PEARY'S SLEDGE JOURNEY.

Reasons For Considering It a Most Remarkable Performance.

To the Editor of The Sun SIR-In your issue of this morning you speak of Lieutenant Peary's famous sledge trip as being the longest ever performed by two men with a dog team. Is not this an error? Colonel W. H. Gilder's trip across 8tberia was much longer, and I understand from him that the first 4,000 miles of it were accomplished with only the aid of a single native. I do not write to dis-parage Peary, but certainly Cresar should have DAVID A. CURTIS.

Our correspondent has unintentionally misqueted The Sun. We did not say that Peary's sledge trip was the "longest ever performed." What The Sun said was "He made the greatest sledge journey ever performed by two men with a team of dogs, traveling on the ice cap as far as from this city to Omaha without a single advance cache of supplies."

This of course is a matter of opinion, It is an opinion, however, that is sup ported by leading authorities in arctic matters, as was shown, for instance, in the recent session of the Berlin Geograph ical society, when one of the honors of the society was conferred upon Lieuten ant Peary.

His performance did not equal that o Gilder or of several other sledge parties notably during the Franklin search either in distance covered or in average rate per day, as The Sun showed month ago. It is, however, the conditions un der which such a journey is made that fix its relative position among similar performances. In the first place, his journey was made many hundreds of miles north of every other sledge route that is particularly conspicuous both for distance covered and for average rate attained.

Some of the conditions were wholly new. It was the first time, for instance. that an explorer had handled a team of Eskimo dogs on the inland ice. Peary did not have a single advance cache from which to replenish his supplies. Many other sledge parties were able to establish such caches, or at least there was the probability that they could secure some game to feed their dogs if dogs instead of men were in the traces. Peary had to face the probability that he would not be able to obtain a pound of fresh meat, and he therefore had to drag every ounce of supplies for man and beast that he expected to use. All previous sledge work had been done at or near the sea level. Peary's sledge work was done throughout at a phia. height above the sea of a mile to a mile and three-fifths. For two weeks at a height of over 8,000 feet he advanced among clouds so dense that from the rear of his sledges he could hardly see his dog teams. For two weeks he was utterly unable to steer a course except by taking the compass direction of the wind and stopping every 15 minutes to see if the wind had not veered a point

Under these and other equally unique. untried and remarkable conditions Peary made a record which in point of distance covered and average daily rate ranks among the conspicuous arctic sledge journeys, and the conditions under which these results were attained make the journey the most remarkable of sledging exploits. If two men have matched it elsewhere, it would be interesting to know it.—New York Sun.

All Over a Cow.

Moslems were preparing to celebrate a religious festival in Rangoon Sunday and were forbidden by Mr. Fleming, British magistrate, to sacrifice a cow near the Hindoo temple. Twenty Mohammedans fell dead, and many more were wounded severely. The Mohammedans still refused to disperse. and the military were called out. companies charged on the double quick with bayonets. The Includiction of Delaware Order of the Eastern Star Notes.

The jurisdiction of Delaware is composed of 21 lookes, which are governed by a grand lodge consisting of all the present and past grand officers, of more than 250 past mas ters and the masters and wardens of the respective constituent lodges—a formidable grand body for so small constituency.

In Illinois an amendment has been adopted by the grand lodge to relieve the lodges from the payment of the G. L. dues or members who from disability to pay are excused from the lodge dues or have had them remitted by the lodge.

The smallest grand lodge in the world in geographical extent is the grand lodge of the District of Columbia, whose jurisdiction is comprised within 10 square miles. The smallest in membership is the grand lodge of Luxemburg, whose jurisdiction only a few years ago extended over two lodges and 100 Masons.

The Eastern Star is growing in Maine fast enough to make up for lost time. In Beulah chapter at Westbrook, at one meeting in March, 33 new members were initiated. In Golden Rod chapter at Rockand 17 have been initiated since January.

The one hundred and fifth anniversary festival of the Royal Masonic Institution For Girls was held in Freemason's tavern, London, recently. The Earl of Euston, pro-vincial G. M. of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, presided. The stewards' report shows a liberal contribution to the great charity-viz, £14,011, or about $70,000. The city of London gave of this sum $31,090. It is a well known historical fact that two grand lodges have existed at the same time in England, Massachusetts, South Carolina and Louisiana. New York at one time had six grand lodges. The twenty-fourth annual convocation of the Ancient Order of the Eastern Star of the state of New York was held in New York city.
