The Examiner, the + flicial organ of Democracy on the coast, takes President Cleveland severely to task in a column article under the caption "The New Cleveland." It accuses him of becoming a Republican; second, says he now stands for the maintenance of pro tective tariff and also of a gold standard: third, for the maintenance or the spoils system, as exemplified by the use of patronage to bribe or coerce congressmen into obedience to the executive; fourth, the centralization of power in the hands of the president to an extent that no other chief magistrate has dared to attempt.

Set Him Right.

Geo. Augusta Sala, the well known English writer, on his last Australian trip, wrote as follows to the London Daily Telegraph: "I especially have a pleasant remem-brance of the ship's doctor—a very experienced maritine medico indeed, who tended me most kindly during a horri-ble spell of bronchitis and spasmodic asthma, provoked by the sea fog which had awooped down on us just after we left Sau Francisco. But the doctor's prescriptions and the increasing warmth of the temperature as we neared the Tropics, and, in particular, a couple of Alleock's Porus plasters clapped on—one on the chest and another between the shoulder blades—soon set me right."

The New Hop Process.

A new process for drying and otherwise treating and preserving hops, corn, tea, fruit, tobacco and other vegetable substances, is under consideration in England. The method takes the form of a portable oast or kiln, through which the hops can be passed in the garfollows by the Kentish (Eng.) Gazette:

The oast is constructed of light galvanized iren, and connected therewith are three tanks and an engine about 6 horse power. The machine is capable of holding an equivalent to two cloths in an ordinary oast, and weighs about two and one-half tons. BRUNSON AND HIS ISLAND.

They Are In No Country, and He Owns Altegiance to Nobody but Brunson The people of Olympia and residents of neighboring points know of a lost island that is actually lost so far as the government records are concerned. It is known to steamboat captains and people in the neighborhood as Steamboat island, because of its resemblance to a big steamboat. Instead of being lost to sight, this island has really lost its identity. According to a frank admission on the part of the land department, this island is not under the control of any known government.

This discovery was made by a man of the name of E. Brunson, who squatted on the island about three years ago and then sought to file on the land as a homestead. He was sent from one point to another trying to get it surveyed, but met with nothing but disappointment at each turn. At length, after wearisome delay, the department at Washington sent word that it had no knowledge of any such piece of land within the borders of the United States. Brunson continues to squat and now defies the powers that be to oust him. He is a bachelor and is the sole resident of the island, which contains about six acres. He has a small ranch, where he raises garden truck, etc., and lives as independently the "black swallower," which deas any of the proud potentates of Europe. At low tide Brunson can reach the mainland along a low spit of sand, but when the water comes in he is cut off from all communication with the outside world except by boat. This miniature kingdom is about 12 miles from Olympia, at the intersection of Big Skockum and Oyster bays. According to Brunson's first understanding, his to engulf any prey that may wan kingdom was just over the line in Mason der into its cavernous jaws. There county. Thurston county. Brunson refused to pay his poll tax to Mason county on the ground that his island was not subject to any government and that he was literally a law unto himself. This seems to be the generally accepted view of the case. Some of his neighbors joked him about his principality, and he remarked that he "had a good notion to run up the British flag and take possession in the name of Queen Victoria." It has been suggested

The case is quite interesting and has provoked no little discussion among the inhabitants of the sound .- Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Not the least amusing of these occurred during a visit to her old home in Alabama. When she arrived at her destination, it was to find herself minus her trunk, which, after due inquiry at the railroad station, she finally located at a small out of the way place on the road where a change of cars had been made. Accordingly a telegram of inquiry was sent, with the satisfactory result of the speedy appearance of the missing trunk.

The next day came a voluminous letter from the station master thanking Miss Herbert for the opportunity thus afforded of extending the courtesy of his road and evincing his own desire to please in the speedy restoration of her traveling gear. While assuring her of his permanent desire to accommodate her upon any and every occasion, he would esteem it a mark of proper recognition if she would mention the matter to her father and forthwith secure him a position in the navy department.-Kate Field's Washington.
