THE PREACHER'S FUNCTION.

Dr. Lyman Abbott occupies Henry Ward Beecher's pulpit. He was considered almost the only man in the world possessed of the ability, culture and power to step into Beecher's shoes. any preacher living, in breadth of thought, in spiritual force, and in intel-

Dr. Abbott discusses the functions of a Christian preacher in the July Forum. Rather, he shows what are porularly considered functions of the pulpit but should not be. It should not be to "entertainin," to be a rationalist, or an egotist, or social reformer. "It is not the function of the preacher to re-or ganize society. His work lies deeper; i is to re-organize men, and to teach men how they can live peacefully and happilly together."

It is not, according to Dr. Abbott, the congregation with political or economic pulpit discussions, or controversial discourses about pensions, dancing, problindividuals. Get the individual right, society will take care of itself. In conclusion Dr. Abbott says: Never Was the "cloth," or "the pulpit" less venerated than now. Never was so scant respect paid to it, he says.

A lake is told of where a body drowned never rises to the surface. That would not be a bad place to drown the Democratic finance managers.

Under Harrison's administration it was possible to keep all our currency at par and public confidence in our national finance was firmly established. While Harrison was not hostile to silver he was not in favor of any coinage that could not be kept on a secure basis. The fusion tickets that elected Cleveland destroyed all the basis of security for our sliver currency and commercial prosperity. Republicans do not feel responsible but simply can have nothing to say. Those who did it must take their medicine.

Here are two items from the Roseburg Review, edited by the Mr. Floed who for a time rose from obscurity and edited a paper at Salem a few weeks;

Editor Fings wanted to be receiver of the Oregon City land office, but Col. Robert Miller gets the place. While he is a little radical on the soldiers' home question, and "off" in his oppoaition to the mortgage tax law, still Mr. Flagg is a splendid fellow, a good Democrat, and was well qualified to fill the position be sought. He takes his defeat philosophically and joins in congratulating his successful rival.

HOPS AND CROPS.

SALEM, July 6, 1893. GOVERNMENT REPORT.

The cool nights retard growth and the late planted new yards; but they too promise a good average crop. The lice have appeared, under the influence so so of the warm weather, and spraying is actively engaged in. With proper care the hop grop will be enormous this year, for climatic conditions have so far been very favorable to it. Due to the cool nights corn has very slow growth; but it has a bealthy appearance and bids fair to be a good crop. IN ENGLAND.

The great hop region of England is Kent. Kent is the bop garden of Eog-It is not doubted that he is the peer of land. It is a paradise in summer almost, and lands command an English pound sterling rent per acre. The hop gardens are not plowed. The land is spaded by hand and the hop raiser goes about with an ironpointed can prodding down to see if any shallow cultivation has been done. In Oregon land can be had for the rental value in Eugland and we ought siways to be able to compete with Great Britain in hops.

NAPOLEON ON BOARD SHIP.

A Glimpse of the Emperor as He Was of

The wind was increasing to a gale. Napoleon asked me, laughing, if there was any danger, which was evidently meant to annoy Baron Koller, who was near him and who had no great itor. faith in the safety of ships, and whom he constantly joked on his bad sailorship, as the baron suffered dreadfully from sensickness. He made some observations to me as to give a poor man a quarter, and, Mr. our men's allowance of provisions and seemed surprised that they had cocoa and sugar, and asked how long they had had that indulgence.

This evening a small Genoese trading vessel passed near us. I ordered her to be examined, and, as Napoleon was anxious to know the news, I desired the captain to be sent on board. Napoleon was on the quarter deck. He wore a great coat and round hat. As he expressed a wish to question the captain, I sent him to the emperor on the after part of the quarter deck and afterward ordered him down to my cabin. "Your captain," said he, "is the most extraordinary man I ever met. He put all sorts of questions to me, and without giving me time to reply repeated the same questions to me rapidly a second

When I told him to whom he had been speaking, he appeared all astonishment and instantly ran on deck, hoping to see him again, but Napoleon, to his great disappointment, had already gone below. When I told Napoleon the man had remarked the rapidity with which he put questions to him twice over, he said it was the only way to get at the truth from such fellows.

He leaned on my arm and gazed at them with great earnestness for nearly half an hour; his eye appeared quite fixed. I remarked that he had passed those mountains on a former occasion under very different circumstances. He merely said that it was very true.-Thomas Ussher, R. N., in Century.

Swindling and deceit are known among animals. In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to military exercise.
