OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

Spokane Spokesman: Salaries are lower in Oregon than in Washington, but the officials there also receive fees which they are allowed to keep themselves and which make their compensation far greater in Oregon than in Washington, as in this state all fees are turned into the treasury. These fees do not appear in the appropriation bills, consequently the appropriation bills of the two states do not show the cost of the governments to the people.

Take, for instance, the office of state treasurer. The cost of this department of the government in this state is $8,150 in two years, or a little over $4,000 a year. In Oregon the treasurer receives $800 a year, in Washington he receives $2,000; but the Oregon treasurer has one clerk at $1,800 and another at $1,200, while the Washington treasurer has one clerk at $1,500. The Oregon treasurer gets $100 also as a member of the board of asylum commissioners, he also gets one-eighth of 1 per cent per annum on the $53,000 deposits required by the Oregon law to be made with the treasurer by every fire insurance company doing business in the state. This amounts to $10,000 a year. The office of state treasurer of Oregon therefore costs $13,900 a year in salaries and fees alone, besides the cost for paper, stamps, etc. This amounts to four times the cost of the office in this state.

The attorney-general in Oregon gets $3,000 a year, while the attorney-general of this state receives only $2,000. The Oregon official also receives an allowance for incidentals, etc. The secretary of state for Oregon collects in salaries and fees $48,583 a year; the auditor and secretary of the state of Washington run their offices at an expense of $14,381.

THE ASTORIA RAILROAD.

The Ogden Capitalists Will Furnish the Money on Certain Conditions.

A number of prominent railroad men and Ogden capitalists have visited Astoria since operations ceased on the Astoria and Eastern railroad, at the instance of Geo. Goss and Corey Bros., and for the object and purpose of looking over the field, and if they considered it a good investment, with the understanding that a new company would be organized to complete the road.

The last of the men referred to were Messrs. Remington, Barclay and Brady and it was understood that Remington represented Mr. Goss and his interests. Others visited the city and looked over the situation, most of them being Ogden capitalists. There is no doubt that these gentlemen were pleased with the situation and recognized that Astoria and Clatsop county had valuable resources that would be a source of profit to a railroad.

It is well known that Corey Bros. have graded eleven miles of road and a large portion of the trestle around Young's bay has been built and the total cost of the work done exceeds $300,000. It is certain that the men who have spent this money do not propose to lose it if possible, and they have been doing all in their power to organize a new company to build the road, and this has been the object of the visit of the gentlemen referred to.

It is understood that a proposition has been submitted, and if the same is accepted, the road it will be built and if not, it will not be built. The proposition is as follows: The gentlemen who have interested themselves in the matter and who are to furnish the money to complete the road, after a careful examination, have decided to advance the money on the condition that they be allowed to bridge Young's bay, the bridge to start at Smith's point and connect with the bridge of the Astoria and South coast road. It is claimed that to build a trestle around Young's bay as formerly proposed would cost more than the trestle guaranteed by the people of Astoria, besides it would be a constant expense to the company, make more miles of rails and the distance would be longer.

It was stated at the meeting that there was only one man in Clatsop county that would object to the building of the bridge and it was agreed by the subsidy committee that the question should be submitted to all property-owners, and a petition will be circulated for permission to build the bridge. This is the only condition upon which the company will furnish the money.

In other words, if the company are allowed to build a bridge across Young's bay they will build the road and furnish the money. If they cannot obtain permission to build, they will not furnish the money and will not build the road. This is exactly the railroad situation as it stands today, and the people of Astoria can decide upon what they propose to do. The sooner this matter is arranged the sooner work will be commenced, but it is almost certain that no work will be done this year, unless people move faster than they have been accustomed to in Astoria.

It is also understood that the proposition is acceptable to the subsidy committee of Astoria, and that they will endeavor to secure from the proper authorities permission to build the bridge; but all of this will take time, and no work will be done before December 1st and possibly not before January 1st.—Astoria Daily.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered, you have a Dyspeptic look and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched Look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and Tonic acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blisters, Boils and gives a good complexion. American Cholera.

From the Daily Revueille, Whatcom, Washington: "T. C. Burnett, the Democratic candidate for sheriff, was taken violently ill at Clearbrook. He had all the symptoms of Asiatic cholera, and for an hour or two it was feared he would die. They finally gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which revived him until a physician arrived." That is precisely what the manufacturers of that medicine recommend for cholera. Send for a physician but give their medicine until the physician arrives. If cholera becomes prevalent in this country next summer this preparation will be in great demand because it can always be depended upon. For sale by Baskett & Van Slype.

One day Fannie went down town to visit some friends in the neighborhood of Central park. As she was going along Market street, near the corner of Eighth, she noticed a one horse conveyance containing an elderly lady with a baby in her arms. The horse seemed to be ill at ease, and even while she stood there took fright at a passerby waving something in his hand. With a quick turn the animal made for the other side of the street and started to run. The woman in the conveyance, realizing the danger of her situation, screamed with all her might and called some one to catch the horse. With the baby in her arms she could do nothing, and if the animal got under way probably death awaited them both.

There was no one near at the instant but Fannie Krause, and it seems almost providential that such was the case. She was quite equal to the emergency, and if there had been a score of hands they could not have done more nor half so well. Quick as a flash she took in the situation, and making a wild dash for the escaping vehicle reached it before it had gone twice the width of the street. She grasped the buggy box in the rear and leaped clear in behind the seat; then clamped over the seat caught hold of the lines, and in half a minute more had brought the frightened animal to a standstill.

Quite a crowd had gathered around by the time the vehicle had stopped, and were loud in their expressions of admiration of the young girl's pluck and presence of mind. When the owner of the conveyance came up and saw the narrow escape his wife and child had had he was almost too frightened to speak, and could hardly express his gratitude to the young rescuer. He wanted to give her some money, but she modestly refused it and went on her way as if nothing had happened.—San Francisco Examiner.

The Dog's Memory.

If anybody supposes that dogs have no memory he certainly never knew a dog that had been unfortunate enough to make the acquaintance of the dog catchers. A friend of mine living in the suburbs has a valuable dog on which he paid license, but on account of the collar chafing the animal's neck he was accustomed to leave off this valuable protection. One day when walking with his dog he was unlucky enough to meet the dog catchers. One of them threw his wire, and the animal recognizing his evil intent made a tremendous spring, went clear through the loop, struck out for home, and on his master's arrival a few moments later had jumped the fence and hidden in the cellar.

For a considerable time the dog could not be persuaded to leave the yard, but finally by degrees got over his fright and ventured out as usual.

About a year later, on walking one morning the dog catchers were on again came in view, and although it was nearly two blocks away the animal recognized it and gave a wide berth; nor could the dog catchers, even by the exercise of the most adroitness, get within a few feet of the clever dog.—St. Louis Democrat.
