SUGGESTED COMMENT.

Mix whiskey with banking and whiskey will get on top.

Find out what state you are from by next Tuesday at the State's picnic.

The press of the state is not shedding tears over Jim Lotan's retirement.

Those Populist resolutions about Pennoyer ask Editor Joe. Gaston some hard questions.

July 1st! Collection day! May all our readers have enough left to celebrate with?

It is not a man's brains, so much as the use he makes of them, that wins him friends.

President Cleveland is appointing a very clean and respectable class of men to office in Oregon.

If the Democratic party is to administer our tariff laws, we had better not have any McKinley bill.

The people have some respect for the anarchists as compared with the governor who pardoned them.

The man who charged Marion county $48 for what has always been better done for $12 was not in it.

After next week of races comes the week of meeting of the State Horticultural society at Salem.

To keep up with Washington Oregon should have a war between her board of world's fair lady managers.

At the States picnic every state will try to get its best speaker to the front. And there will be some good ones.

An accused man may well pray to be spared from falling into the hands of a justice of the peace out of business.

We had supposed it impossible, but it is still possible for Astoria publishers to find something to indulge in personalities about.

If the farmers are to get anything for their wool either the McKinley bill or the Democratic party should be repealed.

A polite way to call a man a liar is to tell him his statements sound like the Oregonian's estimates of race attendance at Portland.

Col. Robert Miller is to be congratulated upon having been appointed to the most lucrative land office in Oregon—register at Oregon City.

It was said one who would take $24 to charge an innocent man with a crime was not fit to handle the public lands fund. Cleveland seems to have thought so.

If there was a positive knowledge that when this Democratic congress adjourns, it would not meet again for five years, the people could stand it better.

Here is a curiosity for you. Enclose your address and 2 cts, 5 cts, 10 cts, 25 cts, or $1.00 and receive THE ONE CENT DAILY of which this is a sample one day for every cent enclosed. Try it.

A Presbyterian woman proposed to dance a hornpipe with the editor of the JOURNAL at their recent moonlight picnic: shows all a Presbyterian knows about dancing. The hornpipe is a solo jig.

President Cleveland would not make a man Register of the Public Land office who would charge the county four prices for a half-service, or swipe the funds of the Democratic campaign committee and leave the party's bills unpaid.

Congress is to meet the first Monday in August. The people almost prefer a panic. It would be over and that would be the end of it. But with a session of congress it is not certain that the country will be any better off after it is over, nor at all certain that there will not be a panic into the bargain.

A subscriber at Switzerland, Or., sends a long criticism of Rev. S. C. Adam's Memorial day address. He is also an independent candidate for the presidency. We doubt not he would make as good a president as some others. But he would have done better to enclose his two cents and have subscribed for the ONE CENT DAILY for two days. He would have saved a whole lot of labor and by this time would be a great deal happier.

A LETTER FROM MR. GEER.

MACLEAY, June 25, 1893.

ED. JOURNAL:—We had supper this evening on the farm at 6 o'clock and afterwards I picked up a bundle of papers and seated myself under the big locust trees in the front yard to read an hour, waiting for the cows to feed across the pasture towards the barn and the milk corral.

And I was feeling awfully good, because if anything on earth can be more generous in its contributions to every reasonable want of the human soul than the closing hours of a June day like this, in the Waldo Hills, it has never been my good fortune to have heard of it.

Some city folks who had been spending the day at Silver creek falls were spinning by on their return to the city, and indulging in all sorts of hilarious jollity, which, if repeated in the streets of Salem by any of us plodding grangers, would subject us to a night's lodging in the city calaboose; the sheep in the field just west of the house were beginning their evening foraging expedition, while in the barn yard, the work horses, just turned out for a short play, were engaged in the greatest effort of their lives endeavoring to win the affections of a young colt from its bewildered and disgusted mother; the bee hives, near by, were the scene of the greatest activity and interest, while I particularly noticed that two mourning doves were located each in a an oak tree, fully a half mile apart, and were exchanging plaintive lamentations whose very sadness would bring tears to the eyes of an Early Rose, evidently taking great comfort from the self-imposed fiction that they were held apart by the ruthless enactment of some heartless tyrant.

On my left was a waving field of wheat rapidly approaching harvest time, and the meadow, even now, looking toward the barn for future protection, while on the right was the young orchard, whose luxuriant branches were lazily tossing in the evening breeze, first in grateful recognition to the generous earth and then in modest thankfulness to the reddening rays of the setting sun.

After leaning back in my chair for a few moments, and feasting on a scene such as can only be found on a farm which has not yet been tainted by even the suburbs of the city, and indulging a few pleasant reflections of which the foregoing lines are the merest synopsis, I reached for a paper which happened to be the WEEKLY JOURNAL, and the first thing I happened to see was the letter of my friend and neighbor, J. A. Hunt in which he loudly laments the degeneracy of the times as shown by the refusal of President Cleveland to enforce the Geary law.

After reading Mr. Hunt's letter I fell into another reverie from which I did not recover until one of the milk cows thrust her head over the gate and bawled to me in awful tones that it was time to come along with that bucket!

I read all of his letter twice, and the following paragraphs a dozen times:

The Cleveland administration seems to be staggered over the cost of returning a few ship loads of Chinese.

My God! has not the blood of hundreds of thousands of noble patriots been freely poured out upon the altar of American liberty, and can we not spend a few millions sterling to preserve its interests?

Now, I heartily approve of nearly, or quite all Mr. Hunt says in his letter but for the life of me cannot shun the reflection that had Mr. Harrison been reelected, the Geary law would have been in the hands of its friends; that he signed the bill and being in accord with its object, would have seen to its enforcement; that but for the inordinate desire of a lot of old time Republicans to "stand up and be counted" and therefore voted for Mr. Weaver in order to have a "change" Mr. Cleveland would not now be sitting in his arm chair in Washington throwing cold water on Mr. Hunt's fondest anticipations.

In addition to this Mr. Cleveland came into power on a threat to put wool and many of our other leading products in open competition with the poorest paid labor in the world, and this was all accompanied by a popular demonstration, strong in some quarters in favor of a financial system which would deluge the country with paper money, practically unlimited in quantity and irredeemable in its nature.

Does any one wonder, does Mr. Hunt wonder, that from the moment the result of the election last November was known, business became paralyzed, men with capital to invest immediately withdrew it from the channels of trade, or that all kinds of industries came to a sudden halt?

Leaning back in my chair now, with closed eyes, I can recall the names of some of our esteemed fellow citizens, former Republicans, who, about a year ago now, were instructing our people about the great necessity of having a "change;" it has come, and there is really an amusing aspect to a situation which meets with opposition from those who worked the hardest and bawled the loudest to bring it about.

As Judge Tourgee recently said we are only paying the first installment of the price always paid for the "luxury of folly."

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5. express prepaid. Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.
