs ahead of other persons, do not forget to hold the umbrella under your arm and let it stick out straight behind you, point backward. If you are not quite sure it will put somebody's eye out in that way stop suddenly on your way up to recover breath. Then the metal tip will be sure to hit. If you are walking behind a fat man carry the thing in the same way, only in this case poke the sharp end well forward, so that you can give him a dig in the back. Dig good and strong. In any case, wherever you are, carry it square fore and aft under your arm. It cannot fail to do its deadly work.

If those who get their eyes punched out or are dug in the back growl and say bad words, you will know that your umbrella carrying is a success and graceful. If it has a hooked or curved handle, hold that so it will catch in the lace or drapery of a lady's gown as she passes you. This is good for the dry goods trade. Finally, if you are carrying it open in a rain, walk directly in the middle of the sidewalk, so that every one who passes you will catch the drippings of it or get his nose punched with one of the steel prongs.

If you are a man carrying an umbrella over a lady, you need no instructions. No man ever yet held an umbrella over a woman, rain or shine, in any way but high over his own head and straight up in the air, so that if the sun was shining it beat in square upon her face and shoulders, and if the rain was pouring, the drippings from the prongs fell in a gentle, steady stream down the back of her neck and discolored and ruined her gown. Oh, yes! Men know enough about carrying an umbrella already.

National Indemnities.

The payment of $75,000 in gold by the Chilian government, through Minister Egan, to be distributed to the families of the two seamen who were killed and to the men who were injured in the riot at Valparaiso, ends that unfortunate affair with credit to both the republic of Chili and that of the United States. The riot occurred Oct. 16, 1891.

The United States government itself has always done the square thing by way of indemnity in case of injury to foreign citizens, thus setting a good example. We paid to Italy last year $25,000 damages for the Italians killed in the New Orleans mob, and there are people in New Orleans who believe this country got rid of some of them cheap at that. The indemnity paid amounted to $2,750 per head for the Italian citizens killed in the riot.

In 1887 four Japs were killed by some of our unconscionable naval target practice in which officers of the cruiser Omaha were engaged. For their peculiar style of target practice the government of their country paid $14,000. At Toulon, in 1834, some more of our extraordinary naval target practice resulted fatally to two French subjects and seriously to four others. Our navy this time was engaged in firing a salute. The United States paid France $9,600 to be distributed among the sufferers.

On the other hand, in November, 1873, the American ship Virginius was seized by a Spanish gunboat and taken to a Cuban port, where some of her crew and passengers were shot on the charge of being connected with a revolutionary plot. Some of those shot were British subjects, others American. For this outrage Spain paid to the United States government $2,500 for each person killed.

The late Thomas Cook, who died at his home in England, aged eighty-four, was the founder of the railway and steamboat excursion. He is another example of a man who caught one of the happy thoughts that float about mankind constantly and actualized till it brought fame and fortune and did good to the race. Only for him those admirable travelers who annually leave our shores as "Cook's tourists" never would have been thus known. Thousands of them would never have been able to go abroad at all only that his system brought travel within the means of the best class of people alive—persons of moderate means. Good rest to the soul of Thomas Cook!

Since the days of Benjamin Franklin the United States has had few distinguished linguists and men of all round knowledge to send abroad as foreign ministers, though of course no president ever makes a mistake when he appoints a good newspaper man to one of these posts. Since every foreign minister cannot be a newspaper man, however, we must all take pride in the fact that the important mission to Russia will be filled by that man of international, scientific, educational and literary reputation, Andrew D. White—one of the livest of Americans besides.

Austria is quarantining alike against Jews and cholera.

Old People.

J. V. S. is the only Sarsaparilla that old or feeble people should take, as the mineral potash which is in every other Sarsaparilla that we know of, is under certain conditions known to be emaciating. J. V. S. on the contrary is purely vegetable and stimulates digestion and creates new blood, the very thing for old delicate or broken down people. It builds them up and prolongs their lives. A case in point:

Mrs. Belden an estimable and elderly lady of 810 Mason St., S. F. was for months declining so rapidly as to seriously alarm her family. It got so bad that she was finally afflicted with fainting spells. She writes: "While in that dangerous condition I saw some of the testimonials concerning J. V. S. and sent for a bottle. That marked the turning point. I regained my lost flesh and strength and have not felt so well in years." That was two years ago and Mrs. Belden is well and hearty to-day, and still taking J. V. S.
