WHEN NEXT SEEN.

This man's body was next found by B. F. Hinshaw, who was going to Turner, at about 11 a, m. Sunday. He was lying with his throat cut, in the open roadway near the railroad fence just south of the Oregon state reform school six miles from Salem. The first trace of blood was four feet from the fence about 150 feet south of the reform school station. Then there was blood invited. It will be given at the church all the way for a rod ending in a large parlors The old folks whist meet puddle, and about seven feet from the puddle say the body, still warm when found, and the razor near by it. There were no signs of violence or of a struggle. A brass button, such as there are none like it on his clothing was found near the first blood stains.

THE TOOL WAS a white handled razor, new'y ground and in a black case with the following written on the case, 'L. D. Jones, Monmouth, Polk county, Or." Also the words new edge. A ten dollar openface watch and brass finger ring was the most people who rely on no other also found on his person. Things Worth Remembering.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably;

when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When this fit of indigestion is re peated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of Bran dreth's Pills will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days,

On a pretty gir) saying to Rufus Choate, "I am very sad you-see," he replied, "O, no; you belong to the old Jewish sect; you are very fair-I-see." Nothing adds so much to the beauty of a fair girl, as a clear, bright, healthy complexion, and to secure this pure blood is indispensiable. So many of the so-called blood-purifiers sold to improve a rough, pimply, muddy skin, only drive the scrofulous humors, from the surface to some internal vital organ, and disease and death is the inevitable result. On the contrary, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strikes directly to the root of the evil, by driving the impurities entirely out of the system and with a fresh stream of pure blood President, I. We have received from Lieutenant General Donat MacMahon (Bedford), who saw the attack on the Malakoff, the following interesting letter: "I see by The Daily News that a doubt exists in France as to the time and place when Marshal MacMahon made use of the expression, 'J'y suis, j'y reste' (Here I am, here I remain). Permit me to state that I was present in the Crimea and witnessed the final attack on the dreaded Malakoff, which MacMahon led in person. He was then a general. When he and City Treasurer Swafford have been had expelled the Russians, he received an order from his chief, who, I believe, was then General Pelissier, to withdraw his men from the Malakoff, as it was believed to be mined. It was at this critical time he made use of the expression,

"He immediately formed his men into a semicircle and set about cutting through to a certain depth in order to cut the wires or tubes in connection with mines. But before its completion one mine exploded and killed over 100 officers and men, he fortunately escaping. This literally terminated the siege and the campaign. MacMahon soon after returned to France. He was then a great favorite with the French army, Some of the French officers whom knew informed me that the emperor felt so dissatisfied with the length of time we were before Sebastopol that he sent MacMahon out specially to bring the campaign to a speedy termination. The expression referred to was often quoted by these officers with evident pride and satisfaction, so I feel not a little surprised to learn that a doubt exists in France as to the time and place when these solemn words were uttered, particularly if in military circles."-London News
