I hear the lifting of the latch of the gate. Who comes there? It is the Gardener, who passes in through the garden gate. He comes through this path of the garden, and he comes to the aged man, and he says: "Old man, I come to help thee: I come to strengthen thee. Down to hoary hairs I will shelter thee; I will

THE DIVINE GARDENER.

And then Christ, the Gardener, comes up another path of the garden, and he sees a soul in great trouble, and he says, "Hush, troubled spirit; the sun shall not smite thes by day, nor the moon by night; the Lord shall preserve thes from all evil; the Lord shall preserve thy soul." And then the Gardener comes up another path of the garden, and he comes where there are some beautiful buds, and I say, "Stop, O Gardener; do not break them off." But he breaks them off, the beautiful buds, and I see a great flutter among the leaves, and I wonder what he is doing, and he says: "I do not come to destroy these flowers. I am only going to plant them in a higher terrace and in the garden around my palace. I have come into my garden to gather lilies. I must take back a whole cluster of rosebuds. Peace, troubled soul; all shall be well. Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Oh, glorious Gardener of the church! Christ comes to it now, and he has a right to come. We look into the face of the Gardener as he breaks off the bud, and we say: "Thou art worthy to have them. Thy will be done." The hardest prayer a bereaved father or mother ever uttered—"Thy will be done." THE WALL OF DEFENSE.

But you have noticed that around every king's garden there is a high wall. You may have stood at the wall of a king's court and thought, "How I would like to see that garden!" and while you were watching the gardener opened the gate, and the royal equipage swept through it, and you caught a glimpse of the garden, but only a glimpse, for then the gates closed.

Walter Scott had the great ambition seen more than one century plant in full bloom, and when you see the century Walter Scott had the great ambition of his life to build Abbotsford and lay out extensive gardens round about it. It broke his heart that he could not com-plete the work as he desired it. At his last payment of £100,000, after laying out these gardens and building that pal-ace of Abbotsford, at that time his heart broke his health failed, and he died alplant.

THE GARDEN OF DELIGHTS. A few years ago, when I walked through those gardens and I thought at what vast expense they had been laid out—at the expense of that man's life—it seemed there is the passion flower of Christ, a crimson flower, blood at the root and blood on the passion flower of life of the garden of the garden of the garden flower, blood at the root and blood on the passion flower of life of the garden of the expense of that man's life—it seemed I could see in the crimson flowers the blood of the old man's broken heart.
