DEPRESSED TIMES .- A. N. King, son of Amos King, of Portland arrived in cars every six minutes to the states pic-Corvallis Sunday night from Chewaucan Valley, Southeastern Oregon. He came across the mountains via the old military route and found about eight miles of snow, ten or twelve feet deep, and a number of wagons waiting to cross. Of the condition of affairs in Chewaucan he says: "Times were never at a lower ebb. Wool is only worth 6 cents per pound. Cattle can be bought at $10 per head all around, and horses recently sold at $15 per head. Muttou sheep only bring $2 to $2.25 per head, the latter being the best of wethers." Mr. King has about 4000 acres of land in Chewaucan. On a former trip out there this spring he offered a certain Williamson, returned to Portland this firm $3.50 per head for a band of sheep and on the visit from which he is now returning he wasoffered the same sheep | take Simmons Liver Regulator. at $1.50 per head.

THIRTY-SIX EGSS .- A friend tells of a boy over in Polk county finding a nest of that most beautiful of domesticated American birds, the Golden-Winged wood pecker, or "flicker," in an old apple tree. He has taken out an egg every day for 36 days, the bird faithfully laying a new one each ach-no appetite. Take Simmons Livtime the nest is robbed. Ordinarily the flicker hatches four to seven young. Hawks has few equals in his line.

CEMENT JOB .- One barrel cement to three barrels of gravel makes a good concrete for building foundations. It is understood that upon recommendation of the city hall superintendent concrete was substituted for stone work in the foundations. The bids for stone work were so low that cement cannot easily be substituted without loss or a awindle upon the city. This should be carefully watched.
