FINANCE, NOT THE TARIFF.

It will be remembered that in the last campaign for the presidency the leaders on both sides agreed it was the tariff that was the all-important issue. The JOURNAL insisted that financial reform was more important.

It is a noteworthy fact that now when Mr. Cleveland is elected he places the financial situation foremost and discusses that as the all-important issue for his administration to deal with. He places the tariff second of third.

It is to be regretted that the president sees no solution of the difficulty except along the Wall street line. A government that can allow national banks to put notes in circulation on a basis of from 25 to 40 per cent. of coin on hand to redeem them, can with $400,000,000 coin in its vaults just as safely issue $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 of paper money to meet the demand of the people for an increased and inexpensive circulating money. Such paper money issued direct to the people, kept at par and made a full legal tender by the national government would be well received by the people. It would obviate the necessity of continuing a government debt to continue the national banks. It would make banking free, and put an end to the cry that a great share of property is hid in the banks to avoid taxation. But Mr. Cleveland is progressive on any subject but finance.

A BIG CABINET.

Tacoma News, Dem.: Shakespeare credits Caesar with a liking for fat men. Cleveland certainly has. Even his Republican critics cannot complain that Mr. Cleveland's cabinet is light weight. They cannot find fault at least with the physical proportions of the new cabinet. It will be an interesting gathering of portly gentlemen, that first cabinet meeting some day next week. At the head of the table will sit Grover Cleveland, who weighs 250 pounds, and near him Hoke Smith twenty pounds heavier, and the new Attorney General, Richard Olney, who is more than six feet tall, and more than 300 pounds in weight. None of the other members are small men except Dan Lamont, and the giant of the cabinet is Postmaster-General Bissell, who makes the scales touch the 300 mark. The total weight of the President and his cabinet would not be far from a good round ton. A ton of cabinet. There is a phrase we offer gratis to our Republican friends. A stuffed cabinet for a Stuffed Prophet. A cabinet of thick necks and twenty inch collars. A cabinet with digestive apparatus that won't be disturbed by administrative complications and hordes of office seekers. A cabinet with plenty of vitality to back hard work. A cabinet of big men with big brains ready for big work for a big country.

CORRUPTIBLE PUBLIC OFFICIALS.

An anonymous writer, in the March Forum says: The typical legislature or city council consists of members of whom one-third will vote as they think, or at least as they prefer to vote, regardless of possible advantages or disadvantages to themselves. The votes of another third are merchandise pure and simple. The remaining third consist of debatable men, usually respectable in private life and with honest intentions to do their public duties, but often rather weak in character and likely to owe money they cannot pay. Whether men of this class serve on the temptation they happen to encounter. If repeatedly called on to vote on questions affecting large competing private interests, their chances of remaining honest are very small.

SUGGESTED COMMENTS.

Cleveland is president of our whole country, the national executive of all the people, even of Governor Penoyer.

The only turn-out is the man who turns his back against his country and goes in for public plunder instead of good government.

Those who complain about THE JOURNAL being a kicker should remember that it gets in its kicks on behalf of the dis-interested public.

Thousands of song-birds make the air musical these fine spring mornings. The laws against killing them are going to be more rigidly enforced under the new game laws.

The many beautiful trees on the highways, public squares, streets and school house grounds about our city should not be allowed to be cut down so many of them are. The city should look after this.

The young man is on hand who wants to get up the $20,000 world's fair book about Oregon. He should be encouraged by all means and let us all have our pictures in it and let it be shown to the astonished millions at the Columbian exposition.

The Oregonian is coming to the light. It now says that "much is made of undoubted evidence that the gold shipments of the last two weeks are due largely to the efforts of certain New York speculators who are trying to force gold to a premium." What this country needs is a finance system not at the mercy of stock jobbers.

The Annexation Problem.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The failure of President Cleveland in his inaugural address to outline a policy with regard to Hawaii has caused no little comment among the diplomats in Washington. It is quite evident from what they say that they expected some statement with regard to this matter at least sufficient to enable them to get an inkling of what the attitude of the administration will be. A reporter saw Dr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian minister, last night and asked him if he could give any idea as to what would be done by the administration with regard to Hawaii. "I have had no opportunity," said Dr. Smith, "of hearing what Cleveland would do. It is too soon, in fact, to outline a policy. I have great confidence in the new administration, particularly the secretary of state, Judge Gresham."

"Would Hawaii be willing to accept a protectorate in case annexation did not meet with the approval of the present administration?" "We would take that as a hand if the United States failed to act?" "England might, although the attitude of this country has been such so far as to indicate to England that she had better keep her hands off unless she wanted trouble."

Commander Castle said: "We have received no intimation as to the policy of the new administration. We think, however, we have every reason to believe that it will be favorable to us. Mr. Cleveland has been very discreet in his remarks concerning the matter. The policy of the Democrats has always been, however, favorable toward us, and that party negotiated the first annexation treaty in 1854, which progressed up to the signatures thereto. The Pearl River construction was negotiated under Mr. Cleveland. We have no reason to suppose that Cleveland will recall the treaty from the senate. Whether that body will go ahead with its consideration or not we cannot say. We hope that it will."

"Assuming that this country does not act in the matter, leaving the treaty unacted upon, what will you do?" "We shall go home. We will then have failed in our mission. We have no authority to carry on negotiations other than those leading to annexation. We will maintain our provisional government, which we think we can sustain. One thing is certain—there will be no interference from the monarchial party. There will be no restoration of the queen. It will be for the provisional government to say what will be done, if the United States declines to take us in. Either France, Germany or Italy would undoubtedly like to assume a protectorate and gain a foothold, but we desire the United States to receive us."

"Assuming that the Cleveland administration will not follow in the footsteps of the Harrison administration and carry out the annexation policy, but will pursue a policy looking toward a protectorate, would that be acceptable?" "We cannot speak for our government. We are instructed to secure annexation. A protectorate would be an evasion of the question, leaving it still in a chaotic state for subsequent settlement, a condition we desire avoided. A protectorate would make this government responsible for the acts of a foreign government without a corresponding right so control. We expected that Mr. Cleveland would have referred to the matter in his inaugural address, and we now anticipate something regarding it in his message to the senate. We will have to wait."

The Fools are not all Dead.

A lady man, whose horses and cart were stuck in the mud prayed to Jupiter for help. Jupiter answered "Fool! get up and put your shoulder to the wheel, and do not call on me when you can help yourself." Foolish people buy medicines hap-hazard, blindly trusting to promises made without a guarantee. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is guaranteed to cure colds, coughs, all lung affections, and even consumption, in its early stages. It puts to rest all stomach troubles, purifies the blood, gives healthful action to the sluggish liver, and drives blemishes from the skin. It is an honest medicine, and an invaluable health insurance policy which should never be allowed to lapse. All druggists keep it.

EXPERIMENTS IN HYPNOTISIA.

Artificial States of Suffering Produced by Mere Contact.

Dr. Luys showed me how an artificial state of suffering could be created without suggestion—in fact by the mere proximity of certain substances. A pinch of coal dust, for instance, corked and sealed in a small phial and placed on the side of the neck of a hypnotized person, produces symptoms of suffocation by smoke. A tube of distilled water, similarly placed, provokes signs of incipient hydrophobia, while another very simple concoction put in contact with the flesh brings on symptoms of suffocation by drowning.

The intense congestion that these artificial attacks produce might determine the rupture of a blood vessel or the stoppage of the heart. It is therefore unwise to describe the experiments more fully lest anybody should be tempted to try them without proper precautions. But there was an experiment of this nature that should be described. A woman who had been hypnotized earlier in the morning was put to sleep for a second time, and a corked and sealed tube containing fifteen grains of brandy was put in contact with her neck. A few seconds later she began to make grimaces, and moved her tongue and lips as if she were tasting liquor of some kind. She then began talking in broken phrases: "I'm thirsty. I want something to drink. Give me something to drink. My head pains me so. Any one would say I was drunk!" She tried to stand on her feet and fell heavily down into a chair.

"There," said Dr. Luys, who had previously taken his visitors out of the room to explain what would happen on contact of the tube containing alcohol with the hypnotized person. "Now a strange thing is that this artificial state of drunkenness can be transferred to another hypnotized person."

A man was brought in from an adjoining room and hypnotized. One of his hands was placed in the hand of the woman, and the passage of a magnet along their arms in the direction of the symptoms of drunkenness to him. To all appearances he was quite as drunk as the woman seemed to have been a few moments earlier. —Paris Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

A Youngster's Mistake.

I remember very distinctly a story that my father once told me about an incident of his own boyhood. I had climbed upon his knee one Christmas eve and asked for it. "What is the first Christmas that you remember?" "My question," answered my father, "Your grandfather gave a dinner to his old friend, Dan Webster. Although I was scarcely out of dresses, I had been intrusted by the butler with the very responsible function of decanting the Madeira. The manner in which I performed the task was revealed later on, when the great statesman, after sipping his wine in evident dismay, suddenly said, 'McClellan, you were always noted for the excellence of your Madeira, but this is the most extraordinary wine I ever tasted.' I hope the spirit of Dan Webster has forgiven me. In my zeal I had mixed the sherry with his best Madeira." —George B. McClellan in New York Herald.

Good as an Object Lesson.

Always an ardent fox hunter, Dean Hole has a better filled budget of sporting anecdotes than some people might expect. He quotes a letter sent by a veterinary surgeon to a young Oxonian who had commissioned him to look at a horse for sale:

Sir, I have examined the horse. The interesting family of quadrupeds to which he belongs is liable to a great number of diseases and injuries, hereditary, climatic, accidental, and I have no hesitation in stating that he has got most of them. He would be a very precious acquisition as an object lesson in our veterinary college, but I do not feel justified in commending him to you with a view to use or recreation.

A River of Ink.

A curious phenomenon occurs in "Darkest Africa," where runs a small water course which the chemistry of nature has turned into a stream of real ink. The formation is obtained by the union of two small rivulets, of which one is strongly impregnated with iron to a high percentage, while the second brook, percolating through a peat marsh, absorbs gallic acid. Nature knows no waste—nor man either, when he is pressed to it—hence letters are comfortably written with this singular ink of Mother Earth. A gentleman returning from Algeria, the neighborhood of this natural chemistry shop, found it in common use there.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Why the Ferris are Haunted.

Fountain Head of Strength.

When we recollect that the stomach is the laboratory in which food is transformed into the secretions which furnish vigor to the system after entering and enriching the blood; that it is the fountain head of strength, it is essential to keep this important machine in order, and to restore it to activity when it becomes inactive. This Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does effectually, seasonably, regulating and reinforcing digestion, promoting due action of the liver and bowels. Strength and endurance of the nerves depend in great measure upon thorough digestion. There is no nervous tonic more highly esteemed by the medical fraternity than the bitters. Physicians also strongly commend it for children and fever, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, sick headache, and want of appetite and sleep. Take a wine glassful three times a day.

Punishing Idols in China.

A curious case of arrest and punishment of idols took place recently at Foochoo, China. The idols of a certain temple in that city were those appealed to by persons who desired to be revenged on their enemies. They were supposed to cause death to those directed. Recently the Tartar military commander died suddenly, and the idea got abroad among the people that he had been slain by the idols in question. The viceroy of the province, hearing this, at once gave orders that they were to be arrested and punished. They were of wood and about 5 feet high. Before being brought for judgment before the prefect, their eyes were put out so that they should not see who was their judge and be able to trouble him either here or hereafter. After a full investigation a report was sent to the viceroy, who gave orders that the idols should be beheaded, their bodies be cast into a pond, and their temples sealed up forever, to prevent them from troubling the peace of the city in future.
