How It Was Received.

Debate in the House Over Cleveland's Message.

On the Hawaiian Question.

Resolutions and Counter-Resolutions introd.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The fight over the Hawaiian master in the house followed hot and feverish on the floor of the rolling message which started out on Monday night and ended yesterday with a final vote of 237 to 54. It is to be expected that the debate will continue uninterrupted tomorrow night after the adjournment and under the rule providing for a quorum of 130 vote to adjourn. The Democratic vote was 209 to 54 and the Republican vote 221 to 0. The message which passed out of the Senate shall be returned to the president of the Senate by the House of Representatives on Wednesday morning.

WASHINGTON.

President Makes Some Important Announcements.

STABLES of new toys, and the Aleuts will have Christmas. But the people of the Hawaiian Islands have been left out of the Christmas holiday program of the Republican national convention, which opens in Washington to-day. The convention has been called to order by the president, who has delivered his annual message to the country, and the policy of the nation shall be laid before the people and the country shall be asked to consider it.

The convention has been called to order by the president, who has delivered his annual message to the country, and the policy of the nation shall be laid before the people and the country shall be asked to consider it.

The convention has been called to order by the president, who has delivered his annual message to the country, and the policy of the nation shall be laid before the people and the country shall be asked to consider it.

The convention has been called to order by the president, who has delivered his annual message to the country, and the policy of the nation shall be laid before the people and the country shall be asked to consider it.

The convention has been called to order by the president, who has delivered his annual message to the country, and the policy of the nation shall be laid before the people and the country shall be asked to consider it.