Mrs. Romig, nee Hazel Keyes, the female balloonist who has been giving exhibitions at the State Fair grounds was brutally robbed of $46.75 Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock. Her coat containing her purse with all the money on her person was violently evidently acquainted with her movements and lying in wait to accomplish

Mrs. Romig, the victim of this das tardly assault, had left the balloon in care of her husband to go to the pavilon building to change her clothing. The cars had all left the grounds with the crowd and the place was nearly deserted. Just as she came out of the building a low, stout, heavy-set, smooth-faced man came up behind and sprang upon her, saying: "I have just been laying for you!" He seized her by the collar of her dress and coat, STATE PRISON WALL BROKEN threw her backward upon the floor, tore her clothing in his effort to get off her coat, which he succeeded in doing, and ran away.

He rifled the pockets and threw the coat away about 50 yards from where he left her. Mrs. Romig screamed but got no assistance and no further violence was attempted. She saw a man standing about 100 feet away and called to him to catch the thief but he paid no attention and was apparently a confederate on guard, as he ran in an opposite direction from which the thief had taken and both had disappeared in the darkness. In response to her cries her husbond came as quickly as he could to her rescue but not in time to stop the thieves, who had escaped in prison. Persons on the outside had

A crowd of men started in pursuit but it was impossible to follow the robbers. Mrs. Romig was evidently robbed by some one familiar with her habits where she carried her purse.
