OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Every body would like to be a banker. There is a glamour about the banking business that often deceives people into the idea that the banker has the touch of gold and does not have to work for what he gets.

In a smaller way each individual can be a banker. The moment you have a surplus dollar you are a banker. But there are other ways of banking than saving money.

You can be a banker by husbanding your resources and saving your strength in other ways. Moderate eating, abstinence from all stimulants, narcotics, poisons, drugs, anything but the plainest food and pure water, and not too much of that, will give you a bank account of a hale old age to draw upon.

We should be bankers in our dispositions more than anything else. We should save as much of the fresh and sunny resources of our nature as possible to draw upon for the dark and cloudy weather of life.

In the older days we shall need all the available funds of life. Oh, let us not be a bankrupt in any respect. Let us save wisely in physical, moral and intellectual powers, for the days to come when we shall need all the cheerfulness, intelligence and philosophy possible.

Ask Your Friends. Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor.

SUGAR BOUNTY.—Don't pay a premium on sugar, but get the price at Harritt & McIntyre's before buying. They have made a deep cut.

GOOD ADVICE.

The farmers of Oregon are too much given to the raising of one crop, generally grain. A diversity of crops is necessary to insure prosperity. It will not do to abandon the production of grain, but an earnest effort should be made to feed a great deal of grain to hogs, cattle and poultry.

Literary fame is a curious thing when it brings a letter addressed to "Dr. Olive W. Holmes," and addressed inside as "Dear Madam," to the famous "An-tocrat of the Breakfast Table," and yet this is what actually occurred in the mail of the Boston post only a short time since.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of the human mind. It has been the leading topic of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nervous system, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are diseased, all the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to an imperfect action of the nervous system, and a large number of acute diseases are primarily originating in the organs of the nervous system.

The great mistake of physicians in treating chronic diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nervous centers which are the cause of the trouble.

Dr. Frank M. Miles, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with the nervous system, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong.

Followed Child's Advice.

"I'll never forget the good advice given me by Mr. George W. Childs," said Fisherman George Coward of the Shrewsbury as he gazed reflectively at a box of crabs on West street the other night.

"Did he warn you to let strong drink alone?" was asked. "No, something more valuable than that. Why, don't you know that Mr. Childs' advice changed my whole life? I'm a different man, better than I ever was."

"What was it, then?" "Why, it was this: You know Mr. Childs has a cottage on the Jersey coast. Well, one day he was out riding, and he saw me."

"Come here, Coward," he said. As I approached I saw his face was sad. "Coward," said he, "why did you sell me those stale crabs the other day?"

"They weren't stale, Mr. Childs," said I. "Look here, young man," said he, his face flushing with kindness. "Let me give you a piece of advice—never tell a lie about bad crabs."

"I never forgot those words. Today I am the richest and most reputable crabman on the coast, and Mr. Childs is my best customer."—New York World.
