Drowned at Astoria.

ASTORIA, July 18.-There was a heartrending scene at the mouth of the river Monday, when five men, without a minute's warning, were dragged into the breakers and drowned. At a little after 9 o'clock a thick fog came up over the river and the westerly wind changed the smooth water into a dangerous choppy sea. Nearly 400 boats were out around the jetty and Republic spit, and only a few of them came in at the first signs of danger. About an hour afterwards, when the fog lifted, the lookout at Fort Canby saw three band will discourse music throughout the evening, sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake will be served, and the overturned boats and the signal gun immediately called out the life-saving crew. They went out at once and found that five men had gone down and that a dozen boats had been over-
