WORTHY OF A "JOY GIVER."

"In the Cheering up Business" contains the brave conclusion reached by a young girl who so persistently tries to bring sunshine into the lives of others that she finally becomes known as the "joy giver."

"If there is only one thing in life which is bright and pleasant," she said, "that I mean to hold fast; and if there isn't such a thing, I'll make it. I'll be it myself!"

Perhaps she was helped in her hearty and healthy way of taking life by the remark of an old doctor, who had called to see another member of the family and asked:

"What's the matter with her now?" "Oh," said the young girl, "I suppose it's her nerves!"

"Nerves! nerves!" cried the doctor, seemingly in an alarming rage.

"My dear young lady, I adjure you by all your hopes of happiness, don't let that word get into your vocabulary. There's no such thing! Indigestion, dyspepsia, if you like, but not nerves!"

That he was fond of exaggeration, no one can doubt; still the lesson he would have taught was a sensible one. When we allow ourselves moods of ill temper or weakness because we are "nervous," then we need to remember that the soul is stronger than the body. We need to look about us and see whether or not we can make some one else happy.

"For," says the little heroine who became a joy giver, "if one is really disposed to bring people good cheer it is wonderful to see what frequent opportunities there are. One might make it a business!"

CHANGES IN PRONUNCIATION.

Pronunciation is slowly but steadily changing. Sometimes it is going further and further away from the orthography; for example, either and neither are getting more and more to have in their first syllable the long i sound instead of the long e sound which they had once. Sometimes it is being modified to agree with the orthography; for example, the older pronunciations of again to rhyme with men, and of been to rhyme with pin, in which I was carefully trained as a boy, seem to me to be giving way before a pronunciation in exact accord with the spelling, again to rhyme with pain and been to rhyme with seen. These two illustrations are from the necessarily circumscribed experience of a single observer, and the observation of others may not bear me out in my opinion; but to the ground, the main assertion, that pronunciation is changing, is indisputable.—Brander Matthews in Harper's.

A MULE THAT DIDN'T LIKE A PIPE.

A great many animals enjoy tobacco smoke, for beasts are much like men and differ essentially in their tastes just as men do. But dogs and cats are not among the number of those that relish tobacco, for either will generally take a violent fit of coughing or sneezing when smoke is blown in their faces, and sometimes they seem to become very sick at the smell. Many horses, however, appear to enjoy the odor of a good cigar as much as men do, and to experiment with a mule's taste. A friend of mine blew a cloud of smoke from his pipe into the nostrils of a mule, and the insulted beast charged end as quick as thought and would have brained him on the spot had he not saved himself by falling prostrate. The next time he tries tobacco smoke on a mule he will tie the beast.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THUNDER BRINGS BODIES TO THE SURFACE.

"Natural cannonading is the only power that will force the waters to give up their dead." Coroner McDowell was talking of the dead, who he contents, are always found floating in the rivers immediately following a severe thunderstorm. "Dynamite and powder are often unsuccessfully used to dislodge bodies in the rivers," the coroner went on, "but the waters only respond to nature's cannonading.

"The scientists will not agree with me that some shocks of thunder dislodge dead bodies in water, but my experience of ten years has convinced me that electric shocks alone will dislodge the bodies. We rarely find bodies floating in the rivers in winter, and a severe thunderstorm never fails to develop a case for us."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—

There will be no services at the Friends' church in Highland Sunday, as the pastor, Rev. George, is attending the quarterly meeting at Marion, which extends over Sunday.

MOTOR LINE.

The Albany Herald is reliably informed that the proposed electric motor line to Waterloo is by no means idle talk. One Albany gentleman has signified a willingness to take $50,000 of stock in the enterprise if others will make up the rest. It will require about $100,000 or $125,000 to build and equip the road, including the several branches in this city. It is an important undertaking and one which would result in great advantages to Albany.

REDUCED RATES TO THE FAIR

The Southern Pacific Announces Reduction of Freight and Passenger Rates.

The following letter relative to freight and passenger rates on account of the Oregon state fair requires no explanation:

Portland, August 17, 1892.

Mr. J. T. Gregg, Secretary State Board of Agriculture: Dear Sir—

This is to acknowledge receipt of your favor of the 16th inst. in which you ask regarding rates for the coming state fair, which meets at the fair grounds on the 12th of September.

In reply I beg to say that we will make a round trip rate of one and one-third fare, from all stations on our east and west divisions, the Woodburn-Springfield branch, and the narrow gauge west side division, and the P. & W. V. railway to fair grounds and return to same. Excursion tickets will be placed on sale at all stations where we have agents.

Agents will be instructed to commence selling September 10th, and these tickets will be made void for return passage after Monday, September 14th.

On freight for exhibition at the fair, we shall charge tariff rates, when shipped to the fair grounds, but on presentation of certificates signed by you as secretary of the Oregon state board of agriculture that the articles have been on exhibition and have not changed hands the freight will be returned free.

This will include live stock of all kinds, but will not include race horses. Consignees, or exhibitors will be required to surrender to this company's agent at point of returning shipment, expense bills showing charges to the fair accompanied by certificate of the secretary of the association, the latter setting forth that the property has been on exhibition and not changed hands, when consignment will be forwarded to original shipping point free of charge. Please give information of this clause to consignees and exhibitors so they will comply with our requirements in order to have their shipments returned.

Regarding perishable freight: Consignees or exhibitors who have paid charges to the fair on articles that at its close are found to be worthless by reason of their perishable nature on surrender of expense bill and presentation of certificate of secretary of the association the latter setting forth that the property has been on exhibition, and not changed hands, and is unfit for return transportation will receive from this company's agent the amount paid for transportation of the property to the fair.

I hope you will see that all exhibitors are advised at the time you furnish them certificates so they will comply with our requirements.

Yours truly,
E. P. ROGERS,
Asst. Gen. F. & P. A.
