MARK TWAIN'S LATEST.—A magazine is usually satisfied with one strong feature for the month. The Cosmopolitan, however, presents for November no less than five very unusual ones. William Dean Howells gives the first of the letters of the traveler, who has been visiting this country, from Alturia. We have read Mr. Howells' impression of the Alturian; but in this first letter, we have the Alturian's impressions upon our government and society calculated to awaken the most conservative minds. The second feature of The Cosmopolitan is a new and very curious story by Mark Twain, called "The Esquimaux Maiden's Romance." It is his happiest vein and is illustrated by Dan Beard.

ARREST MADE.—The overland Wednesday night brought to Salem, G. R. Sibley, deputy U. S. marshal, who placed G. A. Booth under arrest and took him to Portland to appear before the U. S. grand jury on a charge of making an improper use of the mails. Booth is an agent for the Slinger Sewing Machine Co., and resides in the brick block over McCrow & Steusloff's meat market. His arrest is the result of a recent visit of a postal inspector of Salem. He is charged with having violated the U. S. postal laws for which he will have a hearing in U. S. Commissioner Deady's court.

LOSS OF SLEEP.—To lie awake night's trying to help other people is not often done, but one Salem man indulges in the habit. It is the business manager of a Clark & Eppley's, devising plans to make their patrons happy.

WAY UP.—The stock of surgeon's sponges, cottons, lints and gauzes kept at the Capital Drug Store is unequalled in the city. We also have Apollonaris, Vichy, Hunyadi and Buffalo Lythia waters. Lunn & Brooks.

A WORD TO THE WISE

Our season's stock is now on our counters—fresh, bright, beautiful in rich assortment. Now is the time to make your selections, while you have the best to choose from. Careful buying has made the prices right. Celluloid in all that for fancy work; Celluloid frames and baskets, and a new line of ladies and gents purses and pocket-books.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Governor Pennoyer has issued the following:

I do hereby appoint the fourth Thursday of the present month as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings He has bestowed upon this commonwealth during the present year. God has indeed been most beneficent to our state and nation, and yet unjust and ill-advised congressional legislation, having made gold alone full legal tender money, has so dwarfed and paralyzed business that the bounties of Providence are now denied to hundreds of thousands of people within the national domain, who are not only without employment, but are also without the means of procuring food, raiment, or shelter. While, therefore, the people of Oregon return thanks to God for His goodness, I do most earnestly recommend that they should devoutly implore Him to dispose the president and the congress of the United States to secure the restoration of silver as full legal tender money, in accordance with the policy of the fathers of the republic, whereby our industries may be revived, and the honest toilers of the land may procure their daily bread, not as alms, but as the reward of their labor.

Done at the capitol, Salem, Oregon, November 1st, 1893.

SYLVESTER PENNOYER, Governor.

Attest: Geo. W. McBRIDE, Secretary of State.

A Prominent Publisher.

Hon. H. L. Pittock, one of the proprietors and publishers of the Oregonian newspaper of Portland was in the city today, for the first time in about four years. He was former state printer of Oregon and after a short visit with Hon. A. Bush and other friends called at the JOURNAL office. In conversation he stated that the business outlook at Portland was more favorable and spoke very highly of the Capital City. Mr. Pittock regards the chances for any unusual degree of prosperity for several years to come as very meagre or realization. However he thinks all business interests in this valley are continually improving. He says the Oregonian will be equipped with typesetting machines as soon as it can be learned what is the best machine made.

A GOLDEN SUCCESS.

Everything that succeeds is a success. Of course it is. If it wasn't it wouldn't be, now would it? If Cleveland had not succeeded in bringing his party to his single gold standard ideas he would be set down as a failure no matter how hard he had tried. Now he is the idol of the gold-olators, the Joes of Wall street and the great Hys-Kosputh of the plutocracy. The fusionist and populists who helped elect him achieved the greatest gold bug victory of the age. There is a golden success surely, Cleveland in the role of a single gold standard hero has been such a howling success that no silver man can ever again be elected to the presidency. Vale, silver!

Genuine Artist.

"Signor Liberati is a genuine artist in the fullest meaning of the term (every solo is applauded to the echo,) and delights equally the ordinary listener as well as the cultivated musician. You feel, as you listen, that there is the soul and the sensation of music in the man, and not the faculty of mere mechanical execution. His music had a heart in it. He was loudly applauded."—New York Musical Dramatic Courier.

MITCHELL AND CORBETT.

The Champions May Fight in Some Foreign Country.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Charley Mitchell and Corbett's manager, W. A. Brady, had a conference here in the presence of David Blanchard, preliminary stakeholder. At its conclusion the newspaper men were admitted and Mitchell said, "The proposition I have made is that if the fight cannot be fought in public let us fight in private and let Blanchard place the money in the hands of some one we agree upon. If we cannot fight in this country, why don't Corbett agree to come to England and fight?"

"Corbett," said Brady, "has agreed to fight you in the only reputable club in England."

"If this fight is not pulled off," said Mitchell, "at the time set in the articles, I know what I'll do."

"Do you mean," said Brady, "that you will take down the $10,000?"

"No," said Mitchell; "I'll request Blanchard to send the money to the Sporting Life in England, and challenge Corbett to fight me over there. He has as much right to go over there and fight me as I have to come to this country."

"I want you to understand," said Brady, "that Corbett will not fight you under the London rules and you may challenge him from one end of the year to the other. He won his championship under Marquis of Queensberry rules and that is the way he intends to defend the title."

As the party was about to depart, Mitchell asked Brady if Corbett would fight at Monaco. "Yes," said Brady, "when we get a business understanding from them."

"I'll agree," said Mitchell, "to fight Queensberry rules and let the present rules stand, only that we transfer the money to some one over there. I will also consent to an American for referee, and we can pick him in this country."

Mitchell agreed to cable Atkinson, of England, who made the offer, for full details.

And Job Wasn't In It. "It is a great consolation at times," said the first sad looking man slowly, "it is a great consolation, I say, to read about the afflictions of other men. Misery loves company, and when one reads what others have endured it makes his own lot seem better."

The second miserable looking man shook his head. "You haven't tried it," said the first.

"I have tried it," returned the second.

"Well, you didn't read the right kind of literature then. Of course you feel sorry for the people in history who had their heads cut off, but that doesn't affect your case. You want to read about Job."

"I have read of all his sufferings."

"And didn't that make your own burden feel lighter by comparison?"

"Not a bit. He never had hay fever."—Chicago Post.

Java's Boiling Lake of Mud. One of the greatest natural wonders in Java, "the fire island," a large lake of boiling mud, is situated almost in the center of the plains of Grobogana, 50 "pangs" to the northeast of Solo. It is almost two miles in circumference, and in the center immense columns of soft, hot mud may be seen continually rising and falling, like great black timbers thrust forth and then suddenly withdrawn by a giant's hands. Besides the phenomena of the columns there are two gigantic bubbles near the western edge which fill up like huge balloons and explode on an average of three times per minute.—St. Louis

NORTHWESTERN NEWS.

Eugene Guard: Saturday evening after the receipt of the news of the assassination of Mayor Carter H. Harrison, some of our practical jokers sent by messenger to Mayor Friendly a pistol flask filled with the best article obtainable in Eugene. The mayor appreciated the joke.

A two-horse farm wagon was driven through town on Wednesday, says the Hillsboro Independent, that had on farm produce valued at $350. Had the product been wheat it would have required about fifteen wagons to have carried $350 worth. The bales contained hops.

From a Pendleton citizen, now in this city, it is learned that times are somewhat easier in that portion of Umatilla county. The banks have announced that they have money to loan to farmers and this fact has been taken advantage of. It will not be long ere good times will come again throughout the entire Northwest.—Ex.

Rev. John Finn in the Skamokawa Eagle says: "Talking about steamboat rates. In 1850 I took my first ride on the Columbia river. It was on a little boat called the Columbia. I remember that we had a big crowd on her. Over a hundred passengers. They charged me a $20 gold piece for the passage from Astoria to Portland. We left Astoria in the evening without supper and when we got to Oak Point about twelve that night, a number of us made a rush ashore to get something to eat. But there was nothing there and we went on board and pushed on for Portland. At noon the next day we got our first and only meal on the passage. It was a grab game, I tell you, and we were a hungry lot when we reached Portland late that night."

The following from the San Francisco Call conveys the gratifying information that Oregon will have one grand exhibit at the Midwinter fair: "A correspondent asks for an explanation of the fact that the Midwinter fair buildings are being constructed entirely of Oregon pine and spruce, while California redwood does not figure in the materials used. The explanation given by the executive committee is that at the time the contracts were let the only woods available in sufficiently large quantities were Oregon pine and spruce. Besides, it is stated by the executive committee that while redwood is desirable for interior finishing it is not so well adapted for construction purposes as the other woods. Redwood will be freely used, it is promised, in the decoration of the various buildings."
