Oregonian Editorial: A situation land for several months, in regard to public funds, is rapidly coming to a head. Sheriff Kelly upon a charge of "embez zling and converting to their own use moneys belonging to Multnomah county," cannot be understood in the literal sense of the words employed in the ac cusation. Nevertheless, the fact remains that a very large sum of money belonging to the county has been so placed that it cannot be had now when it is wanted. It was deposited by Mr. Markle is president, most of it early last summer, when the financial pressure began. Other deposits, which it was expected would be maintained at the usual average, were depleted, and the "run" carried away also the county's funds. It would be absurd to sup HORSE KILLED .- B. J. Sharpe had the misfortue to lose a valuable horse pose that there was any criminal lu-Sunday morning about 8:30, the animal tent. It was a condition new to the experience of those who were caught in it, yet not new to the large experience of fin nce and banking.

The error arose in part from the habit, long prevalent here, of accepting as sureties of public officials those with whom pulble money was to be fect of high winds. W. N. Savage, the deposited, and in part from the habit of treating public moneys as loanable funds. The position of Sheriff Kelley is such that we cannot see how he can longer hold the office of sheriff. This is said with regret, for he is a man of good and honest intentions, whose errors and misfortune have grown out of a situation with which his experience had not qualified him to deal.

The lesson of this situation is one that was sure to come out of the coudi tions that have so long been prevalent in our state. There has been a profit in having control of public moneys, and the custom has been handed down from year to year, during a long period. In ordinary times the practice was followed without disaster; but it was sure to collapse when the conditions should be ripe for the catastrophe. The lesson profit out of control of public funds. The principle will apply as well to the state treasury as to the treasury of this county or city, or any other.

Danger always attends any method of dealing with the public funds for other object than that of absolute safe keeping. > Kundret and Wenger sang a vocal selection and received the usual recall. Mr. Burns, of Independence volunteered to take the place of C. B. Montague, of Lebanon who was unable to be present owing to illness, and filled the program with a very successful recitation of Will Carleton's "Over the tests. Its superiority in other respects Hill to the Poorhouse." Willis Mc-Elroy pleased all with one of his inimitable cornet solos. John M. Summers, a graduate from Linn county, gave an address on the growth of the movement, which was very instructive. Miss Jenule Booth recited "Angela Ramos" and surprised all by her bitherto unknown skill as an elocutionist. Hon.
