THE CAPITAL JOURNAL.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 2 1892.

BUILDING MATERIAL.
Lime, cement, plaster, hair, fire and building brick, fire clay, sand, gravel, blacksmith and house coal, wood, all kinds, wholesale and retail. Office 85 State street.
GOODRUE & CAHILL.

GILBERT & PATTERSON,

Dealers in Groceries, Crockery, Glassware, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Brushes, Windowglass, Etc. Sole Agents for Epicure Tea and Big Can Baking Powder.

POSTPONED.—The Chrysanthemum show has been postponed a week, and will be held at the armory Nov. 17th, 18th and 19th. This was done because the other date came too near following upon election day. It will also give growers of choice varieties a better chance to develop crown buds and make a finer show. Salem should follow in the example of Portland in making this Exposition a success—local pride and enthusiasm must be applied, and it will be a glorious success. The Kinder Symphonie club held a meeting this forenoon to promote the final details of the show.

ADDRESS BY FATHER WHITE.—At the regular meeting of the teachers of the district held at the East Salem school on Monday afternoon, there was a general attendance. By invitation Father White was present and gave the teachers an address on the subject of "Self Control." We hear it highly spoken of by many who were present.

AN OREGON PIONEER.—R. E. Pearce, of Eola, for many years connected with the government weather service, and well known at Salem, has been obliged to discontinue his observations on account of rapidly declining health. This will be very much regretted by his many friends and will be a loss to the department he so long and faithfully served. His records extend over a quarter of a century and are very valuable.

EXTENSIVE FIRE AT DIXIE.—M. I. Capps, the stage driver on the Dallas line, informs us that the mill and warehouse at Dixie, in Polk county, was burned this morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock. About 75,000 bushels of grain were destroyed, mostly owned by farmers. There was some insurance but our informant could not state how much. The origin of the fire is unknown. We are informed that Mr. Ellis, of Ellis & Whitney, of this city, had 500 bushels of wheat stored in the warehouse.

THE BELL PUNCH.—Yesterday all the good looking conductors on the Capital City Ry. Co. were supplied with heavily silver mounted bell punch registers, which they ring upon receipt of fare in the presence of the passenger. The men work twelve hours a day, which is a legal street car day all over the country, and receive two dollars. Each fourth day they put in sixteen hours. The street car man's life is not an easy one by any means.

LADIES' AID.—A ladies' aid society to St. Joseph's Catholic church was organized yesterday, with the following named officers: Mrs. Ed Edes, president; Miss Mary Barr, secretary; Mrs. R. A. Kirk, treasurer.

NOTHING SMALL.—No small potatoes about our methods, though we do a good business in groceries at a small profit. Squire Farrar Co. Ducks, ducks, at Davidson & White. Exquisite Broadway Buttercups at the Spa, W. T. Stolz, manager, 114 State street.

EVERYTHING FOR WINTER USE.

We invite the attention of close buyers to the best assorted and largest stock of

MARRIED.

Miss Annie M. Shafer and Emil Yalman, young people from Geneva, got a marriage license today and were tied in the bonds of holy matrimony by His Honor, Judge Hubbard.

Nervous Prostration.

Overvalued, especially among women, results from overtaxing the system. The assimilative organs becoming deranged, the blood grows weak and impoverished, and hence "that tired feeling" of which many complain. For all such cases, there is no remedy equal to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Take no other. "Some time ago I found my system entirely run down. I had a feeling of constant fatigue and languor and very little ambition for any kind of effort. A friend advised me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did with the best results. It has done me more good than all other medicines I have ever used."—Frank Mellow, Chelsea, Mass.
"For months I was afflicted with nervous prostration, weakness, languor, general debility, and mental depression. By purifying the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I was completely cured."—Mrs. Mary Stevens, Lowell, Mass.
When troubled with Dizziness, Sleeplessness, or Bad Dreams, take

NEW MAGAZINES.

The November number of Romance is a typical American one. Here are grouped together characteristic stories by Nathaniel Hawthorne, Edgar Allan Poe, Mary Hartwell Catherwood, Henry S. Brooks, Sherwood Bonner, Mary E. Wilkins and Harriet Prescott Spoford—the last of whom contributes a thrilling Thanksgiving story. The East, the West, the North and the South are alike represented. Romance publishing company, Clinton Hall, Astor Place, New York. $2.50 a year.

The November Harper's contains a very interesting article on "Nathaniel Wyeth, and the Struggle for Oregon," by John A. Wyeth. Every one interested in the early history of this state should read it. Wyeth came across the plains to Oregon, first in 1832, and made four trips in all; so that the title of pathfinder for Fremont is entirely out of place. The experiences of Wyeth as narrated in his journal were exciting and hazardous. Among other trips he came up the Multnomah river, now the Willamette, and pronounced it the finest country he had seen except some of Kansas, and pointed out the present site of Portland as the place for the beginning of the civilization of this vast wilderness should it ever occur. Wyeth also went into the interior by way of the Deschutes in the winter. A monument to the memory of this first pioneer by way of the plains, is in order.

"Housekeeper's Weekly," by Marion Harland, $1.00 a year, is a valuable addition to any home reading circle. The editor is a lady of high repute as domestic sage and the publication she gives her personal attention becomes an authority in its way. At present a series of pictures of eminent American women is being published—the one of Mrs. Harrison in No. 42 is a most excellent likeness.

The November Magazine of American History will be greatly prized as a souvenir of New York's monster celebration of the discovery of America by Columbus. The second article of the number, "The Discovery and Settlement of Louisiana," also illustrated, comes from Colonel John Donphan, of Missouri. Every issue of this monthly has a practical educational value, and is invested with human, popular, and timely interest. It is vigorously conducted and holds highest rank in current literature. Price, $5.00 a year. 743 Broadway, New York City.

A cleverly-painted head of a Mulatto child, by Otto Toaspen, is one of the three color supplement to The Art Interchange for November. A second painting shows a mass of sweet peas in a wooden shoe, and a third gives a pretty study of birds. Those interested in home adornment will find charming bits of furniture—colonial and modern; suggestions for ceiling decoration, mantels and room interiors. For the art student there are special designs and careful instruction in water and oil color, and mineral painting, and an especially excellent series of illustrated papers on drawing. The Art Interchange Magazine is for sale by all news-dealers. Each number contains five supplements, three of them being reproductions in color of works, by well-known artists. Price, 35 cts. per year.

Too Much of a Risk. It is not unusual for colds contracted in the fall to hang on all winter. In such cases catarrh or chronic bronchitis are almost sure to result. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold. Can you afford to risk so much for so small an amount? This remedy is intended especially for bad colds and croup and can always be depended upon. For sale by Baskett & Slype, druggists.

PREPARED FOR AN ACCIDENT.

Passengers on a Ferry-boat Put on Life Preservers as a Precaution.

Any one could see that they were "pa, ma and son," and that this was their first ferryboat trip. They walked just ahead of me going up the steps. The first thing they did was to go all over the boat asking questions of everybody. I kept them in sight. When at last they took seats on the rear guard I sat near them. By that time we were half way across the bay.

"Lands! What'er stream!" exclaimed ma, looking at the stretch of water between us and Oakland.

"Wouldn't be much fun if we upset," remarked the son.

"Gracious! I never thought uv that," exclaimed ma in a startled voice.

"Ever hev accidents?" asked pa, looking toward me.

"Not often," I said, "and if there should be they are always there." I pointed to the life preservers that were hanging above us.

"They all three locked."

"What are they?" asked ma curiously.

I explained. The trio arose to get a nearer view. Pa took one of the life preservers down.

"Well, now," exclaimed ma, "how on airth would yer get into it?"

Pa read the printed directions posted on the outside very slowly.

"Let's jist try her on," suggested ma eagerly. "Here, son, you turn around here."

There was a feeble remonstrance on the son's part, to which not the slightest attention was paid. In a few moments he was arrayed in a life preserver, to his parents' intense satisfaction.

"Jist git down another one, pa," said ma, "I'll see if I can put it on."

After a good many struggles she succeeded in doing so. "Now, pa," she said complacently, "you try one."

Nothing loath pa obeyed, and soon he stood proudly beside her.

"Spose we jist keep 'em on till we lan," suggested ma.

This they agreed to do.

"No knowin what'll happen," pa said significantly.

And there they sat until the boat landed, totally oblivious to everything but their own satisfaction—so glad that they were prepared for anything that might happen.

As I left the ferry they were helping each other take off their life preservers.—New Orleans Picayune.

Owens the Battlefield Now.

Sergeant George Munroe, of the police department, while riding on a street car engaged in conversation upon politics with a stranger, in the course of which the sergeant announced himself as a Harrison man.

"And why?" asked the stranger.

"Because I fought under Harrison," was the reply.

"Were you in the Atlanta campaign, and do you remember the battle of Ezra Church?" asked the stranger with considerable earnestness.

"I was and I do; the engagement of my regiment—the One Hundred and Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry—at that place is marked on the regimental flag as 'Battle of Utoy Creek.' They are one and the same."

"Well, I own that battlefield now. My name is Stone—Dr. Stone—and I am glad to have met a man who had bullets fired at him on the site of my residence; and by the way," said the doctor, "I have in my pocket some of the minie balls which I recently unearthed near my house. Perhaps you would like one as a souvenir. Here it is."

The sergeant took the proffered bullet, and if it were gold he would not value it more.—Boston Transcript.
