LOUIS D. VANDERVERE,

One of the best known business men in Chicago, representative of the great Bradstreet Co.

HEADACHE, SLEEPLESSNESS, NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Gentlemen: I take pleasure in informing you of the very beneficial results which have followed the use of DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE in the case of myself and wife. For a year I was subject to a distressing pain at the base of the brain and upper portion of the spinal cord. I lost flesh and was greatly troubled with sleeplessness. Your Nervine was highly recommended to me. My case had been so obstinate that I had no confidence in the efficacy of any medicine. Yet as a last resort I consented to give it a trial. Much to my surprise, I experienced marked benefit; my sleeplessness disappeared; my headache was removed; my spirits and general health greatly improved. I soon gained twenty pounds. All this occurred after learned and well known physicians had failed. My wife is taking the Nervine with the best of results. LOUIS D. VANDERVERE.

FINE GLASS.

Care of Bottles, and an Old Remedy Exploded.

We sometimes read very curious directions for doing very simple things. It is among the oldest of notions that birdshot is useful for cleaning bottles, decanters, etc., and it may be in some cases, but one must not use it for fine glass or that which is in any way delicate.

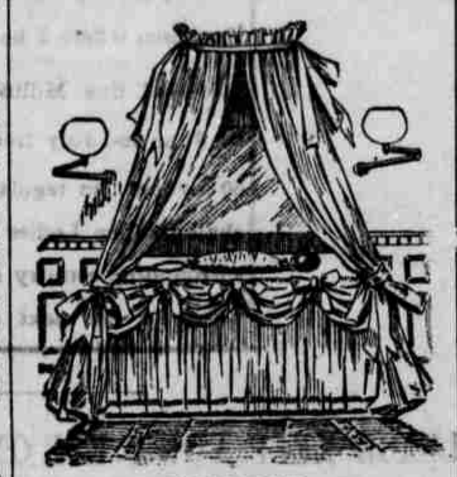
Many a valuable bottle and decanter have been broken by the use of shot. It does very well for coarse, common, heavy glass, and one might naturally suppose that this was the sort that must have been used by women who recommended it.

The ideal material for doing this sort of work is coarse sand. Gather a panful of ordinary sand from any washout on the roadway. Pass it through a common sieve and put it away for this purpose. Half a cupful thrown into a bottle and shaken about will scour the inside as clean as can be. It must be used with care, however, as too long shaking is likely to scratch the inside of the bottle.

For very fine glass a potato cut in pieces the size of small dice is preferable as a cleaning agent. This cannot possibly scratch, and although it takes more time to achieve the desired result, it is done with no risk to the finish of the article. Good, clean, sifted sand has many uses. If one cannot obtain that which is perfectly clean, ordinary sand that has been washed down by the roadside may be used. Throw a panful of this into a tub and pour in water, stirring the sand vigorously until all of the muddy look is washed out. When the water shows perfectly clear after being stirred up, the sand is clean. It may then be dried and put away in a bag or box for future use.

A Homemade Contrivance.

The advantage of a toilet table with its basin sunk below the top is recognized by every one who has ever known the convenience which it brings. The ready made stands are, however, costly and so beyond the reach of many who fully realize their value, but the simple contrivance shown in the illustration can be obtained by every householder who is willing to undertake the small amount of work involved.



TOILET STAND.

Purchase an ordinary pine table 3 feet in length. Then have cut in the center a circular space in which your basin will exactly fit. Paint the top with ivory white enamel paint of the sort manufactured expressly for the insides of bathtubs and hang a curtain around three of the sides. Select a brass rod about one-quarter of an inch thick and bend it to fit the corners. Then make fast the two ends with screw eyes, and in order to prevent slipping bend each downward for the distance of one inch. In the center of the long side and at each corner screw fast additional hooks to prevent all danger of sagging, and hang the curtain to the rod with small brass rings. When it is complete, you will have a most successful toilet stand and an additional closet as well.

Feminine Hosiery.

Shot effects have been introduced in hosiery as well as into all fabrics for feminine attire and may be found to match or contrast harmoniously with the gowns of many colors now popular. The prettiest evening stockings have lace insertion over the top of the foot and the instep. Some have pieces of colored baby ribbon to match the dress run in and out of the lace, but the prettiest as well as the most costly have medallions or insertions of real lace over the instep.

How Fashionable Women Walk.

The elbows are now carried quite behind the waist. So runs the latest fashion mandate, which isn't as absurd as it sounds, for so universally recognized is the fact that a fine carriage is one of the essentials of a prepossessing appearance that the smart woman carries her head high, her chest well thrown out, and her elbows necessarily fall well back out of the way. This is particularly true of city women, who realize that the woman who makes the best effect is always the woman who carries herself well. On closer acquaintance the pretty face begins to tell, and somewhere between the two the dress comes in for a share of attention as to details with men, and it is to please men that women dress, except a few spiteful women, who dress to aggravate other women.

Recipe For Angel Food.

Dissolve a half box of gelatin in a quart of milk; then beat together the yolks of 3 eggs, 1 cup of sugar, the juice of 1 lemon, and stir this into the gelatin and milk, letting it come to a boil, and then flavor with vanilla. When cold, whip the whites of the eggs and stir into the custard. Pour this into a mold and place it where it will grow cold.

Reliable Pie Crust.

Weigh 5 ounces of fresh lard, half a pound of flour, a pinch of salt and not quite half a teacupful of very cold water. Put the salt into the flour, rub the lard thoroughly into it and mix it quickly with the cold water into a dough and roll it out. This quantity makes an upper and an under crust for one large pie.

FOR LITTLE GIRLS.

The Present Styles For Children Are Very Beautiful and Attractive.

Whether it be called empire or greenaway, whether it be adapted from the quaintness of the English idea or the fancifulness of the French, the present style of dress for little girls is very fascinating and furnishes, like the dresses of their elders, a happy variety for selection.

Every material and every mode in fashionable vogue for gowns is used for these women of the future. But the prettiest child's dress of the season is the "clover dress" of white china silk with clover blossoms scattered all over it, growing thicker and closer toward the edge, where they form a solid border. The dress has most exaggerated puffs on the shoulders and full ruffles over those, the whole tied up, empire fashion, across the front with a bow of green velvet ribbon. Some of the daintiest children's gowns are of white dotted muslins made up with very lacey embroidery and many beadings threaded with bebe ribbons of color. Plainer white lawn dresses have a bit of color introduced by making them up sailor fashion with striped blue and white or pink and white linen lawn. Ginghams of striped or corded weave have shoulder frills or sleeve flounces of the plain color seen in the stripe, finished with brier stitchings of white or with white embroidery.

A pretty school dress for a little girl is checked crepon in gobelin blue with a check of red, with a double roll collar showing a shot silk yoke of red and blue taffeta. And little men, too, are allowed to wear all manner of dainty frills and furbelows in fine needlework in their dainty blouses, which have collars and cuffs of colored embroidery and of colored linen in pale blue and pink and scarlet. These, with the ties and sashes of colored silk, give an air of dainty prettiness to the little plain suits of wool or serge, of pique or seersucker, which form the summer attire of young gentlemen not yet past the age of long curls.

Almond Jumbles.

One pound of sugar, a half pound of butter, 1 pound of almonds blanched and chopped fine, 2 eggs and flour enough to mix it stiff. Roll this thin and moisten the top of each one with the white of an egg and sprinkle with sugar. Bake quickly.

Pretty Sash Curtains.

Sash curtains of bolting cloth, embellished with delicate hand painted effects, soften the light of the swell reception room. The curtains are drawn tight across the window, some graceful designs springing up from the lower part of the cloth. The popular French flower-de-luce, with its graceful, long leaves; purple hearted wisteria, wild roses and sprays of trumpet vine are given a chance to display their painted charms against the gauzy background.

Egg Soup.

For a quart of soup take 3 large teaspoonfuls of meat extract and mix well in a cup of boiling water and add enough water to make a quart. Then add 5 hard boiled eggs, chop fine and season with pepper and salt.

Hang Pictures In the Right Way.

Don't hang your pictures with the top extending out from the wall, but let both pictures and furniture fall back flat against the wall as much as possible, leaving the greatest possible amount of space in the center of the room. Every apartment should convey the feeling of use rather than the idea that it is a room for the exhibition of furniture.

A Pretty Tea Gown.

A very charming tea gown can be made of French challis for summer wear. The accompanying cut offers a good suggestion for combinations of color and material. The long robe front is of pink china crape or surah, and the challis is cream color with a design of pink and green foliage. A band of persian braid forms the collar and armlets, holding the fullness of the sleeves above the elbow. The total cost should not exceed the following estimate:

MADE OF FRENCH CHALLIS.

12 yards challis, at 50c	$6 00
6 yards crape, at 75c	4 50
1½ yards persian trimming, at 60c	[illegible]

THE STRAWBERRY.

Directions For Canning and Serving the Queen of All Berries.

It is possible in these days to get strawberries that have all the sweetness and aroma of the wild berry, with the increased size which cultivation gives. Such fruit is not vended commonly in market, but it can be found even in the large city markets, and any one possessed of a little skill in gardening can raise such berries at a trifling expense. The majority of the strawberries brought to market are, the New York Tribune says, raised by gardeners who care more for quantity and carrying power than for quality, and they are often a disappointment in flavor, being acid and lacking the aroma of the wild berry.

The aroma of the strawberry is largely lost in cooking, and it should be used fresh wherever it is possible to do so. In preserving it is essential to can the fruit when luscious and fresh from the bed and to use a variety of berry that is of rich flavor. The Wiesbaden preservers, who are more successful with strawberries than any one else, do not allow their berries to cook more than a moment. They fill the cans with the fresh fruit and set them in a large kettle containing water just hot enough to bear the hand. There should be a wooden rack in the bottom of the boiler, and cloth should be packed around the jars to prevent their touching each other. When they begin to boil, the German preservers watch them, and as soon as the berries rise to the mouth of the jar they take them out and cover them with a rich, cold sirup. By this means the plump appearance of the berry as well as its flavor is preserved.

There are many ways in which a basket of strawberries may be used for dessert. There are the daintiest of strawberry tarts made of fresh strawberries. These are simply shells of pastry filled with perfectly fresh, ripe berries, well sweetened. After filling the "shells" with the sweetened berries set them in the oven a few moments to let the sugar melt; then let the tarts cool and serve them heaped with whipped cream. Shells of puff paste can easily be procured from any French baker.

There is no more delightful ice cream than one made of the juice of rich, ripe strawberries and fresh cream. Stir a heaping cup of granulated sugar with the yolk of three eggs. Mix well and add to a cup of boiling milk. Stir the mixture thoroughly in a double boiler, or a saucepan set in another holding boiling water, for about four or five minutes. Then add to the hot mixture a pint of very rich cream and the juice of a quart of thoroughly ripe, rich strawberries. Freeze the cream carefully and serve it with white cake daintily iced and flavored with bitter almonds.

Parasols of the Season.

A very lovely one is of opal tinted iridescent silk, with folds of straw colored chiffon laid over each rib, with a chiffon bow with a bunch of roses of the same tints as the silk and a deep, fluttering flounce of the chiffon gathered particularly full at each point. Another consists of insertions of black satin ribbon and black guipure lace lined with gathered folds of pink silk, with loops of the black satin ribbon lined with pink around the peak. A third is all a-flutter with graduated ruffles of soft silk, pinked at the edges, while others of plain crape in the most delicious shades depend upon their linings and on the exquisite bunch of French flowers at the top for their effect.

NOVELTIES IN PARASOLS.

Shirt Waists.

The shirt waists of the coming season differ from those of last in the matter of trimming. They are very simply made, with the fullness gathered at collar and belt. A plaited collarette of the selvage edged silk, round in the back below the standing collar, reaching to the shoulder tips and pointed to the waist in front, is the favorite adornment.

If Mother Would Listen.

If mother would listen to me, dears,
She would freshen the faded gown;
She would sometimes take an hour's rest
And sometimes a trip to town,
And it shouldn't be all for the children,
The fun and the cheer and the play,
With the patient droop on the tired mouth
And the "Mother has had her day."

True, mother has had her day, dears,
When you were her babies three,
And she stepped about the farm and the house
As busy as ever a bee—
When she rocked you all to sleep, dears,
And sent you all to school
And wore herself out and did without
And lived by the golden rule.

And so your turn has come, dears;
Her hair is growing white,
And her eyes are gaining the faraway look
That peers beyond the night.
One of these days in the morning
Mother will not be here;
She will fade away into silence,
The mother so true and dear.

Then what will you do in the daylight,
And what in the gloaming dim,
And father, tired, lonesome, then,
Pray, what will you do for him?
If you want to keep your mother,
You must make her rest today;
Must give her a share in the frolic
And draw her into the play.

And if mother would listen to me, dears,
She'd buy her a gown of silk,
With buttons of royal velvet
And ruffles as white as milk,
And she'd let you do the trotting,
While she sat still in her chair.
That mother should have it hard all through
It strikes me isn't fair.
