UNFORTUNATE "BILLY."

The "Parker" who was placed in the insane asylum on Wednesday night by the Portland deputy sheriff, is Wm. Barker. Everyone in Salem, that is, old residents, will remember "Billy," he was deputy sheriff for several years when Sheriff Scott and Matheny, when they were in that office, and Billy also served as city marshal here for several years. He has been bedfast for several weeks past, and this, together with a bruise he received some time ago, unbalanced his mind. He has a son, "Red," running on the Southern Pacific freight train.

GETTING READY.

Prof. Morrison, of the Friends' Polytechnic institute, reports that they will be ready to open next Tuesday, as advertised, and that their attendance will be as large as could well be expected. He is very much encouraged with the prospects, and expects a healthy growth for the school from the start.

LAWN SOCIAL.

This Friday evening, Sept. 9, the young ladies of the Episcopal church will give a social on the lawn of Mrs. T. McF. Patton corner Court and Cottage street, commencing at 8 p. m. Every one invited.

TONIGHT! TONIGHT!!

The copy furnished the JOURNAL yesterday regarding the "rainbow social" at Unity church read "this evening"—it should have been Friday evening. The programme for tonight is as follows: Music, orchestra. Select reading, Rev. H. H. Brown. Music, J. H. Ross. Original poem by Dr. Philbrook, read by Mrs. Philbrook. Rainbow drill by sixteen young ladies. The Rainbow. Solo, Miss Edith Farrar. A fine orchestra will be in attendance. The admittance, including supper, will be 25 cents. Supper from 6 until 8 p. m.

AUCTION.

Saturday, Sept. 10th, at 1 p. m. sharp, at 112 Court street, Opera house block. Sale of dry goods—men's and ladies' underwear—hosiery—cloaks—ladies', misses' and men's shoes—A fine lot of all wool yarn in all colors. Please bear in mind that we have $12,000 of good goods that are being sold at great bargains to close out. Come and see them. E. WILLIS, Agent.

BRIDGES AND STREETS.

Some New Bridges—A Big Fill—Needed Repairs.

Contractors Mason & Smith began work today on the big fill at the south end of the new Commercial street bridge. A dozen men and several teams are at work and the force will be increased in order to finish the job next week.

Complaint comes to the JOURNAL about a large hole in the west end of the big Willamette bridge. This should be looked after by the county courts at once, as there will be unusually heavy travel over it next week.

Contractor J. E. McCoy, who has the job of putting in two new bridges on Winter street, has begun the work of removing the old ones. Pile driving will begin tomorrow, and the city will begin filling the approaches Monday. Thus the work is well under way, and in due time we will have two good bridges.

Street Commissioner Culver has two men at work tightening up the bolts on all the truss bridges about the city and otherwise putting the bridges under his charge in to the best possible condition. He is working on the plan that an ounce of prevention is better than a broken bridge. He will also set out Monday enforcing the city sidewalk ordinance, and all poor walks that are not repaired on ten days' notice will be put into order by the city at the expense of the property owners.

Much complaint is made about the poor condition of a culvert bridge on the north end of High street. Several other small bridges are also reported in bad shape in and about the city.

The authorities cannot be too active in keeping up the condition of streets and bridges, for this has more to do with giving our city a good name abroad than almost any other consideration.

The intersection of State and Liberty streets will be filled and graded up tomorrow, in order to make it passable for fair week. The other street improvements ordered at the last session of the council will probably not be begun until after that time, however the contract is being drawn up, and will probably be signed this week.

FOR FOUR EVENINGS.

The Farmers' Institute Next Week at the Fair Grounds.

The JOURNAL is in receipt of a programme of the four days' farmers' institute to be held during next week at the state fair grounds. It will occur on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings, in a large tent erected expressly for the occasion. The state agricultural college faculty are the promoters of the event, and every meeting will be a most interesting one. The programme is as follows:

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

The Electric Railroads' Preparations for Fair Week—New Generator.

The Capital City railway company has a full crew of men out under Foreman Louis McCoy truing and surfacing the fair ground track ready for the heavy traffic that will be carried next week. This is also necessary to have the track in first-class order for the wet season.

The new open Brill car started on this line yesterday has proved a fine success. It is the pride of the men who operate it and the joy of all who ride.

A new 80 horse power generator was received by this company last week to take the place of the 40 horse one first put in by the company. Last night while the crew sent up by the Western Electric company to put it in place was at work on it, a mishap befell them that might have been serious. The six ton machine took a tumble that made it necessary for the boys to work all night, but it will be in place in due time. It will give the company 160 horse power to operate with.

The Electric light and power company are making arrangements to supply extra arc lights with power from the saw mill. A generator is being put in there, to be run by the big engine of that concern.

THE MOTOR COMPANY.

An understanding has been reached between the Motor railway company and the Electric power company, whereby the latter will furnish power for the new electric road as originally contemplated. This makes the operation of two electric roads next week a certainty.

The Motor company will have three cars in operation, and also several trail cars, all of which will be run from State street to the fair grounds, and over their short route will be able to handle not a few passengers.

A trial trip of the cars will be made not later than tomorrow, and they expect to be running on schedule time not later than Sunday or Monday.

The mammoth boilers, smokestack, furnace platings and some of the other heavy machinery have arrived for the Salem Light and Power company. They will be unloaded and put into place by Howard & Son, the house movers next week.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Freight Train Comes Near Demolishing a Hay Wagon.

T. F. and Harvey Walker, who live three miles from Salem on the S. Iverson road, had an experience at 10:25 o'clock this morning that will stay in their memory eternally.

They were going up Center street with a new wagon coupled out about sixteen feet having upon it a heavy hay rack. This vehicle had a double team of mules hitched to it and Harvey was driving while T. F. was riding on the rear end of the rack.

They were moving along at a fair trotting gait, and when within ten feet of the railroad track on 12th street, which crosses Center, they suddenly observed an approaching freight train from the south.

The mules could not be stopped, neither could the train (which was running without the bell being rung on the engine), and, quicker than thought, the driver made a leap for the back of one of the wheel "horses" but missed it and went astride the tongue. He had presence of mind enough to yell at the mules which scared them and they started on a run getting across the track in front of the train when the locomotive was but five feet away.

T. F. Walker fell from his position on the rear end of the rack and was almost grazed by the cars.

The animals ran nearly to 14th St., but Harvey, in his perilous position, managed to steer them into the walk and fence of the England property between 13th and 14th streets.

Several spokes in the left hind wheel were broken; the rack will need repairing; and the Walker Bros. are congratulating themselves on their being alive.

The train was going at the rate of fifteen or more miles an hour, and, the boys say, no bell was ringing or anything to warn them of the approaching danger.

THE CONVICTS TRACED.

Donahue and Evans in Seattle—Their Arrest Expected.

Gilford Stillwell, one of the guards at the penitentiary, is taking his vacation at Seattle, and yesterday telegraphed to Supt. Downing as follows concerning two of the escaped convicts:

"I saw an ex-convict here, who says Donahue and Evans are here. Await orders. Wire instructions."

Mr. Downing sent word that he should secure their arrest, when the answer came that Donahue could be had for $30. half in advance. This looked rather suspicious, and Mr. Downing telegraphed that he would pay $30, besides the reward of $50 offered, but not in advance. He also sent word to A. Jackson, the chief of police, ordering him to arrest either of the men regardless of cost. Nothing later has been heard, but if the information is genuine, the men will no doubt be secured without much delay. Mr. Downing is anxiously awaiting further developments.
