Military Parade at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—A clamorous extension of disappointment was witnessed yesterday over the announcement that the great military parade at the world's fair dedication would be confined to the outskirts of the city, consisting only of a short march, from Washington park to the world's fair grounds. While the managers of the parade declare there was no intention of parading down town streets, doubts of such an idea are generally entertained and the consensus of opinion this afternoon was that those responsible for the arrangement made a grave mistake, which could hardly fail to lead to widespread criticism and ill feelings.

Getting Ready for Dedication.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 18.—The hop-growers assert that a combination has been formed between the chief buyers and brewers of the northwest to bear the hop market. They cite the fact that buyers are keeping out of the field, only buying the hops offered by growers who need money and must sell. State Senator Van Devanter, of Kent, a large grower, says hops will fetch 40 to 50 cents before June and has advised the Puyallup and White river valley growers to hold up for better prices. Cholera.

When properly treated as soon as the first symptoms appear, cholera can nearly always be cured. The patient should go immediately to bed and remain as quiet as possible. Send for a physician, but while awaiting his arrival take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in double doses after each operation of the bowels more than natural. If there is severe pain or cramps, take it in double doses every fifteen minutes until relieved. This remedy has been used with great success in severe epidemics of dysentery that were almost as severe and dangerous as cholera, and if used as directed a cure is almost certain. Every family should have a 50 cent bottle at hand ready for instant use. After the disease is under control, castor oil must be taken to cleanse the system. No other physic or substitute will do in place of castor oil. For sale by Baskett & Van Slyke, druggists.

Dyspepsia

Makes many people miserable, and often leads to indigestion. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, acid burn, loss of appetite, a "flat," "all good feeling," bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. At times, however, it may be cured by the use of some of the most powerful remedies. My medicine, which acts gently yet effectively, it tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and, by its tonic action, overcomes the local symptoms, cures the dyspepsia, and refreshes the tired mind. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, and what I did not eat little good. After eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all over feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, painting, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it did me an immense amount of good and I had a good appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. PAGE, Waterbury, Mass.
