OUR THIRD WORLD'S FAIR LETTER.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. Nearly another week has passed and still we are seeing the elephant of the White City. He is a mastodon of the first water and entirely too much of a good thing.

The heat here has been rather too much for an Oregonian, so we have been keeping a trifle shady, but have easily been able to see a hundred times more each day than an average mortal could take in and miscite.

Every department is fully represented and every state in the union as well as nearly every foreign country has a representative exhibit.

Nearly all of the states have beautiful buildings, and much happy enterprise is exhibited in their strife to outdo one another.

From an agricultural standpoint there are over sixty acres of new great and good things to see, from all points of the compass, and long before getting through the wonderful array, the visitor has become an ardent convert to the small tract idea.

The most generous ideas of comfort prevail on the grounds and in all buildings. Seats are everywhere provided for the weary visitors, as well as free drinking water, toilet privileges and many other conveniences.

What is the difference between stealing under the guise of law and stealing contrary to law? What shall we think of the morality of the Portland bank that have confessedly been doing business with state funds, city funds, county funds, any funds but their own funds, and all these funds public taxes paid by the people?

FROM AUMSVILLE. L. M. Reader and Frank Bond, road masters, are doing good work in their respective districts, having taken advantage of the water being let out of Mill creek for several days.

OPPOSED TO ANY. ED. JOURNAL.—I am opposed to the idea of your correspondent A. B. and to any city superintendent and I believe taxpayers are generally.

AFTER BREAKFAST. To purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and give nerve, bodily and digestive strength, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE NEW FREIGHT RATES.

The other day THE JOURNAL published figures showing the changes made by a new freight schedule recently put into effect over the Southern Pacific railroad between Portland and certain points in Southern Oregon.

But complaint keeps coming in from merchants in this end of the valley that they are paying far more than formerly. We give below the new and old rates between Portland and West Stayton, Portland and Salem and Portland Albany.

Table with columns: Between Portland and Salem per 100 lbs. weight, OLD NEW RAISE, Drygoods, clothing, Boots, shoes, etc., Canned goods, Sugar, Salt, Hardware, Plows and farm machinery, Nails.

Table with columns: Between Portland and West Stayton, Sugar and salt, Eggs, Between Portland and Albany, Drygoods, clothing, Boots, shoes, etc., Canned goods, Sugar, Salt, Hardware, Plows and farm machinery, Nails.

Besides these regular rates there is a commodity tariff from Portland to Salem and Albany of 20 cts. per 100 lbs on all shipments less than carloads, and 15 cts. per 100 lbs. on carloads.

This advance in rates in the north half of the Willamette valley, covering probably two-thirds of the local freight on the Southern Pacific line in Oregon amounts to from 40 to 60 per cent. It is explained by the commission that formerly the rates were too high in Southern Oregon and the commission has "equalized" them by raising freight rates as shown above all over the north half of the valley in order that a reduction might be made in Southern Oregon.

THE OREGONIAN properly calls the Salem way of killing dogs with a club against a barn door, "a primitive way."

ALAS! Poor old New York. It is a pretty hard slam on New York that while that town was advertised as getting $900,907 gold from London, Chicago was reported getting $4,500,000.

THE PEOPLE are leaving some valuable facts out of the panic. Among other things is that the Portland banks have been doing business very largely with public taxes. They hold now, or should hold $200,000 of state tax, $140,000 Portland school taxes, and no one knows how much city money.

MR. WEAVER is busy harvesting his crop of oats. He intends to build and store his oats at home.

OUR QUIET town has been greatly disturbed for several days. Everybody wears an "I told you so" look; no one is disappointed, everything has happened just as everybody knew it would.

A New Thing.

"Hev you got any burlap laughn about de sleep?" asked a colored man of a Gratiot avenue grocer yesterday.

"Dat's all de better, sah. I want about fo' of 'em." They were given him, and he looked around and inquired: "Has you any pieces of rope to spare? I want about 50 feet."

"No, sah. My wife was workin fur a lady on High street de odder day, an she cotched on to a new idee. She's gwine to use dis stuff, mingled with a few sander buckles and shoestrings to make a pianer kiver."

"Dat's what I dun tole her, but she bring home all de perticklers in her mind, an she's bound to turn out one. If you h'ar of anybody as wants a $25 pianer kiver, homemade an chunk full of art, jess let me know."—Detroit Free Press.

THE NEW servant, who had just run a fork into her finger and seemed greatly concerned about it, replied to her mistress' inquiries that she was nervous over the wound because she believed the forks were plated.

"Plated!" cried the mistress, "but no, set your mind at ease about that; these forks are solid." Next morning forks and servant both were missing.—Revue de Famille.

"A Reg'lar Fake." Bootblack—Talk about fakes, every thing is a fake nowadays. Oh y' eyes cheated right out of ye. I shined a fellow last night wot was in a hurry an had no small change an offered me a ticket for a camme exhorbition. You bet I took it. Newsboy—Was it fine? Bootblack—Fine! Now! Reg'lar fake. Nuthin there but dogs.—Glad News.

A Saving Fellow. Presser—When my boy came to work for you, I told him to be economical and save all that he could. Hegger—He has followed your advice in one particular at least. Presser—Has, eh? Hegger—Yes, indeed. I never had an employee that was so particular about saving his strength.—Brooklyn Life.

HE ASKED FOR MORE. Little Tommy is gifted with an appetite of prodigious capacity. Yesterday a cake was brought on for dessert. "I want some," said Tommy. "You want me to be hungry now, dear," said his mother. "I am sure you are not capable of swallowing another morsel."

zeme to the Land of Spirits.

Colonel B., a well known gentleman, had been sick in Washington for some days, and the local reporters had made daily inquiries concerning him after the first announcement.

"How's Colonel B.?" he asked of the clerk. "The colonel has gone to the spirit land," was the reply.

The city editor looked it over and swore. The items read as follows: "Colonel B., who has been quite sick for several days at the Blank hotel, has recovered sufficiently to go to Kentucky."—Detroit Free Press.

Hood's Cures

"Every Dose Helps Me. When I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I think it the best medicine for the blood, my six-year-old boy had sores on his feet, caused by FROSTBITE. They became so large and painful he could not wear his shoes.
