MARKET AND TRADE.

Prices Current by Telegraph—Local and Portland Quotations.

The price of American hay in London has declined to $20 per ton of 2,240 pounds.

Down in Maryland the finest varieties of peaches are selling in the orchard at 25 cents a bushel.

Do not bank the coxy with earth during the hot weather. The neglect of this caution is what makes so much early celery rasy.

Western Iowa Farm Journal: The Odebolt Herald says that Webster Heath, of Wall Lake township, raised on an acre of ground one and a quarter tons of grapes from vines only four years old.

All the gold exported this year has been recovered except $12,000,000. The indications are, however, that gold exportation, on a small scale at least, will soon be resumed.

Union Star: We were very much pleased with the sale at the W. A. Elliott farm last Tuesday. Horses brought as high as $80.

The agricultural reports in England are beginning to give us the final results of the long drought. All the grain crops this year will be considerably below the average, and some estimates declare that the yield of hay will not exceed one-fifth of the average.

Monday's New York Sun has a three-column article on the world's wheat supply, giving the total production at 2,217,000,000 bushels and the requirements at 2,414,500,000 bushels, showing a deficiency of 197,000,000 bushels.

Apples are in good demand for shipping and drying at Salem. The Oregon Fruit & Produce Co. are shipping to the Sound and to Minnesota at present.

No potatoes are being shipped and no prospect of immediate advance in prices.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the result of much research and wide experience, by a practical physician of world-wide fame.

Basilli in the Dust of Cities. Dr. Manfredi has been announcing some disquieting facts concerning the omnipresence of fatal microbes.

Jim Was Probably Excited. "John, dear," said Mrs. Barlow, "I think your brother Jim is awfully mean to the baby. I'm sorry we named Jamesy after him."

Gained 15 Pounds. "I have been a great sufferer from Torpid Liver and Dyspepsia. Ever since I ate dinner with me until I began taking Tutt's Pills. I can now digest any kind of food; never have headaches, and have gained fifteen pounds in weight."

Insects Hard to Freeze. Insects that spend most of their lives in a torpid or semitorpid condition are not always killed by being frozen.

A Typographical Error. A sentimental novelist once wrote, "Edwin then kissed Angelina under the silent stars."

A Trite Remark From the Stage. At one of the transporting theaters the other night the stage manager made a remark which was almost an epigram.

Books on Etiquette. From time to time books on etiquette are being published, and the reader thereof is gravely and to some extent arbitrarily told certain rules for behavior which to society seem very absurd.

Danger of Consumption. I was sick and discouraged when I called on the Village doctor. He intimated I had consumption and would not live long.

An Interested Experiment. "We made over our house lately," says a woman who has lived for some time in a large town in the interior of the state, "and I was surprised one day while the work was still in progress by a visit from one of the workmen of the place. He was driving by when he suddenly reined in, and stripping came up on the piazza where I was standing.

Thousands. I saw then the object of his call, and when I recalled the many times he had 'struggled' through the former steep and narrow flight I respected his solicitude.

A Judicial Pooh Bah. In the course of judicial trials sometimes rich, rare and racy things transpire. At American there was a negro, Joe Murray, being tried by the justice court, charged with the offense of perjury.

Strange Story of an Insane Man. I heard a remarkable story in an uptown club a few nights ago. It was told by a prominent New Yorker.

He had been confined in an asylum in an adjacent state for some time. The keepers got negligent, and during one of their lapses of vigilance the person in question escaped.

Two or three years ago a practical politician from an inland city had been promised a government position for valuable services rendered for party, and some few preparatory or preliminary questions were asked him.

"How about our foreign relations?" "Rather shy on that, I guess."

"How about the financial policy of the party?" "Well, you bet I've got that down fine," he said.

When musical instruments were first used in the services of the Scottish churches, many strict Sabbatarians objected to the iniquitous proceedings.

One of these persons, on meeting the minister some time after leaving the "kirk" because of the introduction of a harmonium, said with a sneer, "Well, and how is your fanner getting on?"

DANGEROUS LOOKING BOXES. Ship's Stores That Frictioned the Captain of a British Vessel.

Here is an amusing incident which happened on her majesty's ship Canada in 1883, when the Duke of York was on board. It occurred when the vessel was but a few days at sea.

When an inventory of the commissariat was taken, two suspicious looking boxes were found among the stores of which no account could be discovered.

The commissariat officers of the Canada were sorely dismayed by the two mysterious boxes. Might not some fanatical Irish patriot have sought to gain for himself everlasting glory by smuggling an infernal machine on board the ship which was to carry the possible future king of a hated nation?

What could the suspicious boxes contain if not the doom of a warship with all on board? The prince was the coveted goal. He was sure, but 300 insignificant souls must go with him.

Who could blame the officers for being alarmed? There was something to be alarmed about when no account of the boxes could be found among the ship's papers.

The sedate old captain ordered the two boxes to be shipped overboard as "damaged goods" and the matter kept strictly secret from the prince and the men in order to avoid a panic.

After more than two months on the ocean another inventory of the ship's stores became necessary, for the captain intended to take in a new supply at Halifax.

Now the invoice of two boxes of German sausages taken on board at Portsmouth was found among some other papers. But the goods were not in stock, nor did the accounts show that they had been consumed during the voyage.

What had been a dark secret with a few soon furnished amusement for the whole ship, for the boxes contained—German sausage.—London Tit-Bits.
